R Tells You How to draw up Partnership Papers and gives general forms for Agreements of all stinds, Bills of Steel, Eleges and Pertitions, Branch of Agreement and Bills of Steel, Eleges and Pertitions, Branch of Agreement and Bills of Steel, Eleges and Pertitions, Branch of Agreement Conveyancer. New Edition, published by J. D. Lippings cott & Co., Philadelphia.

This work contains 204 pages, and upwards of 500 Rules and Examples, entirely and thoroughly practical web as alise every day in the common pursuits of Business. It has already passed through a utilities of editions in rapid succession, and is pronounced by all classes of business men to be the handiest book of reference, portaining, to calculations, that has ever been published.

Every example in the book is worked out in full and stated in a plain manner, so that when a parallel case arises, those referring to the work will find no difficulty in solving it; in a word, the general arrangement of the CALCULATOR is simple, that any one who knows how to add, subtract multiply and divide, can easily solve any ordinary example that arises in business, or nrive at it error result of any estimate required.

The chief aim of the author has been to eschew theory and philosophy in figures, mining only at facts and simplicity, believing that business men care little about spending time in discussing the philosophy of rules, of the selence of figures, deeming it sufficient for their purpose to be able at a moment, by reference, to mrive at the true result. The CALCULATOR differs in this respect from all other Arithmetics of the observement, the school room—it facilitates time and invaries contractures.
