

The Farmer and Housekeeper.

Importance of Salt in Agriculture.

If we should ask why so enormous a quantity of this inestimable gift of salt is distributed throughout the earth...

In a French prize paper, by Dr. Desorme, on the manifold advantages of the use of salt in agriculture...

Common salt serves as a preventive of the fermentation and heating of hay which has been heaped up in large stacks during wet weather.

The effect is much better shown in straw, which if intended to be used as fodder, by being moistened with salt water...

Leaves of trees, when put in ditches with salt, may be prevented for a long time from putrefactive fermentation...

Intelligent farmers of the Mont d'Orleans are in the habit of thus preserving their vine leaves as fodder for goats.

By means of salt, such water as otherwise could not be used for cattle for drinking, will be rendered proper.

Quantity of Milk for a Pound of Butter.

Much difference of opinion is entertained in relation to the quantity of milk required to make a pound of butter.

We requested a dairymen in this State, Joshua S. Holbert, of Chemung, to make the experiment, and furnish us with the result.

It is very important that our dairymen should make careful trial of different varieties of feed, testing the qualities of each, and thus ascertain what is most beneficial.

B. P. Johnson, Esq.: In order to ascertain the quantity of milk necessary to make a pound of butter, I have measured several churning of milk, and then weighed the butter, and it takes 15 quarts of milk to make one pound of butter.

Live Cattle Weighed by Measure. The only instrument necessary is a measure with feet and inches marked upon it.

Example:—Suppose the girth of a bullock to be six feet three inches; length five feet six inches; the superficial area will then be thirty-four; and in accordance with the preceding table the weight will be seven hundred and eighty-two pounds.

Example:—Suppose a pig to measure in girth two feet, and length one foot nine inches. There would then be three and a half feet, which, multiplied by eleven, gives thirty-eight and a half pounds as the weight of the animal when dressed.

Calves With Sheep. It is well known, perhaps, to most of your agricultural readers, that late calves, when they come to the barn in the fall, will, if confined in yards with older animals, frequently sicken and become debilitated.

Dressing of Wounds.

The first dressing to recent wounds after stopping the blood by means of styptics, or tying the vessel should it be necessary, is dry lint covered with tow or linen cloth.
