For the Farmer.

A GOOD DIALOGUE. Dialogue is that of two farmers on opposite sides of a fence. Mr. Smith, who has beside ing on the fence looking wistfully over at manures, and all kinds of humbugs. Mr. Jones, who is digging a splendid crop of big Potatoes. A picture of the scene was prepared with the original dialogue, and should be here, but we have not the engraving at hand. The dialogue is pleasing and instructive, and should be read by every

"The Potatoes, they are small, Over there, over there."—Old Song.

Mr. Smith-How is it, neighbor Jones, that your potatoes are so large and fine, while just over the fence, on similar soil, mine are as small as pullets' eggs, and precious few at

Mr. Jones-I manured this field with

Mr. Smith-'Pshaw. All the Cincinnati hog-killers couldn't supply brains enough for this ten-acre field.

Mr. Jones-I used human brains, of which there are plenty.

Mr. Smith—Nonsense—Now don't make fun of me because I'm unlucky, and Providence has sent you a good crop.

Mr. Jones—Providence helps those who help themselves. I used my own brains on this field.

Mr. Smith-So did I mine, and they are as good as anybody's,

Mr. Jones—Ah! There's the trouble. You know it all yourself: I don't, and so I get all the outside help I can. I've been collecting other men's brains for my land for twenty years, and you see one result in this crop. Mr. Smith-Yes, I see the result, but I don't understand it.

Mr. Jones-Well, when we began here 20 years ago. I thought myself a good farmer, but I believed others had good ideas, too, and I made it my business to get at their thoughts; some I found in agricultural books and papers, others I picked up at the County Fairs, by asking how the big things were raised, and often I've got a good hint from a neighbor.

Mr. Smith-I've always been down on this "book farming," but your crops stagger me, they're real knock-down arguments. I'm sick of the poor show I get for all my work, and am desperate enough to try anything for improvement.

Mr. Jones-I'll give you my experience; it may aid you. About nineteen years ago I heard that some men who had been brought up on farms, had clubbed together, and one of them was going to publish a paper, which should consist mainly of accounts how different farmers cultivated various crops, and such like matters. I sent for the paper and have done so every year since, and now I have nineteen large volumes, every page of which I have read, a little at a time, and the whole has not cost the produce of a tingle acre. Why I am astonished when I think over the ten thousand thoughts, and hints, and suggestions I have thus gathered. What a blank would be left in my head, if these thoughts were taken away.

Mr. Smith—But does the practice of farmers on other kinds of soil and with a different climate, suit your wants?

Mr. Jones-Why, no, not exactly, perhaps. But then, every thought I get from another, starts a new thought in my own mind, and thus I am constantly improving my own skill and practice. You see, I get all the brains I can from other men's heads, and compost them well in my own head with a mixture of common sense, and then make the application to my fields. In that way, I have manured this crop of potatoes with plenty of brains. The editor called here last week on, his Western tour among farmers, and seeing my good crops, he asked me to write out just how I have treated this field for years past, and I promised to do it as soon as my crops are gathered. He will probably print it, as he constantly prints all such practical matters, and perhaps a hundred thousand persons will read it; and though nobody else may do just as I do, many will get a new hint, and improve upon it. You may read it if you will.

Mr. Smith-I would like to borrow your

Mr. Jones-Better take it yourself, for then you will be more likely to read it. You will find hundreds of plain talks about various kinds of crops, during a single year. One hint gave five bushels of corn on each acre of a large field in a single year.

Mr. Smith-I can't afford to take it this

Mr. Jones-You would think nothing of spending two cents a week for extra tobacco, or a cigar, or candy, and that's all the paper will cost. How little a week it costs to supsupply yourself and family with a large amount of information through any-good

Mr. Smith-What are the politics of that

Mr. Jones-It doesn't touch politics. It is devoted to such subjects as Field and Garden crops, Animals, etc., and has, besides, a good is worth more than ten times the few pounds of butter it costs to pay for the paper. Then there is also a department for the young folks containing many things which please the children—not mere trashy stuff, such as is too often printed for them, but information that will have a good influence on them. I would sell a dozen bushels of wheat to have my young people get the good reading in that paper, but the average price of one bushel will pay for it a year. My John says he can pay for it easy with the eggs from two or three hens. If I was a mechanic or merchant and had only a little garden, I should take the paper to tell me how to make the best use of the little plot; and if I had not a foot of land I should still want it for my wife and

Mr. Smith-Does the editor know anything about farming?

Mr. Jones-The editor who owns and publishes the paper was brought up on a farm, where he learned to work. He has studied all the books on farming, and experimented for years in the laboratory, and has besides, traveled all over the country to see what was doing. Then he has several associates-Farmers, Gardeners, and Housekeepers, who know what they write about, and among them all they do gather up a wonderful lot of information every year. The language, too, is so plain, so like talking with you, that I enjoy reading it. Then, too, every paper has engravings, which show one exactly how animals and plants, and implements, and household furniture look, much better than words could describe them. Among these are plans of buildings, that help one to plan others; and

Mr. Smith—I suppose those engravings and descriptions are partly to help the editor YORK. sell implements or fertilizers.

Mr. Jones-Not at all. The editor keeps nothing of the sort to sell, so that he may be [The scene of the following Interesting perfectly free to praise or condemn anything, according as it may be valuable or worthless to his readers. You would laugh to see how him a basket of very small potatoes, is lean- he comes down on poor inventions, patent

Mr. Smith-Is the paper adapted to our part of the country?

Mr. Jones-Exactly. Soils and crops and climates differ, but the general principles of cultivation are the same everywhere, and here is the benefit of a paper published for the whole country. Every reader gets new ideas by learning what is done somewhere else; and further, I find that the paper has letters from every part of the country, and one or more associate editors in different sections, so that we get information from many regions and our own too. One thing I must mention particularly. The editor is constantly warning his readers against humbuys, telling how sharpers take advantage of people. Why, I was just going to send a dollar for an article advertised in glowing colors, when I found it shown up as a humbug in this paper. But I can not stop to talk more now-I have such a lot of potatoes to harvest.

Mr. Smith—I wish I had. I must try that paper a year, and see what there is in it. I can manage to save two cents a week. Mr. Jones-Never fear.-If you don't find it pays, I'll buy your copies at cost, for my boys to keep. Mr. Smith-What did you say the paper is called? Mr. Jones—The American Agriculturist. It is published in New York City. The editor, though one of our country farmers, and living in the country, finds he can publish it cheaper there, where printing, and paper, and mailing facilities are all convenient. Mr. Smith-How shall I get it?

Mr. Jones-Simply inclose a dollar bill in a letter, giving your name, Post Office, County, and State plainly and direct to Orange Judd, 41 Park Row, New York City.

Mr. Smith—When does a volume begin?

Mr. Jones-The twentieth volume begins Jan. 1st, but all who send in the dollar now, get the remaining numbers of this year, in addition to the whole of next year's. So if you subscribe now, you get fourteen months' papers. The proprietor also offers some valuable premiums to those who get up lists of subscribers. Send for the paper, and you may afterwards find it well worth while to make up a club. Some 1700 persons have got good premiums in this way during two years. Some of your German neighbors would join you, perhaps, for the Agriculturist is printed separately in German, I did intend to start a club myself, but I have so many potatoes to dig, I cannot get the time. My sister-in-law in Iowa, got up a club last year, and received a premium of a $50 Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine; an old acquaintance in Wisconsin got two or three good farming implements, and a young nephew of mine in Ohio got a beautiful copy of Webster's great Dictionary. These things only cost them a little time, showing the paper evenings and election day. Send in your subscription and the first paper will tell you all about the premiums. I forgot to tell you that every year the publisher also sends out to all his subscribers who want them a lot of choice garden and field seeds.

Mr. Smith-What does he charge for them? Mr. Jones—Nothing; they are sent free, except the postage. They are of the best kind and one single parcel I got last year was worth more to me than the price of the paper.

Mr. Smith-I'll try it a year, any way; if half what you say is true it will be a good investment.

Mr. Jones-You'll find every word I have said true. Mr. Smith -I'll send this very night, while in the spirit of it. Mr. Jones—Do it, and you'll always thank me for this talk. Good day, I must hurry up digging my potatoes, Iv'e such a lot of them thanks to a hint in the Agriculturist.

Mr. Smith-How did you say I should direct the letter containing the Dollar?

Mr. Jones-To Orange Judd, 41 Park Row, New York City.
