TERMS OF THE GLOBE.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

WILLIAM LEWIS,

A Select Story.

UNFORGOTTEN WORDS.

A STORY DRAWN FROM REAL LIFE.

"Have you examined that bill, James ?"

"I find two errors." "Ah! let me see." The lad handed his employer a long bill

"Here is an error in the calculation of ten

The merchant smiled in a way that struck

"Twenty dollars against themselves !" he remarked, in a kind of pleasant surprise.----

"Trusty clerks they must have!" "Shall I correct the figures?" asked the

"No; let them correct their own mistakes."

when they find them out. All so much gain,

The boy's delicate moral sense was shocked struction and taught him that to be just was the duty of all men. Mr. Carman, the merchant in whose employment he had been for only a few months, was an old friend of his father's and a person in whom his mother reposed the highest confidence. In fact,

James had always looked upon him as a kind of model man ; and when Mr. Carman agreed by Mr. Carman, and with the meaning then involved, he felt, as we have said, shocked;

but as he turned them over and over again

In a few days after James examined the lad, who was present, waited with considera-benefit," replied the merchant. "It will be time enough for us to rectify these errors From this time the fine

VOL. XVI.

"Yes, sir."

"Yes, sir."

the lad as peculiar.

as it now stands."

"Anything wrong ?"

"Also against themselves ?"

cording to these terms.

1860. Spring and summer GOODS.

FISHER & SON are now opening the largest and best selected Stock of Goods ever offered in this community.

It comprises a full line of Fashionable Dress Goods, suitable for SPRING & SUMMER, such as Black and Fancy Silks, French Foulards, (Chintz Figures,) Fancy Organdies, Ducals, Challie's Lawns, English Chintz, Ginghams, Lustres, Prints, &c. that had been placed on his desk for examination. A large and beautiful assortment of Spring Shawls.

dollars, which they have made against them-A fine stock of richly worked Black Silk Lace Mantles. A full assortment of Ladies' Fine Collars, Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods, such as Collars, Cravats, Ties, Stocks, Hosiery, Shirts, Gauze and Silk Undershirts, selves; and another error of ten dollars in the footing." Drawers, &c. We have a fine selection of Mantillas,

We have a fine selection of Mantillas, Dress Trimmings, Fringes, Ribbons, Mitts, Gloves, Gaunt-lets, Hosiery, Handkerchiefs, Buttons, Floss, Sewing Silk, Extension Skirts, Hoops of all kinds, &c. Also—Tickings, Osnaburg, Bleached and Unbleached Muslins, all prices; Colored and White Cum-brics. Barred and Swiss Muslins, Victoria Lawns, Nain-sooks, Tarleton, and many other articles which comprise the line of WIHTE and DOMESTIC GOODS. French Cloths, Fancy Cassimers, Satinets. Jeans, Tweeds, Denims, Blue Drills, Flannels, Lindseys, Comforts, Blank-ets, &c.

lad. We don't examine bills for other people's ets, &c. Hats and Caps, of every variety and style. A Good Stock of GROCERIES, HARDWARE, QUEENS-WARE, BOOTS and SHOES, WOOD and WILLOW-WARE, which will be sold Cheap. We also deal in PLASTER, FISH, SALT, and all kinds of GRAINS, and possess facilities in this branch of trade mequalled by any. We deliver all packages or parcels of Merchandise, free of charge, at the Depots of the Broad Top and Pennsylvania Railroads. COME ONE, COME ALL, and be convinced that the Me-tranolium is the place to sceure fishionable and desirable at so unexpected a remark. He was the son of a poor widow, who had given him good in-tropolitan is the place to secure fushionable and desirable goods, disposed of at the lowest rates. FISHER & SON

Huntingdon, April 18, 1860.

TEW GOODS! NEW GOODS!! AT

D. P. G WIN'S STORE.

D. P. GWIN has just received the largest and most fashionable and best selected Stock of Goods in the mar-ket, consisting of Cloths, Cassimeres, Plain and Fancy, Satinets, Kontucky Jeans, Tweeds, Beaverteens, Velvet Cords, Cotton Drills, Linen Dack, Blac brills, and other fashionable Goods for Men and Boys' wear. to take him into his store, he felt that great good fortune was in his way. "Let them derect their own mistakes."-The words made a strong impression on the mind of James Lewis. When first spoken to in his thoughts, and connected their utterance with a person who stood so high in his Also, Tickings, Checks, Muslins, (bleached mother's estimations, he began to think that and unbleached,) Cotton and Linen Diaper, Crash, Nankeen, &c.

The largest and best assortment of Ladies' Dress Goods in town, consisting of Black and Fancy Silks, All Wool Delains, Challie Delains, Almacas, Plain and Fig-ured Braize, Lawns, Ginghams, Ducals, Larella Cloth, De Barge, Traveling Dress Goods, and a beautiful assortment of Prints, Brilliants, &c.

perhaps the thing was fair enough in busi-Also, a large assortment of Ladics' Collars, ness. Mr. Carman was hardly the man to Dress Trimmings, Ribbonds, Gloves, Mitts, Gauntlets, Ho-isery, Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs, Victoria Lawn, Mull Muslins, Swiss and Cambric Edging, Dimity Bands, Velvet Ribbons, and a great variety of Hooped Skirts, &c. do wrong. bill, a clerk from the house by which it had been rendered called for a settlement. The

Also, a fine assortment of Spring Shawls. Also, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Shaker Bonnets, Hardware, Queensware, Wood and Willow Ware, Grocerics, Salt and Fish.

ble interest to see whether Mr. Carman would speak of the error. But he made no remarks on that subject. A check for the ployer, who held him in the very highest row Also, the largest and best assortment of would speak of the error. But he made no Also, the largest and less assortment of Carpets and Oil Cloths in town, which will be sold cheap. Call and examine my Goods, and you will be convinced that I have the best assortment and cheapest Goods in the amount of the bill as rendered was filled up, gard.

market. KF-Country Produce taken in exchange for Goods, at the Highest Market Prices. D. P. GWIN. Huntingdon, April 18, 1860. EUREKA!! EUREKA!!! LADIES' CHOICE !!!

it was unhappily so in the present case.-

James did not return the half dollar, but haddone this it come suddenly into his thought that Mr. Carman might only be trying him, and he was filled with anxiety and alarm .--

How bitterly did he regret having spent that half dollar! For two or three days it was as much as he could do to keep from starting when Mr. Carman spoke to him; or to look steadily into his face when receiving from him any direction. It was his first sad experience in wrong doing. But as no lack of confi-dence was exhibited, James felt reassured in

Not long afterwards Mr. Carman repeated

"Let him correct his own mistakes," said he resolutely ; "that's the doctrine he acts on with other people, and he can't complain if he gets paid in the coin he puts in circulation.

From this time the fine moral sense of evil counsellor into his heart, who not only darkened his clear perceptions of right, but stimulated a spirit of covetousness-latern in almost every mind-and caused him to de-

James had business qualities, and so pleased Mr. Carman by his intelligence, industry, the same mistake. This time James kept the half dollar with less hesitation.

a few days.

to obtain.

----PERSEVERE.--

spent it for his own gratification. After he a new fear creeping, with its shuddering im-

HUNTINGDON, PA., AUGUST 22, 1860.

could not make up his mind to return it; at the presence of his mother. Every phase of the truth, and may it incline you to show least not then. He would retain it for the Mr. Carman's manner toward him after the some consideration for the unhappiest being present, and think the matter over more care- | receipt of that letter was reviewed and dwelt | that is alive to day." fully. He could, if the case did not prove on, in order if possible to dertermine whether clear on further reflection, make all right with himself and Mr. Carman. To hold a parley with evil is, as we have

There were fow eyes in the court room un-dimmed. In the silence that followed, Mr. Carman spoke out :

Editor and Proprietor.

NO. 9.

He went near and listened by the door and word of a criminal, your honor? Is this just? "There's something wrong," he said.— "What can it be? If this thing is discover-Is this the protection a citizen finds in the court room ?"

tered, and inquired, with unconcealed anxiety, if he was better. He said yes, but with a manner that only increased the trouble she

In the morning the strangely altered face of James, as he met his mother at the break-was silent, and evaded all her questions .--While they sat at the table the door bell rung loudly. The sound startled James, and he replied the girl.

"Who is it ?" asked Mrs. Lewis, as the servant came back from the door.

he did so. Mrs. Lewis sat, in almost breathless expectation, awaiting her son's return. --She heard him coming back in a few moments, but he did not enter the dining-room. door, and she heard it shut. All was now silent. Starting up, she ran out into the passage, but James was not there. He had gone away with the person who had called, and without a word.

Ah that was a sad going away! Mr. Carman had spent half the night in examining the accounts of James, and discovered frauds to the amount of over six thousand dollars. Blindly indignant, he had sent an officer to arrest him early in the morning ; and it was with this officer that the unhappy boy went away from the home of his mother, never again to return.

dealing might prove as nare to this young man. James grew sharp, cunning and skillful; always on the alert; always bright; always prompt to meet any approaches toward a dis-Thus it went on until James Lewis was in

Our Chip Basket..

A CANDIDATE for Congress, out West, sums up his cdication as follows: ", never went to school but three times in my life, and that was to a night school. Two nights the teach-er didn't come, and 'tother night I had no candle."

NEAT RETORT .- An Israelite lady, sitting in the same box at an opera, with a French physician, and was much troubled with ennui, happened to gape. "Excuse me, madam," said the doctor, "I nm glad you did not swallow me."

"Give yourself no uneasiness." replied the lady, "I am a Jewess, and never eat pork !"

AN INDIGNANT FRENCHMAN.-" Mine fren, have you seen von leetle trunk, vat I left tomorrow as I vill come from ze steamboat by ze hotel?"

"I did not, Monsieur, and expect to do so the balance of the day."

"By gar! if he gets stole, I will kill ze raz-kale vat will take him till he choke! Sacre! vat a countrys."

"I PRESUME," said Jem Horn, on entering a hardware store, "you deal in all kinds of nails ?"

"Certainly," replied the clerk in attendance.

"Then I will trouble you for a pound of toe nails."

Jem got a pound over his head for his pains.

A young lady who believes in "Bible Law of Love," when smitten by her lover's lips on one cheek, always presents the other.

LACONIC .--- "What ails your eye, Jo ?" "I told a man he lied."

"Hollo! I say, what did you say your medicine would cure?"

"Oh, it will cure anything-heal everything."

"Well, I'll take a bottle ; maybe it'll heel my boots-they need it bad enough."

Go down upon only one knee to a young lady. If you go down upon both, you may not be able to escape quick enough in case of the sudden appearance of an enraged father.

'weighed in the balance and found wanting." 'Sure, it's yer own fault it they are light," said Biddy in reply to the complaint of the buyer, "for wasn't it a pound of soap that I bought here myself, that I had in the other end of the scales when I weighed 'em."

Wur did Job always sleep cold ? Because he had poor comforters.

THE foreman of a grand jury in Missouri, after administering an oath to a beautiful woman, instead of handing the Bible, pre-sented his face, and said, "Now kiss the book madam." Ho didn't discover his mistake until the whole jury burst into a roar of laughter.

NEWS FROM MASSACHUSETTS.—" Wherever I go," said a gentleman, remarkable for his State pride, "I am sure to find sensible men from Massachusetts."

"No wonder," said the person addressed, for every man of that State who has any sense, leaves as soon as he can."

A young lady in town is so refined in her language, that she never uses the word "blackguard," but substitutes "African sentinel." This is somewhat upon a par with what Capt. Marryatt made a Yankee young lady substitute "rooster-swain" for cockswain.

She that marries a man because he is a "good match," must not be surprised if he turns out a "Lucifer."

newspaper in a far western town. He had a A MAN was charged with stealing a piece pulses, into his heart.

My poor mother !"

The young man covered his face with his

"Is my character to be thus blasted on the ed, what will be the end of it? Ruin! ruin! The wretched young man passed on, and walked the streets for two hours, when he returned home. His mother met him as he enupon Mr. Carman :

the criminal:

crime."

again.

felt, and passed up hastily to his own room.

fast table, struck alarm into her heart. He turned his car to listen in a nervous way James Lewis was blunted. He had taken an which did not escape the observation of his mother.

"A gentleman wishes to see Mr. James," sire the possession of things beyond his ability James arose instantly, and went out into the hall, shutting the dinning-room door as and tact with customers, that he advanced him rapidly, and gave him before he was eighteen years of age, the most responsible position in his store. But James had learned something more from his employer than how to do business well. He had learned to be Then he returned along the hall to the street dishonest-that is the word He had never forgotten the first lesson he received in this bad science; and he had acted upon it not only in two instances, but in a hundred, and almost always to the injury of Mr. Carman. He had long since given up waiting for mistakes to be made in his favor, but originated them in the varied and complicated transactions of a large business in which he was trusted implicitly; for, strangely enough, it had never for an instant occurred to Mr. Carman that his failure to be just to the letter in

"The young villain shall lie in the bed he has made for himself !" exclaimed Mr. Carman, in his bitter indignation. And he did not hold back in anything, but made the exposure of the young man's crime complete.— On the trial he showed an eager desire to have him convicted, and presented such an array of evidence that the jury could not

"Is that right?" James asked himself this his twentieth year, when the merchant had give any other verdict than "Guilty." The poor mother was in court, and audible window, but could hear no sound within.

just said, in most cases to be overcome; and passing he was surprised at seeing a light on his, saying— it was unhappily so in the present case.— within. "My poor boy!" within. ""What can this mean ?" he asked himself,

"Your solemn oath that this charge is un-true," said the Judge, "will place you all right. It was the unhappy boy's only op-portunity, and the court felt bound, in humanity, to hear what he wished to say." James Lewis stood up again instantly, and turned his white face and dark piercing eyes

"Let him take that oath, if he dare!" he exclaimed.

The counsel for the prosecution now interfered, and called the proceedings an outrage on all justice, unheard of before in a court room. But the judge commanded order, and then said to Mr. Carman:

"The court offers you the only way of rep-aration in its power. Your oath will scatter the allegation of a criminal to the winds.— the lumps of which, intended for pounds, he Will you swear?"

"Mr. Carman turned with a distressed look toward his counsel, while James kept his eyes fixed upon him. There was a brief conference, and the lawyer said :

"The proceeding is irregular, and I have advised my client to make no response. At the same time he protests against all this as an outrage upon the rights of a citizen." The judges bowed, and Mr. Carman withdrew. After a brief conference with his associates, the presiding judge said, addressing

"In consideration of your youth, and the temptation to which, in tender years, you were unhappily subjected, the court gives you

its lightest sentence, one year's imprisonment.

At the same time, in pronouncing this sentence, let me solemnly warn you against any further steps in the way you have taken .----

Crime can have no valid excuse. It is evil

in the sight of God and man, and leads only to suffering. When you come forth again, after your brief incarceration, may it be with the resolution to die rather than commit a

And the curtain fell on that sad scene in the boy's life. When it lifted again, and he came forth from prison a year afterward, his mother was dead. From the day her pale face faded from his vision as he passed from the court room, he never looked upon her

Ten years afterward a man sat reading a

PATENT ELF-SEALING, SELF-TESTING, AIR-TIGHT FRUIT CANS.

Just what was wanted-a CONVENIENT air-tight cover. to show at all times, the exact condition of the fruit within the jar. It is so simple that one person can scal up twen-ty-four cans in one minute. Or open seventy-two cans in

No fruit is lost in using these cans, for should any one be defective, the cover always shows it in time to save the contents. Tin, Earthen, or Glass jars, sold only at the Hardware Store of JAMES A. BROWN. Huntingdon, July 18, 1860.

1.000 CUSTOMERS WANTED! NEW GOODS FOR SPRING & SUMMER.

BENJ. JACOBS Has received a fine assortment of DRY GOODS for the Spring and Summer season, comprising a very extensive assortment of LADIES DRESS GOODS,

DRY GOODS in general,

READY-MADE CLOTHING,

For Men and Boys

GROCERIES, HATS & CAPS, BOOTS AND SHOES, &c. &c. The public generally are requested to call and examine my goods—and his prices. As I am determined to sell my Goods, all who call may expect bargains. Country Produce taken in Exchange for Goods. BENJ. JACOBS, at the Cheap Corner.

Huntingdon, April 4, 1860.

COME TO THE NEW STORE FOR

WALLACE & CLEMENT Respectfully inform the public that they have opened a beautiful assortment of DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, QUEENSWARE, &C., in the store room at the south-cast corner of the Diamond in the borough of Huntingdon, lately occupied as a Jew-in the borough of Huntingdon, intery occupied as a content of the solution of ROMAN.

NEW

CLOTHING

FOR SPRING AND SUMMER,

JUST RECEIVED АŤ

H. ROMAN'S

CHEAP CLOTHING STORE.

For Gentlemen's Clothing of the best material, and made in the best workmanlike manner, call at

H. ROMAN'S, opposite the Franklin House in Market Square, Hunting-[April 4, 1860.]

THE best Tobacco in town, at D. P. GWIN'S.

P. GWIN keeps the largest, best D. P. GWIN Reeps the masses, assortment and cheapest shoes in town. Call and beautiful lot of Shaker Bonnetsfor A beautiful sale cheap, at D. P. GWIN'S. ALL at D. P. GWIN'S if you want / GOOD GOODS. Splendid variety of Carpets, only A Spienara .... FISHER & SON.

F you want handsome Lawns, Delains, and other Dress Goods, go to D. P. GWIN'S.

uestion. His moral sense said no; but the question. This moral sense said 707, but the fact that Mr. Carman had so acted bewildered bis wind his mind.

honest. I wouldn't have believed it of him !" mother into a pleasant home, for which he Mr. Carmon had a kind way with him that paid a rent of four hundred dollars. His sal-and a receipt taken.

won upon the boy's heart, and naturally ten- ary was eight hundred dollars; but he deded to make him judge whatever he might do | ceived his mother by telling her that he rein the most favorable manner. "I wish he had corrected that error," he said to himself a great many times when beginning to feel that after a long and often thinking, in a pleased way, of Mr. Carman painful struggle with the world her happier and his own good fortune in having been re-ceived into his employment. "It dont look James was at right; but may be it's the way in business." found that the teller had paid him fifty dolwith the pleasant consciousness in his mind of having done right. "The teller overpaid me by fifty dollars,"

he said to Mr. Carman, as he handed him the monev.

"Indeed!" replied the latter, a light breaking over his countenance. And he hastily counted the bank bills.

The light faded as the last bill left his fingers.

" There's no mistake, James." A tone of disappointment was in his voice.

" Oh ! I gave back the fifty dollars. Wasn't that right ?"

"You simpleton !" exclaimed Mr. Carman, "don't you know that bank mistakes are never corrected? If the teller had paid you fifty dollars too short he would not have made it right." The warm blood stained- the cheeks of James under this reproof. It is often the case that more shame is felt for a blunder than a crime. In this instance the lad felt a sense of mortification at having done what Mr. Carmon was pleased to call a silly thing ; and he made up his mind that if they should overpay him a thousand dollars at the bank he would bring the amount to his employer, and let him do as he pleased with the money.

" Let people look after their own mistakes." James Lewis pondered these things in his heart. The impression they made was too altogether satisfied.

that bank mistake, as James counted over his weekly wages, just received from Mr. Carman, he discovered that he had been paid half a dollar too much. The first impulse of his mind was to return the amount to his employer, and it was on his lip to say, "You have given me too much, sir," when the un-forgotten words, "Let people look after their own mistakes," flashed upon his thoughts, and made him hesitate. To hold a parley with evil, in most cases, to be overcome. "I must think about this," said James, as he put the money into his pocket. "If it is true in one case, it is true in another. Mr. the rule works against himself."

his suspicions aroused by a letter that spoke respectable company, and as spending money "It may be the way of business,"—so he too freely for a clork on a moderate salary.— thought with himself,—"but it don't look Before this time James had removed his ceived fifteen hundred. Every comfort that as if needing the support. she needed was fully supplied, and she was

James was at his desk when the letter just referred to was received by Mr. Carman .--One day he went to the bank and drew the Guilt is always on the alert, and suspicious of money for a check. In counting it over he every movement that may involve betrayal or exposure. He looked stealthily at his emlars too much. So he went back to the coun-ter and told him of the mistake. The teller him change countenance suddenly. He read thanked him, and he returned to the store it over twice, and James saw that the contents, whatever they were, produced disturbance. While he was yet observing him Mr. Carman glanced toward his desk, and their eyes met; it was only for a moment, but the look James received made his heart stop > beating. There was something about the movements of Mr. Carman for the rest of this day that troubled the young man. It was plain to him that suspicion had been aroused by that letter. Oh, how bitterly now did he report, in dread of discovery and punishment, the evil of which he had been guilty ! Exposure would disgrace and ruin him, and bow the head of his mother, it might be, even to the grave. "You are not well this evening," said Mrs. Lewis, as she looked at her son's changed face across the tea-table, and noticed that he did not eat. "My head aches," he replied, as he turned partly away from his mother's direct gaze. "Perhaps the tea will make you feel better."

"I'll lie down on the sofa in the parlor for a short time," said the young man, rising from the table. "A little quiet may give re-lief." And he went from the dining room. Mrs. Lewis followed him into the parlor in a little while, and sitting down by the sofa on which he was lying, placed her hand on his head. Ah, it would take more than the strong ever to be forgotten. "It may be loving pressure of a mother's hand to ease right," he said to himself, but he did not feel the pain from which he was suffering. The touch of that pure hand increased the pain

A month or two after the occurrence of to agony. A month or two after the occurrence of "Do you feel better?" asked Mrs. Lewis after she had remained for some time with her hand on his forehead.

"Not much," he replied ; and rising as he spoke, he added, "I think a walk in the open air will do me good."

"Don't go out, James," said Mrs. Lewis, a troubled feeling coming into her heart. "I'll only walk a few squares." And his hat, passed into the street without another word. "There's something more than the head-sche the matter with him," was the thought Carman don't correct mistakes that people of Mrs. Lewis, and the slight feeling of trouble make in his favor; he can't complain when she had experienced began deepening into a strange concern that involved a dread of com-judge then addressed the culprit, and asked if he had anything to say why sentence of the law should not be prouounced upon him. All eyes were turned upon the pale, agitated young man, who arose with an affort, and leaned against the railing by which he stood,

"Will it please your honor," he said, " to direct Mr. Carman, my prosecutor, to come a little nearer, so that I can look at him and your honors at the same time ?"

Mr. Carman was directed to come forward to where the boy stood. There was a breathless silence in the court-room as the prosecutor obeyed the order, and came forward so as to be in the eyes of all. James looked at him steadily for a few moments, and then turned to the judges.

"What I have to say, your honors, is to take this boy and endeavor to make a law-this"—he spoke calmly and distinctly—"and yer of him." it may, in a manner, extenuate, though it cannot excuse my crime. I went into that man's store an innocent boy; and if he had been an honest man I would not have stood before you to-day as a criminal."

Mr. Carman interrupted the young man, and appealed to the court for protection against allegations of such an outrageous character; but he was peremptorily ordered to be silent. James went on in a firm voice. "Only a few weeks after I went into his employment, I examined a bill by his direction, and discovered an error of twenty dollars." The face of Mr. Carman crimsoned instantly.

"You remember it, I see," remarked hands upon. Now, if he ain't fit to be a law-James, "and I shall have cause to remember it while I live. The error was in favor of to learn." Mr. Carman, and I asked if I should correct "Pretty the figures, and he answered, 'No; let them correct their own mistakes. We don't examine bills for other people's benefit.' It was my first lesson in dishonesty, and I never forgot the words. I saw the bill settled, and Mr. Carman take the twenty dollars that were not his own. I felt shocked at first : it scemed such a wrong thing. But soon after, he called me a simpleton for handing back to the teller of a bank fifty dollars overpaid on a check; and then-" "May I ask the protection of the court." said Mr. Carman, appealing to the judges. "Is it true what the lad says ?" asked the presiding judge. Mr. Carman hesitattd and looked confused. All eyes were on his face; and judges, jury, lawyers and spectators felt certain that he was guilty of leading the unhappy young man astray. "Not long aftewards," resumed young Lewis, "in receiving my wages, I found that Mr. Carman had paid me fifty cents too much. I was about giving it back to him when I re-James went from the parlor, and, taking up membered his remark about letting people correct their own mistakes, and said to myself, let him correct his own errors, and dishonestly kept the money. Again the same thing happened, and I kept the money that did not, of right, belong to me. This was the beginning of evil, and here I am !--Mr. Carman has shown an eagerness to con-calm, serious face, and looked like one who had known suffering and trial. "Brought to justice at last," he said to himself. as the blood came into his face. "Convicted on the charge of fraudulent insolvency, and sent to the State's Prison! So much for the man who gave me in tender years the first lesson in wrong doing! Too well, alas ! did I remember his words. But, thank God, other words have since been remembered.-'When you come forth again," said the judge, may it be with the resolution to die rather than commit a crime !' and I have kept this renly. "And pray, what kind of a state is he in ?" injunction in my heart when there seemed no way of escape except through crime ; and, persisted the other. "In State Prison."

God helping me, I will keep it to the end." WELL QUALIFIED FOR A LAWYER .- An old some potatoes; but before purchasing he de-lady walked into a lawyer's office lately with her boy of seven summers old. "Squire, I called to see if you would like

"Decidedly too young, Madam. Have you

no older boys?"

"Oh, yes, sir, but we mean to make faryou wends de article on your own responsimers of them. My husband and I thought, bly, why, without snekumlocution, dis culled however, that this would make a first-rate pusson takes a peck."

lawyer, and so I brought him to you." "Much to young, Madam, to commence the the happiest marriages are between blind study of a profession. But why do you supwives and deaf husbands. pose this boy better calculated to make a lawyer than your older sons? What are his peculiar qualifications ?" radish is now practising on a saddle of mut-

"Oh, well you see, sir, he is just seven years ton. What an equestrian he will be, in time. old to-day ; when he was only five he would THE following correspondent is said to have taken place between a New Haven merchant lie terribly; when he got six he was sassy and impudent as any critter could be; and and one of his customers : now he will steal everything he can lay his yer, I would like to know what he will have

"Pretty well educated, I should think. "He is too young. Good morning madam."

A GOOD STORY .-- An anecdote worth laughing over, is told of a man who had an "infirmaty," as well as an appetite for fish. He was anxious to keep up his character for honesty, even while enjoying his favorite meal; and while making a bill with his merchant, as the story goes, and when his back was turned the honest buyer slipped a codfish up under his coat tail. But the garments were too short to cover up the theft, and the merchant perceived it. "Now," said the customer anxious to improve all opportunities to call attention to his virtues, "Mr. Merchant, I have traded with you a good deal, and have paid you up promptly, haven't I ?"

boring town, some days since, shows the ef-"Ob, yes," said the merchant, "I make no complaint." fect of leap year upon the female sex : "Resolved, That if we don't get married

"Well," said the customer, I always inthis year, nomebody will be to blame." sisted that honesty is the best policy, and the Very likely. But we hope the ladies will best rule to live by, and die by." not blame the men, as usual, for this is not the men's year to do the courting.

"That's so," replied the merchant, and the customer turned to depart.

LEARNING is like a river, whose head being "Hold on, friend; speaking of honesty, I have a bit of advice to give. Whenever you come to trade again you had better wear a longer coat, or steal a shorter codfish." far in the land, is, at first rising, little, and easily viewed; but still, as you go, it gapeth into a wider bank; not without pleasure and delightful winding, while it is on both sides

Baron Smyth spent two whole days set with trees, and the beauties of various flowers. But still, the further you follow it and nights in considering an answer to the conundrum "Why is an egg undone like an the deeper and broader it is; till, at last, it But the boy was very far from being in a ing evil. comfortable state. He felt that to keep that half dollar would be a dishonest act. Still he be a disho vict and have me punished, as the court has | egg overdone ?" 'He would suffer none to tell of cloth, when the lawyer put in the plea that the individual charged with stealing could not see it, for it was an invisible green.

"I KNOW I am a perfect bear in my manners," said a fine young farmer to his sweetheart. " No, indeed you are not, John : you have never hugged me yet. You are more sheep than bear."

"How is your husband, dear ?" asked one lady of another. "Oh, he's in a very bad state," was the

A DANDY negro stepped into a store to buy livered the following on the nature of the root : " De tatar he am inevwitably good or inevwitably bad; dar am no medicumocrity in de combination of tatar. De exterior may appear remarkably exemblary, while de in-teror am totally negative; but sein' as dat

It has been thought by some cynics that

TAE boy who learned to ride upon a horse-

" Sir-Your account has been standing for

"Sir-Things usually do settle by standing; I regret that my account is an exception.

If it has been standing too long, suppose you

In Clarksville Tenn., a sexton misunderstanding the instructions given him by the Council Committee-which were simply to the effect that it would be his province to preparethe graves as they were wanted-issued the following: "As the quantity of graves will be more than sufficient for our population for some time to come, persons at a distance intending to die before the next rain can be ac-

THE following resolution which was adopted at a meeting of young ladies, in a neigh-commodated with graves at cost."

two years, and I must have it settled imme-

To which the customer replied :

diately."

let it run a while."