Mr. Chairman and Fellow-citizens

There were, he knew, many loyal brethren? But to pure as in the early days of its existing figure and wider significance than who shall rule in the days far plant in the Democratic party cannot go for the Government because it in significance than who shall rule in Pennsylvania. In this contest is involved the very life of the nation, now congaged in a struggle, which shall in the Democratic platform at the time of the election of Mr. Polk. In 1848, the slavery plank congaged in a struggle, which shall in the Democratic platform was renewable for the Democratic plank agreed, had the right to his tongue, but he believed also that other men had a right to the desired and a size of the desired and a right to the desired and right to the right to among the depressed implements which in God's providence has failed to work out that destiny which seemed to be the which partially had it then incorporate the which partially had it then incorporate the which partially had it then incorporate the which had a right to their cars, and when one man's speech became offensive to another man's ears, it was time that it should be stopped. He was a great stickler for free speech himself; but we are engaged in a great war now. her glory. And why do I say to you that in the contest in Pennsylvania there is such an issue involved? Because, in my judgment, if, to-day, the great State of New York, the great State of Ohio, and the Keystone of the Arch—Pennsylvania—should give back to the South the same sound that the fir-distant California has given, that Maine, too, has given, in their decided firm, and outspoken majority—not no riety davs from that date—and I am no son-of a prophet—I predict that a men were not to be satisfied even the contest in Pennsylvania and great war now, and if anybody complained about an outrage upon the liberty of speech, let him shoulder his musket and put down the rebellion, and free speech will be restored. And why do I say to you ted. The agitation of slavery com-almost for the first time since the battle of Brandywine, were pressed by a hostile foe—by our wayward brothers—and, I believe, by wayward sisters—[laughter.]—it was for the purpose of plunder. The fair city of Philadel-white were to be bound by the partnership article than they were? When they went out of the Union, they lost all rights under the Constitution. They had our bond to white we to be bound by which we tree to be bound by the partnership article than they were? When they went out of the Union, they lost all rights under the Constitution. of the invasion. The Richmond Enguirer gives us an additional reason for a new invasion. It calls upon ten.

Therefore, it is that I have come here to advise with you upon that which concerns me in Massachusetts, as it does you in Pennsylvania. My friends, how is this aid, which the rebels expect, to be furnished? I understand it to be the peculiar idea of that Democracy, that as soon as they can get the nower, that Pennsylvania troops, New York troops, New Jersey troops, and Ohio troops are to be withdrawn, and a general amnesty declared, the land of walt needed. He has now learned vicious tricks, so far as a servant is concerned. The horse has learned to kick and is dangerous. Before the war an able bodied negro would sell for $2,000. He noticed the sale of one the other day at that price. But mark you, that is hardly two thousand ten-cent pieces. The fact is slave property has decreased in value, so much so that the South will soon DIED,

New York troops, New Jersey troops, and Ohio troops are to be withdrawn, and a general amnesty declared, the Union to be grestored as it was before the war, and all come back as a band of brothers. To this proposition, I propose to address myself. In the first place, the question recurs to us, "Do you wish the Union restored as it was?" [No.] I want to put the proposition distinctly, because upon this some of my old Democratic friends are sorely troubled. Suppose we could wake up to-morrow morning and learn that the robels, every man of them had haid down their arms and were willing to come back to the place they coeupied on the 11th of April, 1861, the day of the bombardment of Fort Sumt to could bring back the glorious dead who now sleep along the banks of the Chick along the troops and the way of the restored, and it would be folly for him to say that he was in favor of the restoration of the Union as it was cannot be restored, and it would be folly for him to say that he was in favor of the restoration of the Union as it was.

The next thing, continued the speaker, the the Democratic party; his double the Democratic friends. The Constitution of the Union sit was cannot be restored in the Constitution of the Union as it was.

The next thing, continued the speaker, the Constitution of the Union say that he was in favor of the restoration of the Union as it was.

The next thing, continued the speaker, the Constitution of the Constitution as the Constitution to be changed. If the constitution of the Constitution of the Constitution to be changed. If the original speaker is the desired the Constitution of the Constitution of the Constitution to be changed. Here is the difficulty. It is a mistake of terms. We desire the Constitution of some of the Status to be changed. The original speaker is the constitution of some of the Status to be changed. The constitution of some of the Status to be changed. The constitution of some of the Stat

Under the old articles of partnership, under which we lived very comfortably, nobody desired to make a change, but when the partners broke up and stole all they could, whether of their own or others' property matters changed, and now shall we take back those partners as before? I don't. [Applause.]

Gen. Butler proposed next to speak on the subject of slavery. He was one of those who did not wish to see slavery back into the Union again. He would give his reasons therefor. Addressing himself to his old Demogratic friends, he said he did not change his political principles when he entered into this war. He was an old lover of Andrew Jackson, and with him ondersed with all his heart the patriculate of the patricul mocracy. He had voted for Polk, Cass, pose, on the other hand, that not only Pierce, Buchanan, and Breckinridge. Charleston has fallen, but that the resecode, but they did. It we find a man with his throat cut, we say he has committed suicide. He may not have had the right, but he took the right. The rebels in arms are not our brethren. They were our brethren, had a right to their cars, and when should be stopped. He was a great stickler for free speech himself; but we are engaged in a great war now, for party, but for country—that in ninety days from that date—and I am no son-off a prophet—I predict that the rebellion will be ended. Why do the rebels hold out, in the face of degret and disaster upon every side of them? Is there any doubt as to our supperiority over them? any doubt about our numbers and theirs?

Is there any doubt about the issue when the currency almost convertible to gold? Can there be any possible mistake upon this question? Then, why is the contest prolonged? Why do we to-day hear the painful tidings that our brothers, sons, and fathers are being slain mround Chatannooga? Why do we hear of a short revival in other places of the robol hordes? It is because they hope to prolong the contest, and, through the political divisions of the North, obtain terms at the ballot-box which they failed to achieve by the rartridge-box. [Applause.] If argument were needed to prove this, you have it in the expressions of the newspapers of the South.
