THE GLOBE.

Huntingdon, Wednesday, May 30, 1860.

LOCAL & PERSONAL.

A GALA DAY.—Friday last, was a gala day among the good citizens of our borough. At an early hour, the "bold soger boys" began to make their appearance, and all was the "wildest excitement." Men, women and children thronged the streets from morning till night. The military companies present, were: The Union Guards, of Petersburg; Scott Infantry, of Huntingdon Furnace; Ringgold Artillery, of Orbisonia; Scott Artillery, of Hare's Valley, and the Jackson Artillery, of McAlvey's Fort. They made a grand show, and behaved like gentlemen .--Gen. Neagley, of Pittsburgh, and one of his aids, were present. The General is a fine looking man, and a brave soldier. He served his country in the Mexican war, and did good service. After marching through the principal streets, the soldiers repaired to West Huntingdon, where they were "put through," and inspected by R. C. McGill, Brigade Inspector, and also reviewed by Gen. Neagley. In the afternoon, after going through the same performance, they proceeded to the Court House, to elect a Colonel and Lieutenant Colonel, which resulted in the election of Andrew Sharrer for Colonel, and Geo. W. Patterson for Lieutenant Colonel.

A tight rope walker arrived in this place on Thursday evening, and announced that he would perform the wonderful feat of walking a rope stretched across the street, on Friday, at one o'clock. He didn't come up to time, however, as the "fancy" would say, for it was half past two before he made his appearance. For fully two hours, the Diamond was crowded with people of all ages, sizes, sex and color, anxiously waiting to see the feat performed. At half past two, all being in readiness, Prof. Nagle made his appearance on the rope, which was stretched from Crouse's Hotel to Jacob Miller's residence, and walked it first forward and then backward. He exhibited a great deal of bold daring and nerve, and seemed to walk with perfect ease; but, as in most other cases, we are afraid he will attempt to walk it once too often.

There was much less drunkenness and rowdyism than is generally carried on upon such occasions, and much less than we anticipated. The masses behaved themselves tolerably well, until about five o'clock, when "minnie rifle" began to take charge of quite a goodly number. We noticed several little brawls, but they all ended in "gas," there not being much disposition shown to fight, except among the regular "fancy," who almost make their living at that and drinking "strychnine."

. HURRAH FOR THE FOURTH OF JULY .- The have not heard one word about it yet. The question is, whether our people will go abroad to celebrate the Fourth, or whether a general fandango will be arranged to come off at home. We might as well have a few hundred people in Huntingdon as not on that day, if arrangements were entered into to entertain them .--We do not believe in leaving a town as pleasant as ours to find fun or expend patriotism on Independence Day, when it can as well take place in our midst. Get out the big drum, stir up the people and arrange a programme for the "glorious Fourth!" Seidlitz powders and torpedoes cost but little, and the man who is not willing to indulge in a "cheap spree" in honor of "American Independence," at least once a year, deserves to be disfranchised from citizenship. And the ladies, the mother and sisters, and the children, want an opportunity to allow the accumulated patriotism of twelve months to escape.

do not see proper to bestir themselves and a sacrifice; but they have lost everything and undertake the management of a celebration. we hope the females will; and we believe they could do it in a more handsome and creditable style than the sterner sex.

A PLEASANT RIDE.—We (local) treated ourself to a visit up to the Broad Top regions on Wednesday last, over the Broad Top Road, under the care and supervision of J. J. Lawrence, Esq., a gentleman of well known abil- he preceded Seward in the announcement of ity, and who understands the business of railroading, perfectly. We found the road in good condition, from beginning to end. (for we went to the "eend," as the Irishman says.) We found Col. Gum Morrison, the same clever, obliging, and accommodating gentleman we have ever known him to be .-Full of fun, and ready to crack a joke at any and all times. Gum is truly the right man in the right place.

The grain crop looks exceedingly well .-All along the road, the wheat and rye crop promise an abundant yield. The corn was just sprouting from mother earth, and looked

A JOVIAL PARTY.—In company with three of earth's fairest creatures, and one typical of old Mr. Adam, we strolled into the woods on Monday afternoon last, and had a gay time. We seated ourselves by the side of a little murmuring stream, and chatted and talked and admired the beautiful scenery which surrounded us on every hand, until our faithful chronometer told us that it was a" walk.

zens J. P. Anderson and John B. Given leave New York on Saturday next, for Europe.-Gen. Jas. Burns of Lewistown, and one or two other gentlemen, also leave in the same steamer. Hope they may have a pleasant tour and return in good health and in time to help to elect Stephen A. Douglas the next President of these United States.

No wonder he looked so proud.-We noticed on Friday last, that Gen. F. H. Lane looked more than usually pleased with himself or somebody else. The secret soon leaked out that his better-half had presented him, at an early hour in the morning, with a "bold soldier boy."

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXHIBITION.—The Methodist Episcopal Sunday School of this place, intend giving an exhibition in their church on Tuesday evening, the 12th of June. We ask for them a liberal attendance, as the proceeds are to be expended for a good purpose.

We had the pleasure of taking our old friend, Col. D. H. Huyett, by the hand, on Friday last, who was circulating around among his friends in this place. He looks hale and hearty, and speaks highly of the western

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.-Mr. Thompson Martin of Walker township, lost a fine mare and spring colt, by lightning on Friday last. They took shelter under a tree during the storm—the tree was struck and the mare and colt instantly killed.

The President and Directors of the H. & B. T. R. R. Co., went over the road on Wednesday last. They were on an exploring expedition, and visited the different mines now in operation.

John Ashman, a respectable citizen of Three Springs, in this county, died at his residence near Scottsville, on Wednesday last, at an advanced age,

The Consequences of the Defeat of Seward at Chicago.

From the N. Y. Herald.]

There is no disguising the fact that everywhere throughout the North the Republicans are filled with deep disappointment at the action of the Chicago Convention in rejecting William H. Seward, an able statesman-the man who created and built up the Republican party. Nowhere is this disappointment more glorious 4th is almost upon us again, and we where a visible gloom hangs over the whole ernment which Mr. Douglas advocates—that keenly felt than in the State of New York, rank and file of the Republican host, whatever some interested leaders may say to the which the colonies revolted from their mother contrary. As for Mr Seward himself, there | country and united in a pledge of "life, libis every reason to believe that he will retire | erty and sacred honor," upon the fearful isfrom public affairs, utterly disgusted with an | sues of war, and over which they triumphed ungrateful party, who knew not how to ap- and achieved for themselves and posterity a preciate his merits or its own situation. Had he been defeated by the democracy, that would be nothing. But to be so wounded in dice the mindsof men against it, but time, the the house of his friends is political death.— impartial arbiter of human acts, will place it Thurlow Weed will probably sell out the Evening Journal and retreat into private life; and many of Seward's personal and influential friends will maintain a sullen reserve and keep aloof from the party, while the general effect upon it will be that the Democrats who joined at the time of Fremont's contest will withdraw and return to the Democracy; so that in a short time there will be nothing left of the great Republican organization but the old abolition rump.

Greeley and Blair intrigued against Seward because they could not bend him to their selfish views. They succeeded in overthrowing him; but with him they have overthrown the party, whose head and front he was. The Republican managers, envious of his superiorty, Speaking of the ladies, if our male citizens and unable to control him, have offered him gained nothing by the course they have pursued. They have lost his ability, statesmanship, and successful prestige in the Empire State, and lost that enthusiasm which the name of the prophet of the higher law would be sure to inspire among his followers, while they will fail to conciliate the conservatism of the Middle States—the ostensible object for which they threw him overboard. The obscurity of Lincoln has been calculated upon as an element of success; but it is known that the "irrepressible conflict," and his language was even more violent than that of the Rochester manifesto. Lincoln, too, is a man who would be more likely to be driven to extremes by his party, if successful, than William H. Seward, whose cool and cautious sagacity would perhaps restrain him within the bounds of moderation, so soon as he reached the summit of his ambition and he felt the weight of a vast responsibility pressing upon his shoulders as President of thirty-three united

In fine, the Republican leaders have done their party such irreparable mischief at Chicago, that it only remains for the Democrats to unite upon a good candidate in order to have a walk over the course in this State, to say nothing of other Northern States, and to carry the election in November by a sweeping majority.

A horrible tragedy was enacted in Franklin county, on Sunday night a week .-An old man named Mason, had a son, who, for some time, had been taking such of the old man's property as he desired and could get hold of. Only the last week he took a horse and some other articles, and on Sunday night demanded the old man's money, and threatened to take his life if it was not given to him. The old man told him he was old. time to return to "ye ancient town," which and needed all he had to support himself and we did, all highly delighted with our "love of wife, and ordered him to go away. It seems the son had not been permitted to enter the house on this occasion, but broke the door to We were visited by another violent effect an entrance, and as he entered he was at sea." Our esteemed friends and fellow citi- History of the Charleston Convention in a Nut-shell. [From the Memphis (Tenn.) Appeal.]

The Yancey secessionists (as they turned out to be) went to Charleston not so much with the hope of obtaining the recognition of any particular principle, as to defeat the nomination of Judge Douglas. They had become pledged against him before their people, and to consent to his nomination was equivalent to admitting their want of forecast, and, with many, to abandon their positions-some of them prominent-in their respective localities. The first movement they made on the chess-board at Charleston was to unite on some statesman—North or South -holding this view or that, it did not much matter which, upon whom the opposition to Douglas might unite to secure his overthrow.

They failed in this, for the obvious reason, as the ballotings will indicate, that the could not concentrate their discordant forces upon any common candidate. Still hoping to beat the "Little Giant," they then addressed themselves to the labor of constructing such a platform as the North and Northwest could not and would not accept, and which, if accepted would certainly defeat Douglas by defeating the Democratic party in all the non-slaveholding States. They failed, too, in this movement, because the real friends of the Democratic organization had a clear and reliable majority, which, if it could not nominate a President by a two-thirds vote, could at least make the basis of the canvass.

Failing in this, the opposition to Douglas became for the most part desperate secessionists, determined to defeat him at any and every hazard, even if it required a disruption of the ties which bound the party together. This was the Yancey secession movement which resulted in taking from the Convention some few entire and some fractional delegations from the Southern States. They hoped thus to break up the Convention and place the Presidential canvass at sea. Fortune favored them less in the movement than any previous one. The Convntion continued in session as usual, apparently little reduced in size. and not a whit in the interest displayed in the nomination; while the Hotspur secessionists looked about as blank as sensible men could pe expected to look after doing a very silly thing which could not well be recalled, or defended before their constituents.

So the Democratic organization has survived the shock of faction, and douglas has outlived his enemies. He is this hour more closely taken to the hearts of the American people than ever before in all his brilliant, trying, and eventful history.

Mississippi.

The Chickasaw (Miss.) Advertiser has no very good opinion of the disunion movements of Yancey & Co. After reading them a severe, though just, lecture for their desertion of the State rights doctrines embodied in the Cincinnati Platform, and for their personal and factitious opposition to Senator Douglas, the Advertiser closes as follows:

Stephen A. Douglas may be defeated, the foundation of this Union may be shaken from center to circumference, yea, it may be sundered, and civil war, like baleful simoon, sweep over the country and drench its hills and vales with fraternal blood, yet these car lamities (which may heaven avert) cannot disprove the truth of that principle of Govprinciple of self-government, in defense of victory which the gratitude of humanity can alone requite. Venal politicians may prejuupon that elevation from which it will be seen to encompass those great principles of free government dear to every American heart. In 1776 the people of our country indorsed it; in 1856 their decendents reindorsed it; but, whether amid the chaos, which in the politics of our country is becoming more confounded, this principle will again be indorsed, is known only to him who knows all things. Indeed the political horizon is dark-lowering clouds are gathering that betoken a storm which the peace of our country cannot survive. In this dark hour of our political adversity we hope the reflecting men of our country will rally and rear them a standard emblazoned with the sacred names of Liberty and Union.

Douglas and the People.

[From the Blairsville Record.] The Democratic meeting in this borough on Friday evening last, was of quite a spirited and decided character; the utmost harmony and good feeling prevailed, and although the persons present came from various sections of this and the adjoining county of Westmoreland, and there had been no previous consultation as to predelictions for any particular candidate, yet there existed but one sentiment, and that was most emphatically in favor of Senator Douglas as the candidate for the next President. They fully endorsed the course of the delegates to the late National Convention, who voted for Mr. Douglas all the time, and urged them to be steadfast and true, and to accept of no compromise candidate. It seems like the extreme of folly any longer to stem the current of popular will; and those who do we fear will be engulphed in polical ruin. The vox populi has proclaimed for the great Illinois Senator, and to be the next President is his manifest destiny.

The Democratic masses will have no other man: with him as the standard-bearer, they will be unconquerable and irresistable. The illustrious champion of Popular Sovereignty has triumphed, and will triumph over all op-The people are thoroughly disgusit to be decided where it belongs-the signs of the times are unmistakable—he who runs may read. GREAT TORNADO AT THE WEST .- Nearly One Hundred Lives Lost .- The Cincinnati papers of Wednesday last, are filled with accounts of the storm which visited that section of the country on Monday. It is sup-posed to have extended from Louisville to Marietta, following the course of the river. The damage done is estimated at $1,000,000. All the towns and villages on the river above Cincinnati have suffered severely. Thirty-six pairs of coal boats, with 900,000 bushels of coal are known to have sunk, and it is feared that nearly 100 lives are lost.

All the steamboats on the river are more or less injured. At Louisville and New Albany the storm was not so disastrous but a great many houses were unroofed and trees and fences blown down. At Louisville two lives were lost, and a number of coal boats sunk.

At Carthage, Ohio, the lunatic asylum suffered a damage of $15,000. Gov. Corwin's residence, at Lebanon Ohio, was unroofed. At Chilicothe the engine house of the Marietta and Cincinnati railroad was unroofed, and F. Garrity, a fireman, killed. Loss to the road $4,000. At Greenfield, Ohio the Methodist church suffered a damage of $6,000, and the Catholic church $300. Dwellings, barns, whole forests of heavy timber, valuable orchards and fences have been prostrated for miles. During the storm the waves in the Ohio river ran very high, and coal, salt and produce boats were sunk in great numbers. The coal alone lost is valued at $75,000 .-The Gazette says:

The storm, as it passed Cincinnati, must have been at least forty miles in breadth, having reached Independence, Ky., on the south and Preble county, Ohio, on the north.

The velocity with which this tornado traveled may be estimated from the fact that it was only about two hours in going from Louisville to Portsmouth, a distance by an air line of 160 miles. When it is borne in mind that this tornado pursued the sinuosities of the river, it will be seen that its speed must have been immensely beyond that of the fastest locomotive ever run.

Making Shoes by Steam.—The Haverhill (Mass.) Publisher gives an account of a steam shoe factory in that place, for sewing the seams and pegging shoes. The machinery is all worked by a small five-horse power engine. In the basement of the building are the machines for cutting, stripping, rolling and shaping the soles. These are then passed to a story above, where the shoes are lasted, and the outer sole tacked on by hand, which process prepares them for pegging .-The pegging machines are simple in their construction and mode of operation, but perform the work with dispatch and accuracy, driving the pegs at the rate of 14 a second. One of the most curious operations of the machine is the manner in which it manufactures the pegs for its own use. A strip of wood of the required width, and neatly laid in a coil one hundred feet in length, is put into the machine, and at every revolution it is moved forward, and a peg cut off and driven into the shoe. The rapidity and unerring accuracy with which these machines perform their work is truly astonishing. After being pegged, the shoes are passed up to the third story, where the bottoms are smoothed, scoured and brushed. The fourth story is occupied by the stitching machines, attended by females, but run by steam, which saves a laborious and fatiguing operation.

A WITTY JAIL BIRD .- A short time ago a man named Crandall made his escape from the Angelica county, N. Y., jail. For the information of the curious, he has lately written back to Angelica, the following account of his escape. It must be very satisfactory to his late custodians. He says:-

"I suppose it is a mystery to some how I got away, consequently I will give you a brief history of my departure. The modus operandi was this: I got out of my cell with ingenuity, ran up stairs with agility, crawled out of the back window in secresy, slid down the lightning rod with rapidity, walked out of the Angelic town with dignity, and am now basking in the sunshine of pleasure and liberty."

BRIDGE BLOWN DOWN.—The bridge of the Chicago and Rock Island railroad, at Rock Island, was blown down by a violent gale of wind last Saturday evening. It was 700 feet long, and the loss is about $20,000.

TESTIMONIALS OF THE CLERGY. "I have given some attention to the 'Biblical Reason Why,' and feel bound to say that it seems to me to contain a vast amount of information on Biblical subjects, conveyed in a clear manner, illustrated by many valuable cuts, and printed on good paper. It constitutes a valuable addition to the apparatus of the Teacher, Parent, and private Christian." Right Rev. ALONZO POTTER, D. D., LL. D.

Bishop of Pennsylvania.

"I have examined the 'Biblical Reason Why,' and find it to be a repartory of facts on Biblical subjects, set forth in a plain and intelligible way. Indeed, I am surprised at the amount of matter that is compressed into this volume. For use in funilies and schools, I consider it the best book of the kind I have seen."

Rev. JOHN McCLINTOCK, D. D., LL. D.,

President of the Troy University, and Pastor of Sl. Paul's Church (Methodist Episcopal.) New York.

"The attention I have given your book satisfies me that it cannot fail to give important aid to all students of the Bible, and especially that large class who have neither time nor means to bestow on larger or more critical works. the plan of your work is excellent, and the matter well chosen. It should have a large circulation. It will certainly be of great use in the study of the Holy Scriptures."
