experience in this matter; and has is-I noticed in the columns of one of sued a pamphlet giving his method of your cotemporaries, a short time since, using it, which is briefly stated in the the following query, propounded for following: He does not cut his potadiscussion in our agricultural perioditoes for setting, but sets them whole; cals: "What means can be best emand the largest he can select. The ployed to prevent farmers' sons deserrows are thirty inches apart, and the ting their fathers' occupation ?" potatoes are put nine inches from each

A most important query truly to be other in the row. The land is plowed solved, and perhaps not so easily done eight inches deep, treads the manure at the present fast age of the world, firmly in the furrows, puts in the tuwhen every one is in so great haste to bers, and covers them with tan refuse, be in other words "hasten to be rich." ninc inches deep instead of earthing rich or to acquire notability in some up. In this way he reports that in shape. But one truth may be safely 1857 he raised 675 bushels of potatoes asserted at the outset, which is, that -not a rotten one among them---to those of our sons that have an eager the acre, with nothing but waste tan desire to acquire property suddenly, or as a covering. This is of great imporhad assuredly better seek some other tance, the tan refuse being of little or employment than farming as soon as no value, and if it be put to so imporpossible. tant advrntages as in this case, it

We must acknowledge also, that at should be widely known and practisthe present time strong inducements are held out to the young to forsake the good old ways of their fathers and seek elsewhere than at the farm, employment or distinction. Why, we have only to look at the advertising pages of our periodicals, even our agricultural, to see blazoned forth for the especial benefit of the youthful and inexperienced, "How to make a fortune!" "$100 a month !" "Wanted young men to engage in a pleasant and profitable employment !" "1,000 agents wanted," and a thousand and one similar clap-trap devices.

There may be several influences brought to bear upon our sons to induce them to follow the farm; and first, we must show them that it will have named.

be for their interest pecuniarily to do so, for we all know this goes far in influencing a live Yankee in his choice of occupation. Teach them that in the end farming is positively the safest occupation a young man can selectthat though there are others in which, perchance, money can be more rapidly accumulated, (as previously stated,) yet the slow and sure process is what tells in the end and more to be prized -that the probabilities are, that if a young man of industry and intellect pursues farming for twenty years as ought to, with diligence and an enlightened understanding, he will at the end of that period, probably be in possession of as much or more of this world's goods than if he had chosen another occupation.

Again, it is healthful. How true is this when compared, we may say, with | beans, two pounds of salt pork, and almost any other pursuit extant. As to men, we say, when the hair begins to fall out, the best plan is to have it cut short, give it a good brushing with a moderately stiff brush, while the hair is dry, then wash it well with warm soap suds then rub into the scalp, about the roots of the hair, a little bay rum, brandy or camphor water. Do these things twice a month--the brushing of the scalp may be profitably done twice a weak. Damp the hair with water every time the toilet

t a filthy practice, almost universal though it be, for it gathers dust and dirt, and soils wherever it touches.— Nothing but pure soft water should ever be allowed on the heads of children. It is a different practice that robs our women of their most beautiful ornament long before their prime; the hair of our daughters should be kept within two inches, until their

Once more-it is honorable-noble. His employment is ever amid the works of the Creator indeed, he seems, (if the thought be not irreverent,) working in concert with Him. He trustingly places the seed in the earth, the Great Father waters and warms it into life, and thus laboring together, seemingly, the grain is perfected. The mechanic or architect labor in a different light, they seem to bring to perfection the ideal which they had previously devised, unaided. Not so with the husbandman. KEEPING FARM ACCOUNTS .- We were much interested recently in looking over the farm book of a friend, which was so kept as to enable him to calculate the expense of growing the different crops upon the farm. The cost of peated with success. manure, cultivation, seed, harvesting and marketing, as well as rent and taxes, was set off against the value of the product as sold or consumed upon the farm; and it was to be seen at a glance what paid best and what least. and where in one case $10 expended in manuring half a field, gave a return of 150 per cent. upon the outlay .---Such information is not only interesting but important to every farmer, and can be secured at the triffing trouble of "keeping an account with the farm.-Country Gentleman.

SALTING WHEAT IN THE MOW .-- W. P. Cooper, of Lancaster, Pa., in an essay on Cutting and Harvesting Grain, published in the Farmer and Gardener, says, in storing wheat in a mow, he commences on one side, places the sheaves in regular layers, with the NEW GROCERY butts outside, tramping heavily on the butt of each as it is laid down. The ping about half way over the first, of the mow is covered in this way, common ground salt is sprinkled over the mow on the top of the layer, at portion of salt if the sheaves are very large. During the sweating, the salt bushel than that which was not salted. Millers say the yield of flour is larger and whiter. Cattle cat the straw freely. It is a most effectual remedy against the barn weevil. Experience has proved this to be a fact.
