

THE GLOBE.

Tuesday Afternoon, June 11, 1861.

LOCAL & PERSONAL.

OUR CORRESPONDENCE.

MILLERSVILLE, LANCASTER CO., June 4th, 1861.

FRIEND LEWIS:—On the 27th ult. I had the pleasure of setting foot upon the pavement of Lancaster City, and after having made inquiry as to the proper course to pursue, I set out for Camp Johnston. Immediately after passing the guard at the entrance, I had the pleasure of meeting Captain Johnston, of the Union Guards, who was anxious that I should accompany him to a platform, overlooking the parade ground, to take a view of the 14th and 15th regiments that were there on drill; and it is nothing more than justice to say, that I doubt if there are two regiments, of the same experience, in the Keystone State, that understand their business as well as the 14th and 15th. The movements, such as forming front, passing from line into column, and from column into line, &c., were executed with that readiness that reflects much credit, both on officers and privates.

After two hours' drill, parade was dismissed, and I had the pleasure of meeting two of my most intimate friends, W. W. Borst and S. T. Davis, formerly of Hanover county, who have, within a few days past, entered Capt. Johnston's company; they, in fact, all were in very good spirits, and were anxious to be moving south.

Yesterday, the 9th, the two regiments referred to, moved to Chambersburg. A very important movement will not only be made from thence this week, but will be made by Pennsylvania troops commanded by Gen. Patterson; the column will embrace about 15,000 men. The intention is to dislodge the rebels from Harper's Ferry. A few days will satisfy General Impatience himself, or, General Scott says, is the only General he is afraid of.

Yours respectfully, H. A. R.

PENNSYLVANIA, June 10, 1861.

MR. EDITOR:—A week has again been wasted into the dead records of the past, since my last communication to your welcome sheet, and has left with us scarcely any items worthy of note. The abundance of rain during the last week, kept the farmers mostly housed up, or at least prevented them accomplishing their necessary labor, such as tilling the corn, &c., which stands in great need of cultivation, as in many cases it is striking level. Perhaps I can give you some news, which promise fair to gain the ascendancy; but I see with the new week we have prospects of fair weather, and our good farmers with their willing hands and strong appetites for green corn, will soon set the little caprice free.

On last Saturday the Home Guards made their appearance in full trim. Their expertness in military accomplishments is surprising when compared with the limited time for practice. Next Saturday the company have an invitation to go to McConnellstown on a grand parade, which I have no doubt will elicit much credit, as well as be entertaining to behold. Penna is all right to the present. National crisis, with a manifest development of patriotism and fortitude to defend the glorious Stars and Stripes at the point of the bayonet while breath remains; harboring and quartering none but the true Union-loving men and women. Yours &c., COSMOPOLITE.

Our Army Correspondence.

CAMP CURTIS, Harrisburg, June 7th, 1861.

DEAR GLOBE:—Some time ago I had intended to send through the columns of your paper, a few lines to our friends among The Globe readers, and now I have determined to do so. If my compositors are ever inclined to say "really" at my nervous chirography, let their disgust melt to pity as they imagine the subscriber seated on the stool end of a camp kettle, with paper on the soles of a new pair of shoes, No. 11—the sole equipments yet furnished us.

The experience of a soldier's life in Camp—Curtis, I can speak of only as one of so many hardships as is generally supposed. Our company in their expectations of provisions, &c., here, have been very "agreeably disappointed." Our beds are not the downiest, nor our viands the richest; yet tired limbs, soon by custom, rest as well on straw, and soldiers being blessed with a good appetite, they can resist the substantial with a will, and we get plenty to satisfy the most voracious. Very true, that sometimes in their new life, the "tear of regret will intensify itself" in the eyes of some of the boys, as they "fancy revert" to the "good house at home," and especially to their mothers' corner cupboard, where the "lasses and 'sarves" need to be kept; but it is a soldier's duty to forget such luxuries, as it is natural that he does; however, all the sweet things of life are to be had here—for the money. The soldiers are "a gay and happy" lot of men, and jokes are taken and given, that would occasion "black eyes" at home.

We had two deserters from our company, previous to being sworn in. I'll not tell you they are, for they have the names of men, and having men's names, you might think they were men; but according to "Bill," the poet, to call caecorum, men is at best, but a grievous error. He may the wounded American eagle ever shriek over their heads, so that they may know no peaceful slumbers!—That is rather an inhuman wish, still, I say, if the old bird will come down so low, let her do it! [Peter, the names of the deserters were given in our last issue.] Yesterday, through Mr. Jas. Patterson, our company thanked for the ladies of Canoe Valley, who were anxious that I should accompany him to a platform, overlooking the parade ground, to take a view of the 14th and 15th regiments that were there on drill; and it is nothing more than justice to say, that I doubt if there are two regiments, of the same experience, in the Keystone State, that understand their business as well as the 14th and 15th. The movements, such as forming front, passing from line into column, and from column into line, &c., were executed with that readiness that reflects much credit, both on officers and privates.

The weather has been rather damp since we encamped here, but we have good tents, and consequently keep quite dry. I wish you were here to take a view of us, as we have a large young "Slammer" prepared for the pot. I know you could relish it; and at all events, I know Mess No. 3 will.

I received a copy of the Semi-Weekly Globe, yesterday, for which you have our thanks. I expect we will move from here soon, when you shall hear from me again.

Yours truly, S. G. B.

Senator Douglas' Last Hours.

The Chicago Tribune, in a long notice of Senator Douglas, says:

In his last days, he was the man who stood near to minister to his wants, the most convincing assurances of the depth and earnestness of the lively love of country, that filled his heart in his waking hours, as well as in those moments when the violence of his disease unseated his great intellect, he was busy with national events, and the conflict that was going on in the world.

It was his last wish that the work which will regenerate the country, will be rescued from his enemies should go rapidly on. To one, in a wandering mood, he said, "I station you at the Relay House. Move on!" Of another he asked, "Why do we stand still? let us press on." Let us to Alexandria march! To the aid of the President, and so through the cloud movement! And so through the progress of the disease which struck him down—he was thinking of his country and his countrymen.

He was in his imagination, and in the command for which nature had fitted him, and which would have been believed had he not been so near to death, that he would direct events and dictate victory. And when the loud intervals came, he was, if not so emphatic, not less sincere—"The salvation of my country, by day and by night. His own condition, the imminent peril of death, his complicated affairs gave him no concern. Almost to the last he was thinking of the welfare of the Republic, and the prosperity of the Union, and the honor and glory of the Republic, by the defeat and the dispersion of her enemies. The country, regardless of his personal sufferings, and the love of the Stars and Stripes is not repressed by the terrorism which he knew and hated, will treasure up his dying prayer and make his hopes and aspirations the rule of patriotic endeavor."

In another article the Tribune says: "It was not until some ten days since that Senator Douglas' illness assumed a serious character. From the first he had been attended by some of our best medical talent, and latterly it was thought desirable to summon him to the city of Washington, in which case Mr. Douglas had passed through former severe illnesses. Dr. Miller and the Washington relatives of Mrs. Douglas reached Chicago on the 25th ult., and he was taken to the city, and attended upon him.

"Throughout the latter part of last week, Mr. Douglas' condition was deemed extremely serious, with chances against his recovery. His primary attack was acute rheumatism, which rapidly assumed a typhoid character, and continued from the first, very unyielding. After some ten or twelve days, his malady was complicated by an ulcerated sore throat, which soon yielded. The purpose of the liver and continued, which came down in torrents, we marched forth and stationed our guards. It appeared the longer we remained, the harder it rained. On this ground, and in the rain, we were compelled to remain twenty-six hours, during that time, without eating. You can imagine what we resembled next day.

On the 3d and 4th we had the exquisite pleasure of taking by the hand, Col. S. S. Wharton, Levi Evans, Zep. and Dr. C. W. Moore. It causes quite a rejoicing in camp when our Hanover county friends call to see us. May they continue coming.

Our sincerest thanks are due lady S. J. Yeocum, of Mapleton, for those delicious cakes sent us, individually—Wonder which would she next?

CAMP CHAMBERS, June 7, Com. C. 3d Reg. P. V. Y.

DEAR EDITOR:—Once more I sent myself with knapsack on my knee, (which, by the way, answers for a writing desk), to give you a few items of what is going on in camp. On Saturday, the 1st inst., we moved from our quarters in Chambersburg, after a warm and dusty march, we arrived here, where we pitched our tents, and are living "at the top of the pile." We have every thing we want, and if our Hanover county friends could see the ravages perpetrated on the feathered tribe, they would think we were not short of provender, as has been reported. Our old Uncle Sam—provides plentifully, and with the extras, we have more than we need. Yesterday, we received a wagon-load of fine beef, presented by the farmers near here, which was divided among the 3d Regiment; and in the afternoon we received a large wagon-load of bread, pies, cakes, pickles, &c., from the ladies of Greenacres, for which they received the thanks of the 3d Regiment, particularly our company. The citizens are very kind to us, for which they receive our thanks.

We are encamped in a beautiful country, where good water plentifully abounds. Although we get some of the Plaster Paris, it is not a while, we have good living. We don't mind the bread, as it is a very wholesome diet.

The boys are all in excellent spirits, and are getting more anxious every day to pay a visit to the Southern rebels, who they think they can do justice and honor to the glorious Stars and Stripes. There is a little of everything going on here. The 2d and 3d Regiments are in this Camp, and the boys have some fine fun among themselves. For my part, I never enjoyed myself better.

The weather has been rather damp since we encamped here, but we have good tents, and consequently keep quite dry. I wish you were here to take a view of us, as we have a large young "Slammer" prepared for the pot. I know you could relish it; and at all events, I know Mess No. 3 will.
