The GLOBE. HUNTINGDON, PA. Friday, April 24, 1863. A WORD TO THE LADIES.

BY J. L. A. The Scripture justly and wisely said that the man who has a wife should love her as himself.

THE FUTURE. We clip the following from a late issue of J. N. Brady, a distinguished New York Democrat.

If the Northern man who contemplates the possibility of the time ever arriving when, being on the soil of Europe, an intelligent European shall say to him—'Sir, you have no country; you being twenty-five millions, were conquered by eight millions'—for that man I wish no punishment other than that even in the ashes of his destruction, he may feel the bitter pang of that insult; but for the Northern man, whatever his political creed or party, who entertains a hope and conviction that our country will still retain its power and its name on earth, I open my arms to receive him.

TORIES.—A Prediction.—The Washington (Pa.) Reporter, in a recent issue, puts upon record for future reference, the following prediction: that, in coming years, when peace is restored throughout the land, as, by God's blessing, and in spite of the rebels, it will be those men in the North, who, in this terrible crisis of the nation's history, have uttered no word of encouragement to the Government—who have raised their voices in condemnation of the rebellion, but have denounced the powers that be, and openly or covertly declared their sympathy with the South will at last be brought to a just and honorable end.

Tell an American boy of the present day that his grandfather was a toy in the revolutionary times, and he will resent the impeachment with indignation. In one century the brand of Toryism, like the ban of bastardy, is an ensh of dishonor, and it will be so hereafter. The toy father of to-day will transmit the stigma to his children, and their children's children will be taunted with it to the third and fourth generations. The words of disloyalty uttered by them to-day will be bitterly denied; but they have been engraved in the memory of living witnesses, and cannot be forgotten.

HUNTINGDON, PA., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1863. VOL. XVIII.

From the 1st Penna. Reserve Cavalry. We are permitted to publish the following from John McCahan to his father, J. K. McCahan, Esq., of this place: Belle Plain, Va., April 12, 1863.

Great Union Demonstration at the York Hospital. At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the soldiers of the Military Hospital at York, Pennsylvania, and the members of the Maryland Potomac Guards, held in the Mess room of the hospital on Tuesday evening, April 2nd, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Message from Gov. Curtin. History of the Military Operations of the Soldiers of the 1st Pennsylvania Cavalry for Governor. The following message was communicated to both Houses of the Legislature on Wednesday, the 18th inst., in answer to the usual inquiry, before the adjournment, as to whether the Executive had any further business to communicate to that body:

Our Duty as Individuals in the Present Crisis. This is a time which tries the soul of every patriot. Two years of tremendous effort have passed, and still the rebellion maintains its attitude of defiance. Our armies and navies are lying in apparent inactivity, interrupted only at distant intervals, and then more frequently by reverses, trifling indeed, which consider the immensity of the field of operations, but still depressing and disheartening to the people.

Our Soldiers. It is interesting to examine the material of the Union army; and to recognize, among the hosts of men who have arisen to support the standard of moral and civil progress, so many representatives of European nations.

WHILEAS, We, as American soldiers were impelled in taking up arms in defence of our country, constitution, and the great principles of christian civilization, by a holy and chastened enthusiasm: And whereas, our hearts have been made bleed by seeing our glorious country trampled by rebellion, and our arms raised to smother the flames of civil war, which our war-path can be traced by the graves and blood of heroes, who have fallen upon the altar of Liberty, we turn to our homes to find men, dear to the impulses of better days, placing the assassin's blade at the throat of our Government, and at the heart of our dearest friends.

Resolved, That as soldiers of the Union, having voluntarily tendered our services for its defence, we are not only ready to assist the Government in its efforts to suppress the rebellion, but if necessary, to lay down our lives as a sacrifice for its safety, preferring to sleep in honored graves, rather than that the present and future generations should be deprived of the blessings of civil and religious liberty, which we have so long enjoyed.

Resolved, That we regard the opposition to the government now inaugurated by the traitors of the South, as the suspension of the writ of Habeas Corpus, the emancipation proclamation of the President, and the conscription act of the late Congress, as a gross violation of the Constitution, and as a direct and deliberate attack upon the Union of our fathers.

Resolved, That we will continue this struggle for our nationality and the rights of our fathers, and that we will not be deterred by the loss of our lives, our property, or our families, from our duty to our country, and to our fellow-citizens, who are now suffering from the effects of the rebellion.

Resolved, That we believe in the proclamation, the conscription act, and the conscription act, feeling the former too designed to knock the black unprincipled traitor from the field, and the latter to stand forth in the triumph and glory of its original beauty and more than its original strength.

Resolved, That we believe in the proclamation, the conscription act, and the conscription act, feeling the former too designed to knock the black unprincipled traitor from the field, and the latter to stand forth in the triumph and glory of its original beauty and more than its original strength.
