HUNTINGDON, PA. Thursday afternoon, Oct. 10, 1861.

The Star-Spangled Banner.

Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn's early light, What so proudly we hail'd as the twilight's last gleaming...

Red, White, and Blue.

Oh, Columbia, the gem of the ocean, The home of the brave and the free, The world's best hope and the world's pride...

The Election.—The Result.

The election on Tuesday last, passed off very quietly in every district in the county. The vote was small—falling at least two thousand short of the usual number polled.

The Latest News.

From Fortress Monroe. Fortress Monroe, Oct. 7, via Baltimore.—The steamer Express met this morning by agreement the rebel steamer Northumberland...

From Washington.

Washington, October 7. With a good field glass in your hand, from the dome of the Capitol you can enjoy a most exhilarating prospect.

From Washington.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Mr. Dale, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, has returned from his official visit to the Indian tribes in Kansas and Nebraska.

But that which will most attract your attention is the marvellous change that has been wrought in this and all other parts of the country since the genius of General McClellan took possession of our military department.

But you will ask, why is not some thing done? Why does not General McClellan advance? I might reply by asking why does not the enemy attack? It is not for him to advance, especially in view of the fact that he can afford to stand where he is, or so to move as to press his adversary back so that when the wrager of bat'le is offered by the latter it may be accepted with due caution and promptness.

Red, White, and Blue. Columbia, the gem of the ocean, The home of the brave and the free, The world's best hope and the world's pride.

From Washington.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Mr. Dale, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, has returned from his official visit to the Indian tribes in Kansas and Nebraska.

Another Surrender in Missouri. Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 8.—Col. Matthews telegraphed to Gov. Gamble, this morning, that he had been compelled to surrender his camp, with 3 pieces of cannon, to a superior force.

The Indians as a class are disposed to be friendly, but those who are in hostility have been coerced to this by the rebels.

Reinforcements have been sent both to Hottel and the bridge. On hearing of the approach of the rebels, the Indians against the United States, were attended with only partial success.

General Spitzer, United States Treasurer, Colonel Harry Longworth, of Pennsylvania, Colonel Sherman, and a number of ladies, went out to Pall's Church yesterday.

The main body of the rebels are at Fairfax Court House, whence a broad belt of camps almost unbroken, are seen from our halcyon straits.

The War in Western Virginia.

The Late Engagements in this Quarter.—How Lee was Outgeneraled.—General Lee's Retreat.—The Rebels' Position.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The rebel pickets came up this morning to the old position on our advance, but were driven in several miles by our forces.

Important from Hattlers Inlet.

Fortress Monroe, Oct. 8.—via Baltimore.—The United States Steam Frigate Susquehanna, has arrived from Hattlers Inlet, bringing most interesting intelligence.

Interesting from the South.

From the Cincinnati Gazette, Oct. 9. From Mr. Robert Morgan, a well-known power-pressman of this city, who returned from Memphis yesterday morning, we gather some interesting particulars relative to the number and condition of the rebel forces, and the situation in Southwestern Seccesia.

answered their purpose better by remaining neutral. Few persons in the North, says our informant, have an idea of the amount of goods and provisions sent South over the Louisville and Nashville railroad the past summer.

There are no entrenchments or batteries at Memphis, but a short distance back of the city there is a camp of instruction, containing five or six regiments. These were sent off immediately but for the fact that they are unarmed, and no arms can be procured for them.

Some time ago a company calling themselves the Memphis Guerrillas, were formed to act as spies.

Washington was killed by a party of rebels in a small town in Kentucky. The rebels were in the neighborhood of Lexington, and were moving regularly between the silver water of the Tygart, and the interest of the scene.

comrades and escaped. It was thus that the traitor Washington was killed. Three shots went into his back, and all passed through his breast.

Since the retreat our scouts have been on a sharp look-out for the enemy, and it is reasonable to suppose that they will not allow him to keep too far away.

In company with Maj. Christopher, I rode, this morning, up the valley, past several of the encampments and the fortifications.
