insylvania can prevent it, and this will endeavor to do, if necessary all the means that God and nature e placed in her power. [Applause.] But it has been alleged against insyl ania, by persons high in aurity in our sister States, that there laws on our statute books in deation of the Constitution of the ited States, and of the acts of Conss passed in accordance with its visions. If this be so, which I am . prepared to admit and do not bere, the country ought to know that was not intentionally done. This was not intentionally done. This set State has given sufficient proof her acts in the time past, that she conservative, law-abiding, Union d Constitution-loving, to relieve her many imputation of intentional ringement of the Constitution, or life pullification of Constitutional lful nullification of Constitutional ngressional enactments.

But let us be sure of our position. t only in intention, but in fact. I nture to suggest the hope that the ole body of our law bearing upon e subject matter of complaint alluded the rendition of fugitives held to labor or service in other States, will referred to the committee on the idiciary system, or to such other mmittee as the Senate may direct, id carefully examined and reported oon, and that if any just cause of implaint exists, that it will be comptly removed. Pennsylvania is no just to be guilty of intentional instice to other States, and too great eakly to refuse to acknowledge and rectify errors in her legislation hen pointed out to her and her legisture made sensible of their existence. .nd this without regard to what other tates are doing or may do, not for ear of threats or consequences, but heerfully, freely and gladly, because he loves the Constitution, ordained to form a more perfect Union, establishipstice, insure domestic tranquility, romote the general welfare, and search the blessings of liberty to our elves and our posterity," and desires o see it perpetuated in its integrity. Sexators: Your attention will be necessarily called to these and other natters of the gravest importance, and never was there greater occasion for he exercise of the highest wisdom on your part, never greater necessity for tates are doing or may do, not for your part, never greater necessity for assistance from that higher than hunan Wisdom, to whom our fathers aniformly looked in their great emergencies. May we all be enlightened to a faithful, able and conscientious discharge of our whole duty.

House.—The House was called to order at 12. Elisha W. Davis, of Venango, was elected Speaker. Upon taking the Speaker's chair, Mr. Davis addressed his fellow-members as follows:

REPRESENTATIVES OF PENNSYLVANIA: I return my thanks for the high honor done me in the election as your Speak-er. Since I came among you one year ago, my highest ambition has been to discharge my duty in such a manner as not only to receive, but deserve and done me in the election as your Speak-death. And within a few days of our coming together Henry K. Strong, one of Pennsylvania's noblest sons, whose good qualities of head and heart are known to all, has been called away.— They need no culogy from me. May God comfort their bereaved friends.

I need only say that I deeply feel the responsibilities of the position to which I have been chosen. But I will endeavor to discharge its duties unin fluenced by any other consideration than my deliberate convictions of right. I ask your indulgence and forbearance, your co-operation and support. I know too well the character of the members of this House to apprehend much diffinary importance. Pennsylvania, in the vastness of her resources, the amount of her wealth, and the number, intelligence, industry and integrity of hor citizens has few equals as a State. Her interests are committed to

The eyes of her three millions of people are upon us, and our actions will be closely watched and severely scrutinized. Let us act not only as the Representatives of a free people, but as men who appreciate the honor and feel the responsibilities of our pos-itions. While reckless madness rules, the councils of some of our sister States, and treason raises its bloody hand within their borders to strike down the National Government, the great heart of Pennsylvania beats responsive now, as it ever has done, to "the music of the Union." [Applause.]

I believe that I speak the sentiments of her entire people, when I say that the Old Keystone State, to the extent of her power, will maintain the Constitution and enforce the laws. [Applause.] Her voice is, and always has been "The Union must and shall be preserved." [Applause.] If there is any law upon her statute books which can be in any way tortured into an excuse for treason, I would advise its immediate repeal; [applause] and that she should then deny, in her sovereign capacity, the right of any State to secede from this government. [Ap-

The verdict of the people in the recent elections has been for the Constitution and the Union, and that verdiet must be respected and enforced at all hazards. [Applause.] Pennsylvania has suffered; her interests have been trampled upon. There is no State in the Union that has more just cause of complaint. She has sought her redress through the ballot box, in a Constitutional manner. She has set her seal of condemnation on a wicked and imbecile Administration; and I, for one, am now ready to sustain that verdict, if my country requires it, with the blessing of God, both my life. [Applause.]

THE GLOBE.

Huntingdon, Wednesday, Jan. 9, 1861. LOCAL & PERSONAL.

For the Globe. My attention has been called to an article copied into the last Journal & American from a Philadelphia paper, in which I am made to figure conspicuously in that city.

I have only to say that I have not been in Philadelphia for more than a year. Ikb w nothing about the transaction, except what I read in the newspaper, and no process or parties have come into my hands or custody connected with or relative to the said transaction. The best evidence of this fact is, that Hunter and Miss Scott were married in Lewstown on Saturday. This crushes out all the romance connected with the The only connection the ʻpage." gentleman in this city had in the matter can hardly be designated by the world as even an imprudent one. He endeavored to shield and screen a friend, both by his advice and means -this an enemy took advantage of, and the gentleman is determined to vindicate his character in a court of justice, not only by bringing suits against individuals, but also by putting the law of libel in force against all the papers who have brought him so prominently before the public in so unenviable a light.

It has already passed through a number of editions in rapid succession, and is pronounced by all classes of business must be be the handlest book of reference, pertaining to calculations, that has eyer been published.

Every example in the book is worked out in full and stated in a plain manner, so that when a parallel case arises, those referring to the work will find no difficulty in colving 3t; in a word, the general arrangement of the CALCULATO. Simple, that any one who knows how to add, subtract, multiply and divide, can easily solve any ordinary example that arises in business, or arrive at the true result of any estimate required.

The chief aim of the author has been to eschew theory and philisophy in figures, aiming only at facts and simplicity, believing that business mun care little about spending tipp in discussing the philosophy of rules, or the science of figures, deeping it sufficient for their purpose to be able at a moment, by reference, to arrive at the traction of the day and kindard works—It is a loy to practical business calculations—it is, in the hands of the business man, what the key to mathematical works in the bands of the teacher in the school room—it facilitates time and insures correctness.

R. NEWELL,
R. ALLERY OF ARY,
724 Arch Street, Philadelphia COMMENDATIONS:
From Hon. Lewis D. Campbell, M. C., Obic.
My family and friends all concur in the opinion that he (Newell) picture is more life-like than any thing they were saw. My likeness has been repeatedly taken by difcreat Artists in various ways, but I have never yet had now high presents so true to nature, all the features and xpressions of countenance as this.

From Hon. E. Joy Morris, late Minister to Italy, The exquisite finish, beauty and softness of your por-traits, conjoined with their dorability of solor and faith-fulness as likenesses, cannot fail to commend them to the attention and patronage of all who appreciate true art. From Col. James Page.

Having occasion for a portrait, I procured one from Mr. Robert Newell, of the city of Philadelphia, a miniature in Oil Colors, under the new process discovered by Alm, and take great pleasure in expressing the satisfaction given me, not only by the occuracy of the likepness, but its artistic finish in all respects, and recommends him to the patronage of those disposed to encourage the beautiful art.
