TERMS OF THE GLOBE.

Per annum in advance.....$1 50 Six months ... 73 50 Three months A failure to notify a discontinuance at the expiration of the term subscribed for will be considered a new engage

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Six lines or less,
5 months of months of months is 0 mon Six lines or less, ... Professional and Business Cards not exceeding four lines,

Political.

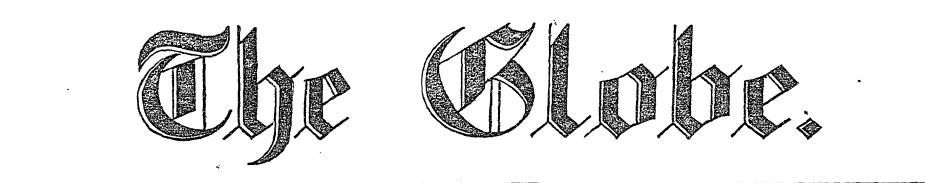

[From the Bedford Gazette.] To the Democratic Party.

It is, no doubt, already known to you that the late National Convention at Charleston and Baltimore, nominated Stephen A. Douglas, of Illinois, for President, and H. V. John-son, of Georgia, for Vice President. It is also, known that a portion of the Convention seceded and nominated John C. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, for President and Joseph Lane, of Oregon, for Vice President. Having been present at both sessions of the Convention. and a spectator of all that transpired, I propose to give a few of the reasons why I regard the nomination of Douglas and Johnson as the regular nomination of the party, entitled to its universal support, and that of Breckinridge and Lane as irregular and disorganizing, meriting no favor at the hands of any Democrat, but, on the contrary, as justly deserving the hearty condemnation of the whole

Under the regular call of the National Committee, acknowledged by every Democrat in the United States, and in conformity with the universal custom of the party, the Convention assmbled at Charleston, on the 23d of April, 1860. After a preliminary organization, made without objection from any quarter, it was found that there was one contested seat from the State of Massachusetts, one from Maryland, eleven from Illinois and thirtyfive from New York. These cases were referred to a Committee of thirty-three members, being one from each State.

After a careful and patient investigation by the Committee, a report was made to the Convention. This was unanimous in every case, except that of New York. Six members of the committee made a minority report recommending the admission of one half of each delegation from that State. The report of the committee was adopted by the Convention after a full discussion. The vote in every case, except New York, was unanimous .-- $210\frac{1}{2}$ to 55.

sentatives of the United States were adopted for the government of the Convention. This | Convention had voted for and acknowledged was done by the entire vote of the Convention the rule which declared that the Convention a case at law, or in equity, as well as the to vote for Judge Douglas. These added to while it contained in all 54. In addition to tion. The rule requiring two thirds of the should judge of the qualifications of its own constitutionality of the supposed law, is com- the 74 were more than sufficient to prevent these 20 delegates, the nomination was ratinomination, was also

WILLIAM LEWIS,

VOL. XVI.

HUNTINGDON, PA., JULY 25, 1860.

---PERSEVERE.

adopt "Intervention" instead of "Non-In-Before proceeding to a ballot, a proposition was offered on behalf of some of the Southern States remaining in the Convention, to the effect that the President of the Convention should not declare any person nominated until such person should have received a two-thirds vote of the whole Convention when full .--This was adopted by a vote of 141 to 112 .--It was not offered as a rule, or as a change the tenth day of the Convention, at Charleston, having failed to make a nomination and ton, having failed to make a nomination and affective seen was a simple re-amritation of the local body nostile to the Democratic party the 51 seats being vacant, the Convention ad-journed to meet at Baltimore, on the 18th of ers desired the convention to declare in fa-June, having first passed a resolution request- vor of Congressional Intervention in favor to the State Convention which elected the Se-June, having first passed a resolution requesting the Democratic party of the several States | slavery in the Territories. The same doc- | ceders were chosen and the speeches made to supply vacancies in their respective delegations.

On the 18th of June, the Convention re-assembled, at Baltimore. No delegates appeared from South Carolina and Florida .---One delegation appeared from Mississippithese were the Seceders at Charleston, but having been re-elected by a State Convention, they were admitted. One delegation (the Seceders) appeared from Texas. This was not elected by the people, or by any Convention, but was accredited by the State Central Committee .--Owing to the position of Texas-her large size and great distance from the Convention, and difficulty of calling a Convention, this delegation was also admitted.

There was one contested seat from Massachusetts, one from Missouri, one from Delaware, three from Arkansas, six from Louisiana, nine from Alabama and ten from Geor-These were referred to the Committee gia. on Credentials, then consisting of twenty-five members.

This committee, after a session of several days reported by an average vote of about fifteen to ten, in favor of the admission of the Seceders from Delaware, two Seceders and one new delegate from Arkansas, the new delegates from Alabama and Louisiana, and one-half of each from Georgia. The report of the committee was adopted in every case, the subject of slavery commenced. But the this number deduct 16 Seceders whose places except that of Georgia, in which all of the That part of the report relating to the New Seceders were admitted. By this action of York Delegation, was adopted by a vote of the Convention, seventeen, votes were admitted to the Convention contrary to the views This completed the organization of the Con-vention. The Rules of the House of Repre-way effect the result of the nomination, even if wrong, and although every member of the clared before the Committee on Credentials Cain. Though not a murderer of his kin, he that he had opposed General Cass in 1848, would be a murderer of principle and of the to obtain a recognition of his doctrine by would be more than the assassin who but the nominating Conventions. Time will not takes the life of a fellow man." permit a further examination of this reason | Others declared "that to entertain the propfor the secession. It was upon a question of osition to send delegates to Baltimore, would doctrine-one of the cardidal principles of be at once to step with a coward's tread from the party. The Convention stood upon the the highest pinnacle of honor to the lowest same ground occupied in former times, ad-hering to the Cincinnati platform. The Se-ceders demanded a change and because it was refused, withdrew. The Republicans of be bound by the action of our Convention.— Was refused to be bound by the action of our Convention. same ground occupied in former times, ad- | depths of degradation and abasement." duty of Conrgess to intervene against slavery Under these circumstances, the Convention in the Territories-the Seceders declare that deemed it wise to learn whether the great it is the right and duty of Congress to inter- horse contained soldiers who were allies, or vene in favor of slavery in the Territories .-- enemies, before it should be safely stabled

The Convention regarded both propositions | within the gates of Troy. I have before stated as erroneous in principle, and adhered to the that the admission of the 17 delegates already old doctrine of the party that it belonged to named, did not affect the general result. I the people to regulate their domestic affairs have shown that on the vote given. I now in their own way, subject only to the Con-stitution of the United States. True, there was, to some extent, a difference of opinion ded. Of these South Carolina and Florida reas to the time when the right to legislate on mained at Richmond. This left 90. From Convention, by an almost unanimous vote, were supplied by new delegates, and we still disposed of this subject, by a resolution de-claring it the duty of all good citizens to abide by the decisions of the Supreme Court sume their seats. There remained in the upon this question. The right to hold slave property in the Convention 2½ from Maine, 2½ from Connec-ticut, 4½ from New Jersey, 17 from Pennsyl-Territories, even against an enactment of the vania, 31 from Missouri, 2 from Delaware, Territorial legislature, involving as is does, | and 7 from Kentucky, in all 39, who declined

In the State of Alabama, the delegation | was adopted. It was fully considered and tervention" by Congress with the question admitted to seats, were chosen by a State discussed in committee, and passed by a vote of slavery in the territories. Second the de- Convention called together by the people, of 25 to 2. In the convention it was again sire among the friends of the Seceders, if " for the purpose of appointing delegates to fully discussed and adopted by a vote of 197 to 1033. Indeed, the chief, if not the only argument against it, was that it was unnecessary, as the right to cast such votes already existed. This rule received the votes of Kentucky, Tennessee, half of Deleware. nearly all of Missouri and Arkansas, part of North Carolina and several other delegates who afterwards seceded. But aside from this, it wasright initself. It provided that in cases of instruction so to do, Delegations should vote as a unit. In other cases, delegates should be allowed to vote for themselves. trine was demanded by Mr. Yancey, of Ala- at those meetings, were almost entirely of a ted to. When a gentleman accepts the trust bama. from the Baltimore Convention in character hostile to the Democratic party .-under instructions, he does not represent 1848. He there obtained 36 votes for it to One of their orators (and a Delegate) said of himself, but his State. He has no individual 216 against it. He demanded it in 1852 and the Baltimore Convention, that "the man views and if he had, he is in honor bound to failed to obtain it. I learn that Mr. Yancey | who would represent Alabama in that Consuppress them. Any other course of action who headed the Secession at Charleston, de- vention should be branded with the brand of by the individual, or by the convention, would conflict with State rights and State sovereignty. This method made N. York, Ohio and Inand General Pierce in 1852, because he failed | constitutional rights of his section, that he | diana unanimous for Douglas, and Georgia, Aladama, Mississippi and Louisiana unanimous against him. On the other hand, in all cases where the State conventions had neglected or refused to instruct, the delegates were allowed to vote as they saw fit. Any other course would Carolina, one in Tennessee and one in Virginia. It lost him 3 in Maiue, 21 in Connecticut and 13 in Minnesota. Maryland, Missouri and Massachusetts, being equally divided, were not affected by the Rule. All these, however, appear to me to be objections hunted up, on purpose, by men de-termined in advance to be dissatisfied, and going abroad in search of reasons to justify or bolster up as far as possible their course of action. Half the effort to find reasons in favor of the action of the national convention of their party, and in support of its nominees, would lead to a very different result. Not only have we the regular nomination of the National Convention to urge us to the support of Douglas & Johnson, but we have also the action of our own delegation. Mr. Douglas received 10 votes on both ballots at Baltimore from our Delegation. This required twenty members of our Delegation, fied by several others of the delegation-take the lead ; and when it abjectly waits to receive instructions from those who are in fact its creatures, it compromises its influence, and very properly forfaits the respect of the public.

And had the Democratic press of the North hitherto spoken out in plain terms against the ruinous doctrines of Southern fire-eaters; slavery extensionists, and disunionists, which have been thrust upon the party as its political faith, we would not have been compelled to witness in this section of the Union that wholesale stampede from our ranks which has reduced us to a minority in the North, and has swollen the ranks of the Republicans until they threaten to overwhelm us. And if we continue our abject subserviency to the slavery domination, yielding to its every demand, and asking nothing more than to be its menials; past experience is sufficient to convince us that in a very short time there will not be Democrats enongh in the North to elect a township constable. The fight for Douglas is not merely for principle, but it is for the existence of our party.

There is a Parallel.

The advocates of the disunion ticket tell us John C. Breckinridge is no secessionistthat his opinions and sentiments are fervent lantry as a soldier, his talents as a man, his once popularity as a Democratic citizen, and to his distinguished position of Vice President, as overwhelming proofs of what they so exultingly aver. John C. Breckinridge was once a patriot, and might have execrated as much as any man those who would raise their felon hand against the unity of these States. But, has he not banded himself with secessionists ?---Has he not compromised the historic past of his own family by lending himself to the traitorous aims and ambitious aspirations of Southern disunionists ? Is he not the chosen candidate of that Southern Lucifer, whose aim for years has been to disrupt the great Democratic party and "precipitate the cotton States into a revolution ?" who, after his secession from the Charleston Convention, is said to have declared that in that city, with the associations of Calhoun clustering around them, was the proper place, and that the time to inaugurate a Southern Confederacy : and who, in his speech at the Bolters' Convention at Baitimore, proclaimed that because the Congress of the United States had admitted to the sisterhood of States the sovereign State of California, in derogation as he thought of Southern rights, he was prepared to break up this mighty Confederacy, sanctified by the patriotism of our Washington, and the last best hope of oppressed humanity throughout the world? It will not do to say that this man is not their exponent. Was he not their leader in secession at Charleston, their chief counsellor at Baltimore and Richmond? And all know that in their meetings and conventions, their banner cry has been "Yancey ! Yancey !" John C. Breckinridge, say of him what you will, is banded with disunionists. He has his parallel in our own brief history as a nation.

A son of clerical ancestry, of brilliant talent, at an early age conspicuously and bravely participated in the struggle of the revolution. He was brought into intimate soldiery relations with Washington. He took part in the heroic daring and suffering of the little American army that invested Quebec, and when the brave Montgomery fell, dying at the base of its craggy heights, this young man, not among themselves, to bring about a dis-solution of the Union itself. Third, the per-timore, to nominate candidates who may be sonal hostility of some of these gentlemen, able to save the Government from the hands and others high in authority, towards Judge of these who will not regard our constitution-Douglas. These propositions shall also be al rights, and be the means of securing the of the rules, but simply as a resolution of briefly considered. The first secession of 51 perpetuity of the Constitution and the Union." The Seceders from this State, were rejected. The tenth day of the Convention, at Charles- adoption of the Platform. This we have already seen was a simple re-affirmation of tion-a body hostile to the Democratic party unanimously adopted, as was a rule requiring a two-third vote of the Convention to alter or amend the Rules of the Convention. Every Congressional District in the United States and every State at large, was now fully represented. There was not a single vacancy. The Convention consisted of 303 members, and continued in session for several days, every member participating in the proceedings.

Two principles of Legislative, or Parliamentary law, may be here stated, as they have important bearings upon the regularity of the nomination now being considered. First: Every Legislative Body shall judge of the qualifications of its own members. Second: A majority shall constitute a Quorum for the transaction of business.

It is confidently asserted that both of these propositions are clearly established by the common law on the subject, in all civilized countries, unless some statute should provide otherwise. But in this case we are not only left to the common law, but have also the statute. The Convention, as we have seen. adopted the Rules of the House of Representatives. By these both of the propositions above stated, are clearly maintained. Indeed, it could not be otherwise, as the Constitution of the United States declares the same rules in the fifth section of the first Article thereof.

With the first of these propositions every member of the Convention was fully satisfied. because every one acquiesced in the decision of the Convention and remained to participate in the further proceedings thereof. The second proposition embraces two parts ; to wit, that a majority shall constitute a Quorum and that less than a majority shall not constitute such Quorum. Here it will be well to remember that every member of the whole Convention, including the subsequent Seceders, or Bolters, voted for the adoption of these rules.

The Convention continued in session with its 303 members, until the seventh and eighth days. At this time, some of the delegates became dissatisfied with the Platform adopted by the Convention, and for this reason and for this alone, fifty-one members withdrew from the Convention, separated finally and entirely from it, met in another part of the city and attempted to organize another Convention in opposition to the one they had left. This they adjourned to Richmond .--Most, if not all of you, have always held that every gentleman who agrees to enter a Convention, is in honor bound to abide by its decisions and support its nominees. These gentlemen, however, seemed to have adopted a different course.

As already stated, the ground and the only ground, of this secession was the Platform adopted by the Convention. You will, doubtless, feel anxious to know the character of the Platform which could thus drive off oncsixth of the members of the Convention. I think you will credit me when I assure you that it was the identical creed of the party in 1844—1848 the compromise measures of 1850 -the Platform of Pierce, in 1852, the Kansas Nebraska Act of 1854, and the Cincin-nati Platform, of 1856. The Convention reaffirmed the Cincinnati Platform, upon which James Buchanan was elected, and upon which the great battle of 1856 was fought and won; and this was deemed sufficient to justify 51 members in holting. The Convention (252 members remaining) continued in session and proceeded to ballot for a candidate. Fifty-seven votes were taken. On several of these, Judge Douglas received a majority of the whole Electoral College-the vote standing 1521 for Douglas, to 991 for all others.

L_

A

ground for a further secession of fifty members.

The Convention proceeded to make its nominations, passed an additional resolution on are pledged to enforce the judgment. This is the subject of the platform, appointed a na- imously adopted at Reading, in March, 1860. tional committee and adjourned. Of the seventeen votes before mentioned, sixteen were in lieu of Seceders from Louisiana, Alabama and Arkansas-one half vote from Massachusetts and Missouri each being contested on other grounds-51 and 50, or 101 deducted from 303, left in the Convention 202 members to which were added the 16 new delegates making 218 members.

On the first and second ballots at Baltimore, several of the delegates declined to vote -on the second ballot Judge Douglas received 1813 votes to 15 for all other candidates and the remainder blank. After the first vote Gov. Church, of New York, offered a resolution declaring him nominated and by implication rescinding the resolution of interpretation and instruction to the Chair adonted at Charleston. Objection being made, Gov. Church withdrew his motion. After the second ballot it was renewed by Mr. Clark of Missouri and a delegate from Virginia. It was then distinctly put by the President (both the affirmative and the negative) and adopted by acclamation and without a dissenting voice in the Convention.

As we have already seen, the Seceders at Charleston adjourned to meet at Richmond, on the 11th of June. At that time and place, they met and adjourned until the 21st of the same month.

At Baltimore the 50 Seceders were joined by 40 of the Seceders from Charleston (South Carolina with 8 members and Florida with 3 remaining at Richmond) met in another part | ceived one hundred votes in the House and of the city, organized an opposition, or hos- 33 in the Senate, and no seat in either branch tile Convention, gathered up some fifteen additional delegates from some quarter or other, and with 105, delegates of all descriptions. nominated Breckinridge and Lane. At least 90 of those delegates were in the Charleston Convention and aided in the adoption of the rules of that body, one of which required a majority, or 152 members to constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business. I have already stated that the admission of 17 votes contrary to the wishes of the Seceders did not affect the result. On the second for all others. There is still being more mously in favor of Mr. Chaffee. At Baltithan a quorum present and voting and Judge Douglas having received more than two-Breckinridge is the regular nominee of the Missouri case was similar to that from Masparty seem to me to be an insult to the un-derstarding of every impartial voter. I were called. The one a Convention of the have full confidence in the wisdom and pa- people-the other the old Convention whose triotism of the masses of the Democratic par- time had expired and who had no more powty of the country, and hope that upon sober | er to send delegates than any other similar reflection the people everywhere will as here- number of individuals accidentally called totofore rally to the support of regular nomi- gether. nations, and preserve the integrity of the delegates at Baltimore. These I propose to whom the new delegation was chosen, at first happened that the majority of an uninstrucconsider very briefly. Before I do this, how- | met in Convention with those who had seceever, I venture to assert that there are at ded at Charleston. It was because a portion least three causes which have led to this re- of these had secended or bolted, that their repsult: First, the failure of the Convention to resentatives were rejected.

members, yet this was considered sufficient mitted by the Constitution, directly to the his nomination. judiciary. Should the decision of that tribunal be in favor of the right to hold the slave, South have for a long time desired a dissoluall the powers of the Federal government tion of the Union. I believe some, if not all of the South Carolina Delegation to Richmond. avow that desire. This Convention at Richsubstantially the doctrine of the platform unanmond also nominated Breckinridge and Lane. The second and only remaining reason Some declare that the election of a Republigiven by themselves, to justify their secession, can President will be sufficient ground for a was the action of the Convention on the condissolution. Those who really desire a distested seats. Here it will be well to observe solution, could scarcely devise a surer method that had not the first secession taken place, no such reason as the second would ever Democratic party, thereby promoting the elechave existed. If then the judgment of the tion of Mr. Lincoln. Is not the fact that country should be that the adoption of the such sentiments are avowed, a sufficient rea-Cincinnati platform was no good cause of Cincinnati platform was no good cause of complaint, the entire responsibility for the ination of Breckinridge and Lane, as they present state of affairs rests with the Sece- would shun the enemies of their country? ders. Had they remained in the Convention Hostility to Mr. Douglas has had much to at Charleston, there would have been no condo with effecting the secession. That this tested seats at Baltimore. lfostility is unwise and unfounded in reason,

We have already seen that a majority. or public judgement and future history will 152 delegates, constituted a quorum, and that the Convention was to judge of the qualifications of its own members. From such a decision there could be no appeal. In our State, the Lower House of the Legislature, themen were elected to Charleston as the open consists of 100 members, 51 being a quorum : and avowed friends of Judge Douglas. All the Senate consist of 33 members, 17 being aquothree of them were found among the Seceders rum. Suppose ten seats in the House and five in at Baltimore. Two of them were appointed the Senate are contested. They are, howev- to high positions and lucrative offices after er, settled-even erroneously if you please. their election as delegates and before the Some law receives 26 votes in the Lower House with 25 against it, and 9 votes in the meeting of the Convention. The third has been similarly rewarded since the adjourn-Senate with 8 against it, being signed by the Governor, even though 5 of the 9 votes ment of the Convention. Almost all the officers of the General Government and all the in the Senate and 10 of the 26 in the House papers under their control, are now bitter were members whose scats were contested, against Douglas and warm for Breckinridge. it becomes as binding upon all the citizens of the Commonwealth as though it had rethey went into power are now disregarded and held inferior to the personal hatred and subserviency of at least some of the minions had ever been contested. As well might the of power. It is no use to multiply examples criminal on his way to the gallows, or to the on this point. prison, call upon the people to assemble in town meeting for his rescue, because the laws which tried and condemned him, were not conduct has been attributed, have been hastiregularly passed according to his notions of ly considered.

justice, as for these gentleman to say that these nominations were not regular.

But there is no just ground for complaint. In Mussachusetts Mr. Hallett was elected a justification of secession, but as reasons of delegate, Mr. Chaffee was elected alternate, dissatisfaction. One of these was the course Mr. II. could not go to Charleston. II. noti- of the convention in regard to the motion, or ballot, Judge D. had 1812 votes. All oth-fied Mr. Chaffee of his inability to attend, resolution of construction of the two thirds ers 15; the balance declining to vote. De-and as I learn, he (Mr. H.) removed with rule. This was, or was not, a rule of the crs 15; the balance declining to vote. De-duct the 17 votes from 181¹/₂ and you have 164¹/₂, and add them to 15 you have 32 votes contested at Charleston and decided unani-because that (then) required a two-third vote not a rule, then it was a mere resolution. more Mr. H. appeared and claimed his seat. subject to the will of the majority at any thirds of the votes given, he is clearly enti-tled to the support of every Democrat who ac-knowledges the binding force of nominating conventions. To say that he is not and that Reserve to east two delegates to cast one. The Reserve to the wint of the majority at any time. It was clearly rescinded, or repealed, by the motion made by Gov. Church and re-has lent himself a willing tool in the hands a rule, it was repealed, because the motion a rule difference of the rule of He was rejected. In Arkansas neither Con-

The new delegates were admitted-the old party. In the present aspect of affairs, it ones were liable to the objection already becomes important to determine correctly stated and also to the same objections herewho is responsible for the present situation after given in the Alabama case. The old of the party. I assert that the Seceders and delegates from Georgia were liable to the unit. Such had been almost the universal their allies and abettors, alone are responsi- same objection. Yet, the Convention refused | custom of former conventions. The records ble. There are but two reasons given by to admit the new delegates, and actually ad- of conventions will show minority votes from Messrs. Dawson, Hughes, Jones, McGee, Van his aid-de-camp, shouldered the body of his It is well known that some persons in the Zant, Bloud, Brodhead, Clymer, Gloninger and others.

Editor and Proprietor.

The first part of the Rule can not be objec-

NO. 5.

of the party urging us to the support of our nominees. We have candidates in every way worthy of our support. We have the union the part is close, no rivalled Alex-ander Hamilton at the bar of New York and became the very Warwick of the Democracy of that great State. No man was more popand harmony of the Democratic party of the ular and facinating with the people. He was country to preserve. Let no personal prefer- their idol, and their favor elevated him to the to accomplish it than by the dissolution of the ences, or faint dissatisfaction, weaken our Vice Presidency, and, like Breckinridge, he one man for the success of our ticket and our party. Above all, let us not for a moment encourage those who in any event look to a dissolution of the Union, as a remedy for their fancied ills. Beware lest secession from the organization of your party, may land you in the ranks of an army, if not enlisted, at least surely determine. That he is able, patriotic commanded by officers engaged in constant and capable few if any will deny. That this efforts to accomplish a secession from the JOHN CESSNA. hostility exists, a very few examples will Union itself. Bedford, July 10th, 1860. clearly prove. In Massachusetts, three gen-

Weak in the Knees.

The Sunbury Gazette tells the whole truth in the following article. Read it :

Most of our Democratic exchanges have come to us, since the nominations at Baltimore, in a very shaky condition, and piti-fully weak in the knees. They appear not another Vice President for their leader. to know exactly to whom they belong, and seem to be anxious for some high authority to tell them for whom to go. Hence they have declared neither for Douglas nor Breck-All the rules, usages and customs by which inridge. They present a beautiful specimen of a sturdy press-an edifying example of independent and conscientious journalism, lowing list of relics, discovered by a political waiting for some action of the State Execu- antiquarian, which he proposes to tell cheap tive Committee to remove all responsibility to those who may desire to adorn some camfrom their shoulders; in short, hesitating | paign wigwam. The list will be read with The two causes of Secession given by those until a cabal of scheming politicians and in- interest : who withdrew and the reasons to which their terested office-holders shall give them their instructions. Why, gentlemen, at this time there is no reason for hesitation. On the one hand you have the nominees of the regular operation. There are two other causes of complaint, Democratic Convention, and on the other the not yet mentioned-these are not given in men selected by a factious portion of that operation. body, who twice seceded from the regular organization because they were not allowed to dictate both the platform and the candidate. You have Douglas who has fought out an acknowledged principle of the partythat of the Kansas-Nebraska Act and the didn't.] and this only received 141 to 112. If it was Cincinnati platform-fought it out in the face of the most malicious persecution and was adopted unanimously. The motion ed the treason of disunion. Is there reason adopted after the secession at Charleston, never received a majority of a full convention, and was repealed by the entire vote of the convention, 218 delegates being present.

Another objection urged in some quarters. was the unit rule of the convention. This was simply reducing the common law of the party on the subject of voting to a statute. The rule provided that minorities might vote, except in cases when the State convention had directed the vote to be cast as an themselves for the secession. The platform mitted the old delegates, because a part of many of the States of the Union. Under the at Charleston and the admission of the 17 the delegates to the Georgia Convention, by old rules and practice, it seldom, if ever, general, and retreated through the deep snow, until compelled to abandon his precious burden by the pursuing foe. Through all the We have then all the binding force of a war for independence, none bore a braver regular nomination and we have the usages part. And after its close, he rivalled Alexstrength or divide our forces. We have a too presided over the Senate, but with far common enemy before us; let us have no greater ability. He even fiercely and almost treason in our camp, but stand together as successfully contended with the great Jefferson for the Presidential prize. For some reason, perhaps because of disappointed Presidential aspirations, he too banded himself with conspirators against the integrity of the Union, and saught its dismemberment. The strong arm of the government pursued him to the far-off South, arrested him, and at the city of Richmond Aaron Burr was tried as a traitor. With searcely a tithe of the treason of a Yancey about him, Aaron Burr, the once Vice President and the idol of his party, died execrated in wretched poverty and oblivion, and his once fair name went down to

At the same city in the State of Virginia, where a Vice President was tried for treason, Secessionists and Disunionists inaugurate

Let John C. Breckinridge ponder well over Aaron Burr .- State Sentinel.

Republican Relics of the Campaign.

The New York Herald publishes the fol-

1. Handle of the maul with which Lincoln | split his first rail.

2. Chew of tobacco masticated during the

3. Waistband of breeches split during the

4. Patch of seat ditto.

5. Portrait of the man who stood against a tree looking at Old Abe splitting the rail.-[Old Abe told him if he kept on sogering there he'd never go into Congress, and he

6. Horns of the oxen which hauled the rails. 7. Half pint of whiskey (rifle warranted violent opposition; and you have Breckin- to kill at a hundred yards) distilled in the

tist on the spot."

to waver between the representative of the 10. String of one of the original brogans old doctrines and land marks of the party worn by the prophet in his hegira from Kentucky to Illinois. 11. Half a pound of best Young Hyson and the representative of anti-Democratic dogmas, recently devised, and designed exclusively for the protection and extension of sold by Lincoln, as a grocer, to the sire of slavery? Is there occasion for doubt and the first white child born in Sangamon uncertainty in selecting the standard bearer county.

from the two presented to the party-the one 12. Pine knot from the original hut built by Uncle Abe from lumber got out by his springing legitimately from the regular organization, and the other the offspring of a own hands.

factious assembly drawn off by conspirators 13. Hair from the mane of horse which won a race of which Uncle Abe was judge. and governed by disunionists? 14. Ditto from tail of losing horse in the The choice is easy, and the hesitency dissame race.

played most contemptible. It is not the duty of the press to hesitate until a parcel of inter-15. Tooth knocked out of man's head who ested politicians, government officials, Adfought another man, and chose Honest Old happened that the majority of an uninstruc-ted delegation attempted to stille the will of cers, tide-waiters, postmasters, &c., shall 16. Portrait of Old Abe when he tried to the minority. But from the fact that such mark out the course to be pursued, but, as look pretty and frightened a child of one of high-handed offorts were being made by some the conservator of political honesty and the the first families in the country into convulof the delegations to this convention, the rule leader of public opinion, the press should sions.

posterity a hissing and a byword of reproach and ignominy.

the cereer, and take warning at the fate of