HUNTINGDON, PA Wednesday morning, Dec. 9, 1863. LOCAL & PERSONAL.

Has any one a thank offering for his country at this time? Send promptly as it is the hour of her greatest need. everything for this cause? Well do they deserve our deepest sympathy, and our most earnest efforts to relieve as far as possible their suffering condition. Shall our brother's blood cry in vain from the ground? Shall the wan and skeleton faces of our neighbors' friends and brothers plend in vain for help? Oh, no! By our love for our country-by our regard for common humanity, we owe it to that band of noble martyrs to heed the wail that is coming up on every breeze for some. thing to sustain life. Can we refuse?

An extract from a letter by Rev. E. W. Hutter, of Philadelphia, confirms the truth of previous statements relative to the miserable condition of the Richmond prisoners:

"Be assured it is not possible to exaggerate the scenes of horror there presented: they defy the descriptive energies of language. The pictorial representation in Harper's Weekly, so far from being an exaggeration, affords but a very inadequate view of these scenes of wretchedness. In my pastoral experience I have been at the bed-side of many dying sufferers; but never before have my sensibilities been so shocked as at Annapolis, Md. To look upon men-not brutes-reduced to bony skeletons, by withholding from them their daily bread, I never expected to witness in this land of plenty.— But such I did witness among the returned prisoners at Annapolis. "On questioning the prisoners who tion, they answered, 'God forgive them; they might have done better if they wished."

Is it not time to be up and doing?

The Soldiers' Aid Society will pack boxes the latter part of this week to be forwarded to the Christian Commission for the relief of our suffering prisoners in Richmond. Contributions in money and provisions are solicited ningham, Mrs. Charles Miller, or Mrs. Wm. P. Orbison.

The Society will hold its weekly meeting on Saturday at 2 o'clock at Mrs. Wm. McMurtrie's. All the members of the Society, and any desiring has been well repaired; a wagon can to unite with it, are invited to attend.

MRS. D. BLAIR, President. II. BRYAN, Sec'y. pro. tem. Contributions of money and proviolous are being received by the Soldiers' Aid Society of this place to be sent to our half starved and scantily-clad soldiers confined in the Richmond bastiles. This is a noble and humane work and should receive the the time for a person to prove his or will be a great convenience. her sympathy and tenderness for the soldiers and the cause, by contributing to their comfort in the hour of their greatest need.

Exemptions from the Draft.

The enormous number of drafted men who escaped military duty by reason of physical infirmity has produced a change in the regulations of the Provost Marshal General. A new list of causes of exemption is published, in which the catalogue of available maladies is considerably reduced .-Near-sighted men, who flattered themselves that their deficient eyesight formed a perpetual bar against the imposition of military obligations, are suddenly and hopelessly bereft of the consolation derived from the infliction of "myopia," for, under the new rule, myopic individuals who are really too near-sighted for efficient field-service are transferred to the Invalid corps.-"Near-sighted does not exempt," is the stern decree of the Marshal; hence spectacles will not be so popular hereafter. Fat men, however, who are a proverbially jolly people, have a new cause for good humor, for it is ordained that "abdomens grossly protuberant" or "excessive obesity," are sufficient for exemption from any draft whatever.

Imbeciles, insane, epileptic, and paralytic persons are of course exempt, but the list of maladies through the possession of which a drafted man may evade duty is so closely restricted. improvement of this kind is much needed, and will not only benefit the coal trade but will be a great help to the Ancient Borough. If all the Coal that now is sent by Rail to Port Richmond Should we not awake to the reality of and to points that could be reached the wretchedness of our brave men by Canal, could be shipped by Boats, who have sacrificed home, friends, and it would require some from twenty to twenty-five boats daily to do the business. This would give employment to a great many men, and would make the ower end of town assume quite a business air. 'Our readers may expect to realize the reality of this in the course of eighteen months. Improvements.-The telegraph office here has been rejuvenated. The walls have been neatly papered, and the wood-work re-painted.

-The Catholic church is being repaired, new cornice and roof have been put up, and other improvements connected with it are in progress.

-The brick house of Jas. Port is under roof. It is roomy and convenient, and will add considerably to the appearance of that end of town.

-The foundation of Cunningham's warehouse is rapidly being completed, and the building will soon commence.

Grand Supper .- On Friday evening last the invalid company stationed be as important as the fighting of bathere partook of a grand supper, to which they invited many of their friends. Uncle Sam's fare of "pork and beans" was displaced by that of turkey, cakes, and other exquisite eat- and the precautions that have been ables, but of course, the boys thought the change all for the better.

Variable.-The weather last week was very variable. It commenced could speak as to the cause of starvawith the chilling blasts of winter, passed into the blustry days of early spring, and ended like the days of mid-April. In the first part of the week the boys enjoyed themselves in skating.

Our Army Correspondence.

HEADQUARTERS 12TH ARMY CORPS, Department of the Cumberland, Tullahoma, Tenn., Nov. 24, 1863.

EDITOR GLOBE :- It was with regret that the gallant Twelfth left the army of the Potomac. There were associations that bound her there, and the parting was like the breaking up of family ties. There she won her star, and there she would have worn it, had she not been called to retrieve disasters on other fields. She may feel justly proud that a Western sky has added to its brilliancy, and though we may not entirely shake off the oldtimed prejudices, it is, after all, not less glorious to belong to that grand combination of armies that forms the division of the Mississippi. In the disposition of troops in this depart-ment the Twelfth corps has been assigned a position not the most fortu nate. Part of it has been, and is still it is true, in the face of the enemy.— To the bravery of Geary's division the engagement at Wauhatchie fully testi fies. The remainder of the corps, however, is stretched from Murfreesboro to Bridgeport. We need not sigh for 'a lodge in some vast wilderness," for we find its synonyme in guarding a a line of military railroad. This may tles, but it is isolatory and unexciting. The appearance of some predatory band of rebels would be a relief to our unusually quiet nerves. The danger though not great, demands vigilance. taken are sufficient to receive it, should it come. Stockades have been built at every town and village, at every stream, and frequently at intermediate points, and will remain long after the war, as mementoes of the industry of Williams' division.

Corps headquarters have been itinerant, but have brought up at last at classic Tullahoma. It is impossible to judge what this place may have been in time of peace, but amid the desolation caused first by rebel and afterwards by Federal occupation, it possesses no enviable appearance. The summer residence of Judge Catron is here, and has been saved from destructive hands by being occupied by commanding officers while the armies were here. From memoranda on the side of the house, I learn that General Polk and staff were here from Nov'r 7th to Nov. 19th, 1862; Genl. Bragg and staff from January 11th to March 27th, 1863; General Rosecrans and staff from July 1st to July 18th, 1863. The record has been continued by ding "occupied by Major General Slo-cum and staff Nov. 19th, 1863." The public.
