HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, May 13, 1863.

LOCAL & PERSONAL.

Local Items.

Proposed Burying Ground.—We have heard that the Board of Public Works intend giving to the inhabitants of the region a piece of ground about one mile from Coalmont to be used as a burying ground. This has been much needed and will give the miners a chance of burying together, instead of scattering all over the country; and the location will be convenient to all.

County Superintendent.—The triennial Convention of School Directors for the selection of a County Superintendent for the coming three years, and the fixing of the salary for the same, as required by law, was held pursuant to previous notice, in the Court House on Monday, May 4th.

Accept the assurances of my kind consideration, and believe me, Yours truly, H. O. CORBIN.

THE 125TH.—The 125th Regiment will arrive in Harrisburg some time this week, to be mustered out of service. The "boys" will receive a warm reception here if the certain time of their arrival at the depot can be made known.

Meeting of Assistant Assessors.—Assistant Assessors of Internal Revenue previous to the 1st of January, 1863, in the XVIIIth Collection District of Pennsylvania, are requested to meet at the Exchange Hotel in Huntingdon, on SATURDAY, the 23d day of May, inst., to determine the best method, if any, of securing the pay for their services now being withheld in direct violation of the Excise Law. A full attendance is desired.

KILLED AND WOUNDED.—Very few of the Huntingdon county "boys" were killed or wounded in the late battles. There may be some not yet reported. The following are the only names of men connected with this county who are attached to the published lists:

Col. Crovther, 110th Pa. Captain H. W. Mitchell, 125th.

Wounded.—Lt. A. Evans, 125th. John Brown, 110th. John Love, 125th. Sergeant James Honeck, 125th. John McKamey, 125th. David Oswald, 125th.

By accounts from the army rec'd. last week, we find that Major Miles, one of our citizens, is safe. The 49th regiment is in Sedgewick's Sixth army corps. They were in the attack upon the Heights of Fredericksburg, and marched into the very heart of those strongholds. The enemy got in their rear and attacked them on all sides. Col. Irwin was wounded in the foot. The regiment behaved bravely.

Richard Miles, Jr., of the 148th, Centre county regiment, a nephew of J. G. Miles, Esq., of this place, lost an arm in the late battle of Fredericksburg.

New Goods.—Fisher, Gwin and Cunningham have received lots of new goods. Call and see them.

Our Army Correspondence.—From the 6th U. S. Cavalry.

WARRENTON JUNCTION, VA., April 20, 1863.

Dear Globe.—Since my last we have been on the march nearly all the time. We struck tents in our old camp near Palomont, on the 22d inst., and early on the 23d were in readiness for our march. After a delay of an hour we were on our way, going via Stoneman's Switch on the Aquia Creek R. R., which is guarded by the 11th P. V., 8th P. V., and 12th N. H. V. (In the former we served some fourteen months of our time.) We saw several of the boys; they looked well and are in very fine spirits, although greatly reduced in numbers.

HUNTINGDON, May 6, 1863.

Wm. Lewis, Editor of Globe.—In the Globe of this morning you publish the following:

In a controversy with J. H. O. Corbin, Esq., of this place, on Friday evening last, K. Milton Speer, Esq., one of the editors of the Monitor, said he would sooner the rebellion should succeed than that the loyal League party should be successful in keeping out of power the Democratic party."

I pronounce the above statement an absolute falsehood. I never used any such language, nor uttered any such sentiment, to Mr. Corbin or to any other person. Nor am I "one of the editors of the Monitor."

Respectfully, R. MILTON SPEER.

GLOBE OFFICE, Huntingdon, May 11th, 1863.

Dear Sir.—What have you to say to the above?

Yours, &c., Wm. Lewis, Editor of the Globe.

HUNTINGDON, May 12, 1863.

Wm. Lewis, Esq., Editor of the Globe.

Dear Sir.—In reply to the above card of R. Milton Speer, Esq., denying that he ever "used any such language or uttered any such sentiment" as that published in your paper of the 6th May, instant, I can only say, that on Friday evening, the 1st inst., Mr. Speer and myself had a controversy in relation to the election of certain borough officers, when he replied, that rather than see the "Union League" succeed, (a member of which I claimed to be,) gotten up to prescribe Democrats, he would rather the rebellion might succeed.

Accept the assurances of my kind consideration, and believe me, Yours truly, H. O. CORBIN.

[It will be seen that Mr. Speer denies having written editorials for the Monitor. We want the people to remember this denial. Who believes him?]

THE SICK AND WOUNDED.

Prompt Measures for their Removal to Hospitals Within the Borders of the State.

From the Harrisburg Telegraph, May 20th. Dispatches received at the Executive Department, late last evening, direct from Gen. Curtis, who is now with the Pennsylvania troops in the army of the Potomac, convey intelligence of the sick and wounded Pennsylvanians in the hospitals connected with that army, will be immediately removed to hospitals within the borders of the State.

Gov. Curtis is now rapidly engaged in perfecting arrangements by which their removal will be immediately commenced. In the meantime preparation of this nature is being made for the reception of the sick and wounded, and nothing will be left undone by the heads of Departments here, to insure the comfort of the most delicate patients, and to provide for the sick medical and personal attendance as their condition may demand.

The same dispatches also announce the clearing news, that Gen. Hooker has made arrangements, by which the immediate exchange of the sick and wounded in the hands of the enemy will be effected, as far as this exchange is effected, our wounded will be removed to hospitals within the borders of the State.

Gov. Curtis also telegraphs that the sick and wounded, who have come within his notice, are in the best possible spirits. So far as is practicable, the immediate wants of the sick and wounded will be promptly provided for. These facts cannot fail to be cheering to those who love their friends or relatives in the army, and who may have been wounded and are now in the hospitals on the Rappahannock.

Improve Your Sight and Preserve Your Eyes.—A. BIRNBAUM, Practical and Manufacturing Optician, takes pleasure in informing the Ladies and Gentlemen of Huntingdon and vicinity, that he has opened a Store one door west of Dr. Dorsey's, with a large and variety stock of Spectacles, comprising Convex and Concave Glasses, and particularly desired, for the relief of the eyes, and to improve the sight, and to preserve the eyes, and to improve the sight, and to preserve the eyes.
