HUNTINGDON, PA.

Oh! say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we bail'd at the twilight's last glea Whose broad stripes and bright stars through the perilous fight, O'er the ramparts we watch'd, were so gallantly stream Ing!
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still ther
Ohl say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave,
O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave?

On the shore, dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
Where the fees haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, for the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the glean of the morning's first beam;
In full glory reflected; now shines on the stream—
"Its the star-phangled banner! Oh, long may it wave,
O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brare!

O'er the igns of the free, and the home of the brave.

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore.

That the havee of war, and the battle's confusion,
home and a country should leave us no more?

Their blood has wash'd out their foul footstep's pollutic.
No refuge could save the hireling and slave,
From the terror of flight or the gloom the grave!

And the start-spangled banner in trimph doth wave,
O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave! Oh! thus be it ever, when freemen shall stand Between their loved home and war's desolation Blessed with victory and peace, may the Heaven
