LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE

Death of Samuel Miller.

Barree Tp., March 15, 1861. Wm. Lewis, Esq. :- Dear Sir :- It becomes my duty to chronicle one of the saddest and most heart-rending occurrences I have ever witnessed. At our Township Election where everything appeared to have assumed a joydulging in that pleasure (peculiar to messenger, Death made his appearance.

Singular enough, as its mark, it selected one of the most healthful, one S. of your town. One moment he was strong, healthful and vigorous, in possession of all the faculties of active manhood,-the next he was as perfectly inanimate as the most lifeless. His death east a gloom over all the community, and his loss is deeply and sensibly felt.

Whilst I shed an honest tear to his memory, I pray Heaven to deal gently with, and comfort his afflicted family and friends.

CASSVILLE, March 9 .- A fire occurred in this vicinity yesterday. The house of Solomon Chilcote, at the coal bank, was burned, with nearly all the contents. About $800 worth of household goods were destroyed. The house belonged to John Savage, of Philadelphia. At was worth perhaps $400.

Something New and Good .- Just received at Lowis' Book Store, a new article of writing will preach in the Baptist Church, in rently as much pleased as if he had fluid. It costs but a trifle more and is much superior to any writing inks.

LANDS OF ILLINOIS LANDS OF LILINOIS.

No State in the valley of the Mississhph offers so great an inducement to the settler as the State of Illinois.—
There is no portion of the world where all of the conditions of climate and soil so admirably combine to produce these two great staples, corn and wheat, as the pranies of Illinois.

RICH ROLLING PRAIRIE LANDS. The deep rich loam of the prairies is cultivated with such wolderful facility that the farmers of the Eastern and Middle States are moving to Illinois in great numbers. The area of Illinois is about equal to that of England, and the soil is so jich that it will support twenty millious of people.

EASTERN AND SOUTHERN MARKETS. These lands are contiguous to a railroad seven hundred niles in length, which connects with other roads and nav igable lakes and rivers, thus affording an unbroken com-municatation with the Eastern and Southern markets, municatation with the Eastern and Southern markets.

Application of Capital.

Thus far capital and labor have been applied to developing the foll; the great resources of the State in coal and iron are almost untouched. The invariable rule that the mechanic arts floursh best where food and fuel are cleapest, will follow at an early day in Illinois, and in the course of the next ten years the natural laws and necessities of the case warrant the belief that at least five hundred thousand people will be engaged in the State of Illinois in the various manuacturing employments.

In 1850, the population of the 49 counties through which it passes was only 385.598, since which 479,293 have been added, making the whole population 814,891—a gain of 143 per cent.

ROHRER'S PRACTICAL CALCU-

A Rook of Plain Rules and Calculations for Business Operations, by Martin M. Rohrer, Practical Surveyor and Conveyancer. New Edition, published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia. cott & Co., Philadelphia.

This work contains 204 pages, and upwards of 500 Rules and Examples, entirely and thoroughly practical, such as arise every day in the common pursuits of Business. It has already passed through a number of editions in rapid succession, and is pronounced by all classes of business men to be the landless book of reference, pertaining to calculations, that has ever been published. Every example in the hook is worked out in full and stated in a plain manner, so that when a parallel case arises, those referring to the work will find no difficulty in solving it; in a word, the general arrangement of the CALOULATOR is simple, that any new hocknows how to add, subtract multiply and divide, can easily solve any ordinary example that arises in business, or arrive at the true result of any estimato required.

The chief nim of the author has been to eschew theory and philosophy in figures, aiming only at facts and simplications.

The chief aim of the author has been to eschew fleosy and philosophy in figures, aiming only at facts and simplicity, believing that business men care little about spending time in discussing the philosophy of rules, or the science of figures, deeming it sufficient for their purpose to be able at a moment, by reference, to arrive at the true result. The CALCULATOUR differs in this respect from all other Arithmetics of the day and kindled works—It is a key to practical business calculations—It is, in the hands of the business man, what the key to mathematical works in the hands of the teacher in the school room—it facilitates time and insures correctness. THE WORK TREATS OF THE Measurement of Land, of Lumber, of Brick and Brick Work, cf Stone and Stone work, of grain and grain bins, of coal and coal bins, of wood, of solids, of liquids, of circular, square or irregular vessels, of cistens and vats, of roofing, of plasteer's, painter's, glazier's, paver's, plumb, ci's, paper hanger's and upholsterer's work. It treats of currency and of foreign and domestic exchange, of the decimal system, of reduction and its extended application to business, of slimple and compound interest, and their entic application to business transactions, with the laws and usages governing the same, together with numerous commercial torms—of legal tender, of partial payment on notes, of banking and bank discount, of equation of payment and of partnership accounts, of assessment of taxes, of weights and measures, of square and cubic measure, of the square root and its application to business of surfaces, of excavation, and of many other important practical matters not within the scope of an advertisement to mention.
