

THE GLOBE.

Huntingdon, Wednesday, June 13, 1860.

LOCAL & PERSONAL.

One day last week, while a number of small boys were engaged in performing gymnastics, &c., on the railing opposite Fisher & Son's store, one of them accidentally fell off, striking his head on the pavement and bruising it considerably. We remarked to a friend, who had also been observing the performance, and seen the boy fall, that we did not think that he would renew the same performance soon. But we were mistaken; for scarcely had the lad recovered from the shock sustained by the fall, than he was at it again, as earnestly as before. We will not be surprised to hear of some of them being carried home with a broken neck or leg, if they do not desert from such rash performances.

To KEEP FLOWERS FRESH.—It is said that vases of flowers will retain their beauty and fragrance much longer if a little carbonate of soda is dissolved in the water in which they are placed. In this way flowers may be kept fresh and sweet for a fortnight. As this is the season for flowers, and as they aid so much in the beauty and cheerfulness of our homes, we have no doubt that our lady friends will all try the virtues of soda in preserving their choicest bouquets.

Counterfeit gold dollars have become plentiful within the last few months, and so well executed as to deceive one-half of those into whose hands they fall. They should be examined closely. They are of both sizes—the first and last dies. On the small coin, the diminutive word "Liberty," on the cap is omitted. On the larger coin, this word is not upon the genuine. They are all of light weight, and will not bear a careful examination.

In our last week's issue we noticed that an Encampment would be held here on the 24th of September next, providing the citizens could succeed in raising five hundred dollars to defray the expenses, etc. We said that but four hundred had been subscribed; but since then, we have been informed that the required sum has been raised; and so the Encampment will be held in this place.

The Harrisburg Telegraph gives the following recipe to prevent flies from soiling furniture, glasses, etc., and which we advise our readers to try: Take three or four ounces, boil them in a pint of water, and brush the liquid over your furniture, glasses, &c., and the flies will not light on the articles washed. This may be used without apprehension, as it will not do the least injury to them.

UNDER IMPROVEMENT.—We learn that the H. & B. T. R. R. Co. are having the Stoners town bridge braced and otherwise repaired, which, by the way, a very good idea, as it is of enormous height, but perfectly safe.

LUCIOUS STRAWBERRIES.—Dr. H. K. Neff, will please accept our thanks for a plate of very fine Strawberries raised in his garden. They were equal in size to any we saw in the Philadelphia markets a week ago.

Sunday School and family Libraries and all other books published by the American Sunday School Union, furnished to order on application at Lewis' Book Store, where catalogues of Books can be seen.

The fast passenger train, due here at 6 o'clock, A. M., was considerably behind time on Sunday morning last. We have not learned the cause of its detention.

BOUQUETS.—We have another beautiful bouquet from the garden of Mr. A. J. White, presented by Mrs. W. And another left in our absence by some one of our friends.

A BOOK FOR FRUIT GROWERS.—"Downing's Fruits and Fruit Trees of America," revised edition, 1860—for sale at Lewis' Book Store.

MATERIALS FOR FLOWERS, handsomely assorted in boxes, just received and for sale at Lewis' Book Store.

LIFE OF JACOB GRUBER, handsomely bound in cloth, for sale at Lewis' Book Store.

DEBATES OF LINCOLN AND DOUGLAS.—A few copies for sale at Lewis' Book Store.

AMALGAMATION IN LAKE COUNTY.—A White Woman elopes with a full-blooded Negro, deserting her husband and child.—The town of Madison, in Lake county, has been thrown into great excitement by the elopement of a white woman and a full-blooded Negro, which occurrence took place on Sunday night last. The lady is about thirty years old, of more than ordinary intelligence, and of a very fair appearance. Her husband is one of the wealthiest farmers in Lake county. About a year ago he employed a full-blooded Negro. An Abolitionist of the Gerritt Smith school, the farmer took the African into his family on terms of perfect equality. Of late he has noticed, with feelings which we need not attempt to describe, a growing intimacy between his wife and the Negro. He spoke to her about it, but she succeeded in quieting his suspicions for a time. On Sunday night she arose from bed, leaving her husband asleep, and fled with the African. Strange, enough, they did not leave the county, or the town even, only going some five miles from the woman's late home. There they sought shelter at the house of some friends of hers, and there they were at last accounted for. The woman left her young child with its father. The woman assumes a bold face, and says she has a perfect right to run away with a Negro if she wants to, no matter if he be as black as the ace of spades. An Abolition sentiment and an Abolition literature has prevailed in the farmer's house for years. The elopement is the legitimate result.—Cleveland Plain Dealer, 26 ult.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GLOBE.

S. C. June 4, 1860.

Mr. Editor:—Days, weeks, and even months have expired since the preparation of my last production for the columns of that welcome visitor, the Globe. And, truly, it is a welcome visitor, for whenever mail-day approaches, (which is on Friday,) persons are seen turning and returning from the post office. And if you ask them what paper they get, ten out of a dozen will answer, the Globe. Then their faces will brighten as if they had received its size, not size, but weight in gold. Indeed, Mr. Editor, I am under the impression if it improves the year to come, as it has the year gone by, its circulation will be so great that the present number of hands and size of establishment will not be sufficient. But, Mr. Editor, as "enough of anything is enough," I will drop the above subject and proceed with the news of our valley.

Scarcely had the great meteor of day come forth from his golden chamber—the morning I write—till the whole community was thrown in an uproar, caused by a second Heenan and Sayers bullism. Hearing a great disturbance, I arose from my slumbers and soon discovered the cause; for scarcely had I entered the street till females were seen in all directions ensconced beneath the windows and seated in the doors. I looked a little farther and beheld a regular combat taking place on the corner of Arch and 5th streets, two doors below Avenue. This is the second disturbance which has occurred in the village of M— during the last month, and I presume will be the last for awhile, or at least one would think so if they had seen chief officer Cowen taking our citizens to the S. O. there, to testify to the truth and nothing but the truth, etc.

Last Sabbath, Rev. Steel delivered an excellent discourse in the S. C. B. Church, situated a few miles above our village. Text found in the 9th chapter of Isaiah, 5th and 6th stanzas, dwelling considerably on the word WONDERFUL. Rev. S. is an able discourses, and takes into consideration "anything worth doing at all, is worth doing well." After listening attentively to the sermon, and turning my face homeward, I thought how true the inspired pensman wrote—

"Sundays the pillars are
On which heaven's palace arches lie;
On Sunday, heaven's gate stands open,
Blessings are plentiful and free,
More plentiful than hope."

The young men of our village and surrounding neighborhood have at last formed themselves into a society called the Mooreville Senate. Something of this kind we have been wishing for during the last ten months. Likely I shall speak of it again, as I do not wish to "string-out" very long this time.

It is supposed by our valley farmers that the grain, as well as the fruit, will be considerably injured by the wet weather. How necessary 'tis for us to sing, "Hard times come again no more."

From Pike's Peak.

By the arrival of the Overland Pike's Peak Express, we have received Denver City papers to the 23d and 24th ult. The trip was made in six days, and $7,977 52 in gold dust was brought in. The accounts continue favorable. Reports, (says the Rocky Mountain Herald), from the Arkansas, the Blue, Tarryall and other diggings, continue to pour in, and some of them too good to publish. Nevertheless, it is true that the diggings were opening this Spring beyond the most sanguine expectations of the prospectors of last season. J. J. Hendrickson, of Independence, Mo., writes that he has seen two men take out $150 in three fourths of a day, in the California Gulch, which is about eight miles in length, and was discovered about the 16th of April last.

The mining season can now be considered fully commenced, the snow having entirely disappeared and spring at last arrived. The work is now mostly applied to gulch diggings and prospecting. Although leads have, in a measure, been abandoned, it does not prove they are not worth working, but the necessity of having machinery and men of capital to have them properly worked. Gulches yield from $3 to $300 per day to each hand with rockers and sluices, which result can safely be expected all summer.

The Wide World lead with a machine pays over $50 a day per hand.

There are ten quartz mills in operation on Clear Creek, and all making money.

J. H. Gregory has his mill in operation, and with five stamps is taking out $300 each 24 hours run.

Alexander & Co. are taking out from $300 to $500 per day with their mill.

The following account of the Indians we take from the Rocky Mountain News. It is worth perusing:

On Thursday last, the advance guard of a victorious war party of the Arrapahoes returned from their late expedition against the Utes, with four scalps and forty or fifty ponies. They pitched their camp on the Highland side of the river, and straightway commenced a scalp-dance, with all its musical and other accompaniments, which was continued throughout the night.

On Friday there was a large accession to the numbers, and a grand triumphal entry into the city, with music, banners, and hundreds of gayly caparisoned horses and their riders.

Their attack upon the Utes was beyond the Rio Grande in Northern New Mexico. Four scalps were taken and three hundred ponies driven off, but all the ponies were lost or recovered by the Utes before reaching here, except forty or fifty. Over a thousand Indians are now in and around town, among them Little Raven, head chief of the Arrapahoe nation.

It is rumored that, in the recent foray, they attacked and committed gross outrages upon a new settlement beyond the Rio Grande, and that much of the stock said to have been taken from the Utes was mostly stolen from American citizens. If this be true, they deserve sure and speedy punishment. We do not know to how much credit the report is entitled.

The Politicians Still at Work—Another Powder Plot.

[From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

There never has been in the history of this country so palpable a division and so intense a fight between politicians and people as now exists in regard to Senator Douglas. There are none but politicians, and those directly under their influence, who are opposed to him; while the people en masse are for him.—If Douglas ever lives to get through the Baltimore Convention and out of the hands of the politicians, he will be elected by the largest popular vote ever given to a Presidential candidate. But the conspirators at Washington are still determined to "head him or die."

Our Washington Correspondent, whose letter will be found in another part of this paper, gives the outlines of the last developed plot against the "Little Giant." It is a plausible programme and does credit to the political cut-throats engaged in it. If Breckinridge is privy to this plot, as is more or less insinuated, his political grave is dug much deeper than need be to place him beyond the reach of any resurrectionary noise that may be made at the last great day. Mr. Douglas and his friends have never thrown a straw in the way of the promising young Kentuckian, but on the contrary, have labored gallantly and incessantly for his promotion. So far from conspiring with the enemies of Mr. Douglas, or even remaining silent in a crisis like this, Mr. B. should be the first to throw himself into the breach for the people's candidate. This is what Douglas did for him in '56. It would be doing no more than justice to a great man in a great cause, and would vindicate the claims of Kentucky to the boldness, gratitude and acknowledged chivalry of her genuine sons. Besides, Mr. Breckinridge is a young man. He has a promising future before him. He must not forget that the main strength of the Democratic Party, the future greatness and glory of the country is centering and culminating in this "Empire of the West," and that the future honors of this Republic will be controlled by the enlightened masses within her border.

We of the West claim to be not only a mighty but a magnanimous people. We never have had a President. We offer to the North and to the South a candidate now, on whom the people in every part of the Union can unite; a tried statesman, a true Democrat, and a National man; and we here in behalf of the laboring men of the West, the Democratic masses, "men who work all day and sleep all night," give notice to all concerned, that now as in future we intend to "ask for nothing but what is right and shall submit to nothing wrong."

The political conspirators against Stephen A. Douglas, North and South, will do well to make a note of this. It is the determined will and recorded judgment of half a million of Democratic voters in these seven North-western States. We intend no menace, but a determination to stand by our rights. We are no longer to be trifled with, nor shall cotton conspirators or political tricksters rule our people.

Bigler's Defence.

Senator Bigler has written a letter to D. W. Moore, Esq., of Clearfield county, in which he attempts to justify his determined opposition to the wishes of the people of the State he in part was selected to represent at Charleston. He denies that he favored the secession movement, as charged against him and others of the Pennsylvania delegation, but admits that "many of us had determined, and had not hesitated to say" that had "the remainder of the Southern States, failing to have their ultimatum accepted by the Convention," seceded from that body, they would have refused "to participate any longer in the proceedings of the Convention." In other words: had the other Southern delegates bolted, they would have bolted also. We desire to do Gov. Bigler no injustice, nor to question his right to an individual preference of a candidate for President; but representing as he does a State whose people he well knows desire the nomination of Douglas, he was in honor and duty bound to surrender his personal preference, smother his personal hatred and yield to the wishes of the Democracy of his State. As an honorable man he can no longer refuse to give Douglas his support. If his animosity against him will not permit him to discharge his duty, he should at once resign and let his place be filled by some one who cares more for the success of the party than for the favors and smiles of James Buchanan.

We fear that our Senator, however, means to again disregard the wishes of his constituents. We have but little to hope of him. We think that he is already aware of the fact that he has dug a very deep political grave for himself and expects an outraged people ere long to perform the burial rites. No public man can act as Gov. Bigler acted at Charleston without incurring the indignation of his constituents. Would that he and those he controlled in the Pennsylvania delegation, had followed the fire-eater Yancey and his coadjutors out of the Convention. They would not now be outside of the organization or the Democratic party in feeling only, but in fact also, and their places would have been filled by men at Baltimore who adhere to the principles as well as to the organization of the party.

From the course of Bigler, Dawson & Co., at Charleston, public men can learn a very important lesson. It is this: the representative who places himself above, and assumes to be independent of, his constituents, and does the bidding of others instead of those who elected him, forfeits the respect and confidence of the masses of his party and must, sooner or later, reap the reward of his treachery.—Perry County Democrat.

A locomotive recently ran away on the West Cornwall line in England. The throttle valve having been inadvertently left open, and a fire kindled in the furnace, the attendant went away for a few moments; on his return it had left town, and only ran out of breath at a station some sixteen miles distant, having rushed down some steep inclines, and over sharp curves, at a rate of over sixty miles an hour. It tore up and smashed through a large number of gates, but with this exception did no damage whatever, and was quietly led back to its stall without having been made particularly vicious by its tricks, in which particularly it manifested another decided improvement of steam over horse.

HOG PACKING.—The total number of hogs packed in Cincinnati this season amounts to 438,051 head. That is an excess of any previous year. At Terra Haute, Ind., the packing this season is estimated at 45,000 hogs.—This is also an increase.

The Prevailing Cattle Distemper.

[From the New York Herald, 6th.]

The "pleuro pneumonia," or cattle distemper, which originated in Massachusetts, and caused much consternation and alarm among farmers and cattle breeders, has developed itself in New Jersey. In all the cases examined, the ravages were confined to the respiratory organs; in some cases the right and in others the left lung had been the seat of the disease, and in every one involving the whole mass of lung with its covering, and extending from it to the lining membrane of the ribs. The appearance of the bronchial tubes gave evidence of participation in the disease from extension to them, from the substance of the lung, disorganization or structure being found alone in the lungs and its coverings.

SYMPTOMS OF THE DISEASE.—Loss of appetite, hanging of the head, and, as the disease progresses, an extension of the head—bright and watery eye, mouth dry, breath hot—breathing quick, with more or less agitation of the flanks, with an occasional cough, always dry; more or less thirst; horns and ears hot. The quick and occasional cough, coupled with great prostration of strength, more particularly marks the disease. The ear applied to the side of the lungs readily detects the important to free circulation of air through the lungs, from the violent congestion that exists.

ANTIDOTE.—Burn tar freely in the barn or shed two or three times a day, and let the cattle inhale it, but every other day; let them lap freely of salt every two days; dissolve chlorate of potassa in water, wash their nostrils and mouth and rub them all over with a course brush wet in the same; sprinkle chloride of lime in and about the stables; give the cattle a few onions if they can be procured, and plenty of sound vegetables and fresh grass and water; no hay if it can be avoided.

Physicians assert that the disease is one of exhaustion, and analogous to the typhoid pneumonia, which occasionally prevails epidemically among the human race.

The value of the grape crop of California for the year 1860, is $5,000,000.

HARRIED.

At Mt. Union, on the 5th ult., by John Baker, Esq., Mr. Thomas A. Postelway, of Millin county, to Miss Nancy R. Stevens, formerly of this county.

On Thursday, the 31st ult., by Rev. G. W. Bone, Mr. Thomas H. Helling, to Miss Eliza Long, both of Shirley township.

PHILADELPHIA MARKETS.

MONDAY, June 11.—Flour.—There is no change to notice in the Flour market—the demand being limited both for shipment and home consumption. Sales of 200 bbls standard brands at $5 50 @ $6 bbl and 1000 bbls extra family on terms not made public. The sales to the trade range from our lowest figure up to $6 for common and extra family brands, and $6 50 @ $7 50 for Flour is sold at $2 87 1/2 @ $3 00 @ $3 12 1/2 @ $3 25 @ $3 37 1/2 @ $3
