

THE GLOBE.

Huntingdon, Wednesday, June 20, 1860.

LOCAL & PERSONAL.

THE STOLEN JEWELRY BROUGHT TO LIGHT.—On Friday evening last, while a number of boys were bathing in the mill race, above town, one of them felt something sharp pierce his foot, and on stooping down to ascertain the cause, discovered it to be a lady's breast pin; and on searching further, found jewelry in abundance. As a natural consequence, the news soon spread, and, in a moment's time, the race was surrounded by a host of boys and girls. The boys immediately rolled up their pants and waded into the stream—all appearing to be very successful in obtaining a goodly share of the glittering gold. (?) The jewelry is evidently the same that was stolen from Mr. Colon's store, some three weeks since, and supposed to be thrown into the race by the thief or thieves, from fear of detection. Every youngster in town is now sporting a breast full of brass jewelry.

TAKING THE CENSUS.—The gentlemen who are engaged in taking the Census are frequently subjected to vexations and detentions, on account of the ignorance or obstinacy of many persons who refuse to give their name, age, &c. We know of an instance, in this county, and not a great distance from here, in which an old lady refused to give the desired information. He informed her that he must have it; whereupon she became very angry, and threatened to put him out of the house, if he did not leave immediately. He went out, but returned again, however, and informed her that he would force the law if she did not immediately comply with his commands. At last, she gave the information—told him to go about his business, ordered him out of the house, and closed the door on his back.

HARD BUTTER WITHOUT ICE.—To have delightfully hard butter in summer, without ice, the plan recommended by that excellent and useful publication, the Scientific American, is a good one. Put a trivet, or any open flat thing with legs, in a saucer; put on this trivet the plate of butter, fill the saucer with water, turn a common flower-pot upside down over the butter, so that its edge shall be with in the saucer and under the water. Plug the hole of the flower-pot with a cork, then drench the flower-pot with water, set in a cool place until morning, or if done at breakfast the butter will be very hard by supper time. How many of our town school girls, who have been learning philosophy, astronomy, syntax and prosody, can write an explanation of this within a month.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—A young daughter of Mr. Pope met with a serious accident on the Pa. R. R., about a mile above this place, on Saturday evening last. As the cars stopped at this place, some person thoughtlessly placed the child on the platform of the cars, thinking, perhaps, that her father, who was in the cars at the time, would take her off as he came out. But, unfortunately, however, he went out of the opposite door, and, of course, did not observe it. The cars started off, the child remaining on the platform, and when about a mile above town, fell off, fracturing her skull, and otherwise injuring herself. She was carried home insensible. The child was still living at the time we write, (Monday,) but little hope is entertained of its recovery.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXHIBITION.—According to previous announcement, the scholars of the Methodist Sunday School gave an Exhibition in the M. E. Church, on last Tuesday evening a week. The exercises consisted of speeches, dialogues, and songs, by those connected with the school, and music by the String Band.—All who embraced this favorable opportunity of listening to the scholars expressed themselves highly delighted, as indeed they could not otherwise be. The Church was literally crowded, and the seats were not sufficient to accommodate half that were in attendance.

MUSIC.—We are happy to inform the public, that Prof. H. Coyle's class of young ladies, misses and lads, will give a grand entertainment, on the 28th and 29th of the present month, at the Court House in this place. Judging from the abilities of those concerned, we have no hesitation in saying that the affair will be one well worth the patronage of all lovers of the art. The entertainment will be interspersed with music on the violin, by a class of boys, that evince a natural talent. The selection for the occasion, cannot help giving entire satisfaction.

THEFT.—A young Englishman, called the "Pot Boy," and pretending to be a boxing-master and prize-fighter, entered the office of Wilson & Petrekin, during their absence, on Friday afternoon last, and took from the safe fifteen dollars, and fled. A warrant was immediately placed in the hands of the constable for his apprehension, and search instituted; but at the time we write, (Monday,) no arrest has been made, nor has he since been heard of.

TO DESTROY FLIES.—To one pint of milk add a quarter pound of raw sugar, and two ounces ground pepper; simmer them eight or ten minutes, and place it about in shallow dishes. The flies attack it greedily, and are soon suffocated. By this method, kitchens, &c., may be kept clear of flies all summer without the danger attending poison. We copy this from an anonymous source. It is easily tried; and if effective, will be valuable.

THANKS.—The M. E. Sunday School Society tender to Prof. Hugh Coyle, their heartfelt thanks for the kind and efficient service, rendered by him, in the getting up, and performance of the musical part of the S. S. Exhibition held in the M. E. Church, on the evening of the 12th inst.

The Society also extend their thanks to the "Home String Band," for their kindness in discoursing their pleasing and highly entertaining music on the same occasion.

S. L. M. CONSER, Pres't. JOHN F. CONRAD, Sec'y. Huntingdon, Pa., June, 1860.

MORE STRAWBERRIES.—On Saturday last, we were presented with a large dish of magnificent strawberries by Mr. T. H. Cremer, which were raised in his own garden.—They were by odds, the finest specimen of this fruit we have seen this season. The editor being absent, and not expected to return in time to help us "put away" this delicious fruit, and as we have had a good share of it, we feel it our duty to tender Mr. C. our humble thanks, which we hope he will accept.

STYE ON THE EYELID.—A correspondent sends us the following remedy, which, she says, she can vouch for: "Put a teaspoonful of black tea in a small bag; pour on it just water enough to moisten it; then put it on the eye pretty warm. Keep it on all night, and in the morning the sty will most likely be gone; if not, a second application is certain to remove it."

FOURTH OF JULY.—An Excursion train will leave Huntingdon at 9 o'clock, A. M., for Broad Top City, arriving in time for dinner, returning same evening. The Excelsior Brass Band has been engaged for the occasion, and a pleasant time may be expected. Tickets $1.25 for round trip.

"Something to be proud of—the Argus Cubs." So says the Greensburg Argus. Something to be prouder of—the Globe "Cubs,"—at least the girls appear to think so, any-k-how." The editor is absent, and so we take this favorable opportunity of puffing ourselves up to thunder. Hurrah for "LIBERTY!"

THE LARGEST.—Esq. Snare has presented us with a strawberry raised in his garden, measuring 3 3/4 inches. Two or three quarts of the same size, with cream, would be easy to take.

Strawberries promise to be very plenty this season, and it is thought they will be so cheap that printers and other people can buy them. This luscious fruit is selling in Baltimore for four cents a box.

Sunday School and family Libraries and all other books published by the American Sunday School Union, furnished to order on application at Lewis' Book Store, where catalogues of Books can be seen.

The Pennsylvania Railroad are selling tickets to the Baltimore Convention, at half the usual rate, good from June 16th to June 31st, inclusive.

Somebody says: "It is better to die poor than to live upon the hard earnings of the unsuspecting." Broken banks don't believe in that kind of philosophy.

The editor has been absent from his post for two weeks—he is now at Baltimore. The Globe is in charge of the young men of the office.

ANOTHER.—On Thursday last we received from our neighbor, Mrs. Massey, a most magnificent bouquet. We don't believe it can be beat—who'll try.

A BOOK FOR FRUIT GROWERS.—"Downing's Fruits and Fruit Trees of America,"—revised edition, 1860—for sale at Lewis' Book Store.

Slander about Women. We adopt the following "hints," which we find floating around at random on the sea of newspaperdom as a genuine "home item," and we wish all our readers may suffer them to be ever present in their memories. We have probably, all of us met with instances in which a word heedlessly spoken against the reputation of a female, has been circulated by malicious minds until the clouds have become dark enough to overshadow her whole existence. To those who are accustomed—not necessarily from bad motives, but from thoughtlessness—to speak lightly about females, we recommend this "hint" as worthy of consideration:

"Never use a lady's name at an improper time, or in mixed company. Never make assertions about her that you think are untrue, allusions that you feel she herself would blush to hear. When you meet with men who do not scruple to make use of a woman's name in a reckless and unprincipled manner, shun them, for they are the worst members of a community—men lost to every sense of honor and worthy woman's character. Many a good and worthy woman's character has been forever ruined, and her heart broken, by a forever manufactured by some villain, and repeated where it should not have been, and in the presence of those whose little judgment could not deter them from circulating the foul and bragging report. A slander is soon propagated, and the smallest thing derogatory to a woman's character will fly on the wings of the wind, and magnify as it circulates, until its enormous weight, crushes the unconscious victim. Respect the name of woman; for your mother and sisters are women; and you would have their fair names tarnished, and their fair lives unembittered by slander's bitter tongue, heed the ill that your own words may bring upon the mother, sister or wife of some other fellow creature."

To-morrow—the longest day this year.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

CASSVILLE, June 11, 1860. DEAR GLOBE.—The light of your smiling countenance greeted me for the first time, in the classic shades of Cassville, on Wednesday evening last. Oh! how my heart leaped for joy. A sweet messenger from home, as it were.

Cassville is pleasantly situated in a small, but romantic valley, near the base of two mountains. It contains four stores, two blacksmith shops, two potteries, one tavern, three churches, three or four shoemaker shops, and about fifty dwelling houses. The town presents rather an ancient appearance, and if I may be allowed to express an opinion, I think that it has come to maturity. I find the inhabitants to be kind and courteous, and spare no pains to make a stranger sojourning with them feel comfortable.

The Cassville Seminary is in a flourishing condition. Quite a number of students from abroad are in attendance. The Principal, Mr. Walsh, is a ripe scholar, a gentleman in every sense of the word, and deserves to be liberally patronized. The Assistant Principal, Mr. Hughes, is also an excellent scholar, and neither spares pains nor trouble, to teach "the young idea how to shoot." The buildings are well adapted to the purpose for which they were intended. To sum the whole up in a word, this is the place for those who wish to study. The scenery is wild and romantic, and rather pleasing to one who is an admirer of the works of nature. Shut out from the whole world, as it were, there is nothing to attract the eye or divert the mind, except the beauties of nature and the smiling faces of Cassville's fair daughters, who, by the way, are as robust and healthy a looking set, as I have seen for many a long day. But to an individual like your correspondent, who is proof against the winning smiles and artful manoeuvres of the fair one ones, their charms are lost in the admiration of Bullion's Grammar and Quackenbos Course of Composition and Rhetoric.

I must confess I feel somewhat lost here.—The shrill scream of the locomotive is never heard. The toot-a-toot of the boat-horn and familiar words, "Lock ready," are lost in the deep silence of the forests which intervene between this place and the great line of public improvements.

Very little interest, (or apparently so,) is manifested here, in regard to politics. However, I am inclined to the opinion that Douglas is decidedly in the ascendancy, from the fact, that while passing along one of the streets the other evening, I observed the following notice attached to a fence, bearing these significant words: "No North, no South, no East, no West, but Douglas, Foster, and the Union!" The idea was expressive of good taste, at least.

The weather—that inexhaustible topic—was playing all sorts of pranks last week.—It was rain, rain, rain, nearly all the time, intermingled with thunder and lightning. The grain crops promise a plentiful yield. The wheat and rye fields present a beautiful sight. The corn and oats crops are coming on finely, and from appearances, also promise an abundant harvest. May it be realized.—More anon.

Yours fraternally, Ex-Reporter.

P. S.—I am informed that several candidates have been here already, urging their claims to the different offices to be voted for this fall.

MOORESVILLE, June 13, 1860. MR. EDITOR:—In perusing the columns of the Shirelysburg Herald, of last week, I discovered the production of a correspondent from Mudville, who names himself Velazquez, Jr. Now, as far as I can understand, the Mudville he has reference to, is our own beautiful little village of Mooresville. Why he called it the above name—I am unable to answer; but I presume it was owing to the great quantity of mud surrounding it during the rainy season—which of course was found in abundance everywhere. During dry weather, we have streets as free from mud as any other village or town in the county. 'Tis true, South St., at the lower end of the village, remains a little disagreeable for a few days after a tremendous shower. But, taking all things into consideration, the village is well laid out, (for wet weather,) being considerably elevated. Therefore, I consider Mudville a very inappropriate name. But again he says, "It appears as if it was rotting off at both ends, and not growing much in the middle." Well now, I do not see how he can make such a charge. Does Velazquez really pretend such is the case? If so, let him answer in his next. As far as the growing in the middle is concerned, I will coincide with him, because our village consists of two ends. The one called the upper and the other the lower end. The middle is uninhabitable. But as for the ends rotting off, I am able to say is a mistake; and would tell Velazquez, Jr., the next time he undertakes to view or inspect our village, to look a little sharper, or else put on his "specks." Further comments upon V.'s production I consider unnecessary.

Last Friday evening the Mooresville Senate met in the college building, one door south of the Institute, and set for three long successive hours. There being no regular business before the house, Stewart F. Thompson, M. D., of this place, was called upon to address the vast multitude of people. Mr. Thompson arose, amid enthusiastic cheering and tremendous stamping, and entertained the audience satisfactorily, for about one hour. His address consisted chiefly of the government of our glorious republic. He cited back to the youthful days of Washington—when he occupied the Presidential chair, and followed up until he reached the present administration. The picture he represented was grand and picturesque.

Mr. Thompson, though young, is a gentleman of high intellectual abilities. He is a lover of freedom. He fights for truth and right, and if he is not able to accomplish his political designs with the tongue, he can do it with the pen.

More anon, YRRAH.

POISONOUS LIQUORS.—The following is the result of an analysis, made by Dr. Griffith, of some liquors which were presented to him for examination: Wm. Lewis—I have within the last few days examined chemically a few samples of Whisky, Brandy, Gin, Ale and Lager Beer, and did not find any one pure, all containing more or less drugs of the most noxious and poisonous character. The Liquors were presented to me for inspection by an individual whose name at present I am not at liberty to give; in the name of justice let us have pure liquor when we feel like using it as a beverage or for other purposes. The Alcohol alone is sufficient without the admixture of some of the most deleterious drugs. Can there be nothing done to prevent this wholesale poisoning with drugs suspended in water, and palmed off on the unsuspecting, under the fascinating colors of old Bourbon, and French Brandy, of the finest brand, &c.

J. S. GRIFFITH.
