A REMARKABLE SUICIDE.—The Danville American gives the following account of an extraordinary suicide in that neighborhood: "We are informed that a man by the name of Plecher, residing four miles from this place, on the Catawissa road, committed suicide by hanging himself on Saturday evening last. He was addicted to the use of 'strychnine whiskey,' and had returned home with on, for Coroner.

On motion, Wm. Lewis, R. M. Speer, and there would be two deaths there before night. R. F. Haslett, were nominated by acclama- His wife became alarmed and hid herself .-After preparing a place for two executions in the barn, he searched for his wife, but being unable to find her, took his two little children, (the oldest being about 5 years of age) to the barn to see him die. To one he gave his hat, and to the other his handkerchief, when he deliberately swung off. The children raised the alarm, but he was dead before assistance came. Another victim to the insatiate demon."

Much excitement has been aroused in Jacksonville, Illinois, by a most brutal murder perpetrated a few miles from that place. A travelling beggar, named Michel Redman, knocked his wife down with a clapboard striking her with its sharp edge until he cut severe gashes in her head. He then stamped on her until she was dead. He had previously beaten his little child of four years of age until he thought him dead, but the child will probably recover. The only reason that can be assigned for Redman's barbarity was that Court House on Thursday evening was quite he was tired of supporting his family. He had not been drinking, and exhibited no signs of insanity. The Jacksonville Journal says that it was at first proposed to lynch the murderer, but better counsels prevailed, and he

> BITTER EGGS .- A singular complaint has been made in different parts of this country of bitter eggs. They appear fresh and nice, save in the taste, which is like quinine .-Have the hens been fed on tansy? Or can any scientific man account for this singular phenomena of nature.—Three Rivers Chronicle, Michigan. Seventeen years ago, when the locusts were plenty, the same bitter taste was in the eggs, and continued until the disappearance of the Conpropst is a young man of extraordinary insects. Perhaps the Michigan hens have talent, and we wish him success beyond his had an early taste of the locusts which are to prevail this year.—Albany Statesman.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GLOBE.

RAINSBURG, Aug. 16, 1860. Mr. Lewis:-Being a constant reader of your invaluable paper, and witnessing with much pleasure how steadily, and with what ability and enthusiasm you have supported (Douglas) the regular nominee for the Presidential chair, I have concluded to let you know that Bedford county is all right. There | ing barrel, he commenced loading the other, are a few persons that support "Old Abe, and while thus engaged, the loaded barrel the rail mauler," as they term him, but the number is very few. They boast that he did maul rails, this he may have done, and indeed, if I would be permitted to judge from what I can gather from his history, he is better calculated for that business than for the station to which he is aspiring. The Democracy are united on the "Little Giant," and will most certainly cast every vote in his favor, and, indeed, quite a number of the Opposition are earnestly using all their influence in his behalf. There is no doubt but that Douglas will have at least a majority over all others in this county.

The school at this place is progressing finely under the superintendency of E. J. Osborne. There are some sixty-five students in attendance at present, and more entering every day, so that before the middle of the present quarter, there will be not less than eighty-five. In connection with the regular classical studies pursued in a Seminary like this, there has been established a commercial department by Prof. W. P. Totten, in which book-keeping, commercial calculations, card writing, plain and ornamental penmanship, and indeed every thing that pertains to a good business education is taught to perfection. Mr. Totten is not only a gentleman in every sense of the word, but a man who thoroughly understands the science he pretends to teach, having graduated at Iron City College. The full course in this department will not cost more than 30 dollars, board in-

If you think this worthy a place in your valuable paper you may insert it, and oblige, Yours, &c.,

An Exhibition.—We had the pleasure of attending an exhibition on Friday evening, the 3d inst., at Colerain, Huntingdon county, given by the school of that place, under the charge of A. R. Miller. Mr. Stewart kindly granted the privilege of the new forge, a very large building, which has been erected there during the summer, and the citizens spared no pains in rendering it a most agreeable and attractive place by the tasty style in which they had it wreathed and decorated.

It was the first exhibition of the kind that was ever given by the Colerain school, and the people, both old and young, were highly interested in the event.

The room was filled with spectators to its utmost capacity, and good order prevailed. On account of the lengthy programme, the present, and enlivened the audience with ex- tress with wrinkled brow, quivering chin. cellent music, which added greatly to the in- eyes filled with tears: "My father says I terest of the occasion.

After the various dialogues and recitations were gone through with, Mr. Miller concluded with a very interesting farewell address to the scholars and patrons of the school, wherein he pointed out, in touching language, the way of wisdom to the scholars, and to the patrons the path of duty.

Mr. Miller has been the teacher at Colerain over ten months, and during his stay there has not only rendered perfect satisfaction to the patrons of the school, but has won the friendship and esteem of all that were in the circle of his acquaintance. He has now left and many.good wishes have gone with him. A SPECTATOR.

MECHANICSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 12, 1860.

Scottsville, August 18, 1860. Mr. Lewis :- Being through with my daily avocation for this week, instead of taking my usual evening walk, I will seat myself and give you the news in brief, of this corner of the county.

The dissatisfaction in the opposition ranks, on their county ticket, is not found alone in the "ancient borough." But go where you will throughout this end of the county, and you will hear some of their best men declaring they cannot help elect some of the men who compose the ticket.

The ticket formed by the late Democratic County Convention, in Huntingdon, appears to please all parties. Messrs. Africa, Long and Caldwell are well known throughout this and Caldwell are well known throughout this end of the county. No one can say aught been, deaf to the cause of humanity, was comagainst either of them, and they will receive pelled to witness the dying agonies of a bethe hearty support of the people, irrespective Linconism has been on the decline during the last week in this township. But I supnose it will soon be revived, as the great Champion of Republicanism of this township has been spending a week in the "ancient borough." And during his stay there has heard the Great Covode speak, and has learned other startling facts besides, which he will give to our good citizens here who "don't read," and that will fetch 'em all right.

FATAL GUNNING ACCIDENT .- Britton Strickland, a lad about 11 years of age, son of Miles Strickland, near Stottsville, Sadsbury township, Chester county, met with a fatal accident on Friday last. He, in company with two of his brothers, was out gunning.— He carried a double barreled gun, and had killed a lark with one barrel. After various unsuccessful attempts to empty the remainwas discharged, the contents striking him about the right temple and car, inflicting a fatal wound. Britton walked about three steps after receiving the wound and fell on his knees. Morris, one of the brothers, ran to him and inquired if he was hurt. He re-plied, "Yes-bad." These were the only words he uttered after the accident. He was then taken under a tree. The boys were about half a mile from home at the time.-Their father was sent for and Britton was at once taken home, and medical assistance sent for, but no relief could be afforded .-Thirty-two shots were found imbedded in the face and head-only two of them causing wounds necessarily fatal. He lingered in agony about three hours, when death relieved nim of his sufferings.

HORRIBLE MURDER—A Son and Sister Killed.—George Aldrich, a convict, who had ust served out a term of five years in the irginia penitentiary for killing a man in Lozan, lift Richmond a few days since, and on arriving at Logan county, found that his family had moved across the river to Warfield, Lawrence county, Va. The Kanawha Republican says: "He followed them. He murdered his sister in the most shocking manner, literally cutting her to pieces, taking out her heart and hacking it to pieces, and then throwing her body into Sandy river. The body of his son, a lad of about thirteen years old, was found in a by-place, nearly eaten up by the hogs-but was readily identified by a remarkable scar on one foot, which had been preserved by the shoe and stocking. The son was by a wife who had obtained a divorce. After the perpetration of these horrid deeds, the fiend, with his gun in hand, fled to the woods, saying that he intended to kill his father and mother and two other personsand then the people might take him, burn him at the stake, or do what they pleased with him. The excited people are after him.

SINGULAR ATTEMPT TO COMMIT SUICIDE. We learn from the Rochester Democrat that a man employed as a track hand on the Central Railroad undertook to commit suicide on Tuesday afternoon, of last week, by throwing himself under the wheels of the train westward from Albany, when it was at Coldwater. He had been at work in the sun all day, and received a coup de soleil, which had the effect to derange his intellect. As the train was passing the station, he rushed to the locomotive and laid his head on the track in front of it. The cow-catcher thrust him to one side, but as the train was moving very slowly, he had time to repeat the attempt three times, with precisely the same result. He would have tried again but some of the bystanders dragged him away by main force: His injuries are confined to some severe cuts and bruises on the side of the head.

BUYING A HUSBAND .- A neat and charming maiden, in Indiana, the fortunate possessor of a considerable property, became engaged for marriage to a green, unattractive, boy, of 18 years. The day for the wedding exercises commenced at the early hour of $7\frac{1}{2}$. was fixed, and the course of the energy exercises commenced at the early hour of $7\frac{1}{2}$. running smoothly enough. One day, the The Huntingdon Furnace String Band was groom expectant appeared before his misshan't marry unless I first pay him for my time." This was all he said. The women at once sent him to the sharp parent, with instructions to learn the lowest rate of exchange at which the time could be transmitted into money. "I will sell you," said the father, "for \$200, and not a cent less."-And I will buy you." returned the damsel, when the offer was communicated to her.-She paid the money, married the property, and has since so assidously cultivated it, that a great improvement, personally, morally, and intellectually has taken place.

A MAN Brown to Preces .- A terrible accident recently happened to a man named Charles Schults, while blasting in a quarry near Greshville, Berks county. He made a blast which did not do more than make a mere crevice in the rock, and then poured into the hole about quarter of a keg of powder, and applied a slow match which failed to ignite. He then attempted to re-light the match with steel and flint, which he carried about him. It is supposed that when he had his match lighted it fell from his hands and ignited the powder. The unfortunate man was standing immediately over the blast, and the explosion that followed threw him off a distance of fifteen yards. When picked up he was found to be in a dying condition, with both eyes blown out, a leg and arm nearly severed from the body, his entrails out, and his whole body disfigured in a shocking manner. He lived about an hour.

THE FATE OF A GOLD-HUNTER.-What suffering accompanies gold-searching! The Omaha Nebraskian relates the death of an unsuccessful Pike's Peaker. He was in a wagon, and sick with the mountain fever .--His son asked succor and shelter for his sick father at five different houses, and in every instance was refused. The poor lad, finding with but a single friend near him, hundreds of miles from home, on an inhospitable plain, I will just state before I close my letter, that | beneath the scorching rays of a midsummer's sun, to close the eyes and compose the limbs of that dead father-in a wagon! On reaching Omaha City a number of citizens took charge of the corpse and buried it.

EXTRAORDINARY EFFECT OF THE TORRID WEATHER.—The Buffalo (N. Y.) Republic indulges itself in the following:

"A servant girl took a very fat little baby out for a ride in a little wagon, and although on the shady side of the street, on turning round to look at her charge, found that the little darling had disappeared. Where could it have gone? Its clothing was still in the wagon, but where was the child? Retracing her steps a little way, she found that some fatty matter had leaked from the little wagon. and she followed up the trail for a block and a half, and this fatty oily trail was all that remained of the poor child, which had melted and run through. The servant maid, devoand 30 cents each, just received and for sale | ted to her mistress, took the child's clothing and with it, religiously soaked up all the oleaginous matter which had run from the wagon, and replacing it in the vehicle, went tearfully home to her mistress, and as she sobbingly told the story of the less of the little innocent, presented the child's clothes, and deliberately wrung out the remains. This touching proof of her fidelity to her mistress, and the heat of the weather, will bring a tear to many an eye.
