Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there!
Ohl say, does that star-spangled banner yet was,
O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave! O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave!

On the shore, dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
Where the fees haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fiffully blows, half conceats, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam;
In full glory reflected, now shipes on the stream—
"Its the star-spangled banner! Oh, long may it wave,
O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave!

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore
That the havee of war, and the battle's confusion,
A home and a country should leave us no more!
Their blood has wash'd out their foul footstep's pollution
No refuge could save the hireling and slave,
From the terror of flight or the gloom of the grave!
And the star-spangled banner in tituspih doth wave,
O'er the land of the fice, and the home of the brave! Oh! thus he it ever, when freemen shall stand Between their loved home and war's desolation!
