

HUNTINGDON, PA. Wednesday morning, June 1, 1864. LOCAL & PERSONAL.

The Killed and Wounded.

In no battle of the war have so many of Old-Huntingdon's sons suffered as in the battles of last month in Virginia. Almost every soldier who enlisted from this place and was engaged in combat, received a wound, and some were killed. The saddest news was communicated by letter or in the lists of the killed and wounded, cast a gloom on the countenance of parents and friends in the midst of their rejoicing over the conquests made and the victories achieved by our arms. Could we render appropriate eulogies in memory of the fallen heroes, or speak with high-toned words of praise in appreciation of the services of those who have fought till wounded, we would most willingly and cheerfully do so; but the patriotic motives that inspired them and the readiness with which they entered into the conflict is proof sufficient of the esteem in which they should be regarded by their people, and if they fall in their efforts to uphold the Union and confer its unimpairment to posterity, then their parents and friends should be consoled in the fact that they died nobly.

Archibald McAllister.

We have a very inconsistent representative in Congress from this District, and that member is Archibald McAllister. His conduct has been watched by the people, and both parties, that which elected as well as that which opposed him, have observed his inconsistency and severely and justly censured him. The Union proclivities which he professed during the election were only for the time, to secure the people's favor, and obtain the position. He has proved unfaithful to the trust confided in him by working in direct opposition to the principles of true loyalty, and of course neither his election nor his re-nomination is a certainty. He is as dead in the eyes of the opposition clique as he is in those of the Union party. We regret having given him our support; but there is now to be added to the stigma of his having acted a perfidious and disloyal part, the painful consciousness of having deceived the honest and loyal public. May his sun of ambitious renown sink still deeper into the depths of oblivion and obscurity!

A Soldier's Gaze.

Under the head of "Our Army Correspondence" will be found a communication from the Chaplain of the 149, Regt., P. V., which treats upon the death of Benj. C. Lytle. We were deeply grieved on receiving this intelligence, and not only do we mourn with the community the loss of an intelligent young man, and with his companions in arms the loss of a good and faithful soldier, but we also regret the death of our valuable correspondent, whose communications excited interest in all who read them. May his resting place never be disturbed by the ruthless hand of traitors nor the clashing of arms. We repeat, in this secluded sepulchre beneath the cedars of Beverly's beautiful grove, hero, rest in peace!

War Prices.

It is amusing to see the rapidity with which the different commodities of art and nature have ascended in the scale of exorbitance in price since the levy of taxes has been enforced. Every article of consumption or apparel has advanced in price, and those, the price of which at former times appeared slight and trivial, are now made the more considerable—or inconceivable if you choose—by having the enormous increase of price imposed thereon by the producer and doubly increased by the vendor. Such is the disposition of man to impose on good nature. The increase of price in less significant commodities which formerly sold for two cents but now for three cents pieces, a decrease in price in the less costly articles would follow if three cent pieces in hard or paper currency were circulated.

The Draft.

The draft for this district commenced in Hollidaysburg on Monday last. The following list is the number of men to be drafted in this county:

Jackson township	27
Barree	22
Porter & Alexandria bor.	1
Franklin township	1
Warrior Mark	16
Henderson	5
Junata	3
Hopewell	3
Carbon	89
Tod	1
Clay	15
Springfield	12
Cromwell tp., & Orbisonia bor.	17
Shirley tp	1
Dublin	1
Tell	20
West tp., & Petersburg bor.	1

Our particular friend Robert Stewart, of Barree, now at Ploverville Cal., has our thanks for California papers.

We are always pleased to hear from our friends in the army, and when their letters can be read by the compositors, and are of sufficient general interest, we publish them with pleasure.

We see in perambulating the roads that intersect the green fields of grain and pasture that the farmers are cultivating every piece or patch of ground of their possession. This is a very good move and will in the end be productive of many advantageous results. Our husbandmen can do nothing wiser, and nothing else that would be of as great benefit. Owing to the present condition in respect to the price of articles of consumption, which no doubt will continue for some time, cultivators can realize a snug sum from ready purchasers. Be wise and industrious, farmers, and reap a rich harvest of grain and dollars.

The Great Central Sanitary Fair will open in Philadelphia, on Tuesday, the 7th of June, and continue two weeks. Many of our citizens purpose attending this Fair; we have no doubt they will be highly satisfied and pleased with their visit. Let all who can make it convenient, and contribute in aid of the soldiers' welfare. Such opportunities are not of every day occurrence.

Believing it to be advisable and judicious to open a column for a series of articles upon the moral training of children in the Sabbath School, we have allowed the same a space in our paper. The editor of this column, judging from his introductory, will make it both interesting and instructive.

On the outside of days issue will be found a communication from Mr. Diefenbach to his uncle in this place, which has been permitted us to publish. His friends, and the public in general, will find a graphic account of the author's experience in the late battles in Virginia.

The draft is again in operation in this district, after many postponements. This we think will be the last, judging from the aspect of affairs and the spirit of our military leaders. If it should be the last, on account of the suppression of the rebellion, then how will the drafted ones feel who could, if they had been so disposed in the postponed period, have received the high bounties. "No use crying over spilled milk," as the saying is, so also there will be no use reaping over their refusal or rejection of the high bounties. Procrastination has robbed them of a golden opportunity.

The slide on the Bedford Railroad has been cleared away, and trains run regularly twice a day from this place to Mt. Dallas. Trains leave at 7.30 A. M., and 5.40 P. M.

A handsome contribution. We learn that the citizens of Walker township, on last week forwarded for the Sanitary Fair, $137.00 in money, and a box of Sanitary stores. This we believe was the first liberal contribution from this county, making about $1.68 to each individual on the enrollment list.

This popular summer resort has been opened for the season by Jos. Morrison & J. S. Miller, of this place.

Joseph Moore, with his wife and son, have departed from Johnston to Iowa. A great deal of sympathy had been manifested in his behalf in the community, but by this unlooked for act he deprives himself of a great portion of it.

Our neighbor, Miss KATE BUFF will please accept our thanks for a handsome bouquet.

Adj. Wm. Cunningham, of the 110th P. V., arrived home on Tuesday last. His wounds are doing well. He expects to be ready for service again in three or four weeks.

By a letter dated 16th ult., to a friend, we have the following list of killed and wounded in this county:

Killed—Wm. Shontz, Robt. Hood, Elijah Crownover. Wounded—Jacob Magill, G. W. Woodcock, J. C. States, W. B. Dean, W. Coble, and several others not named.

Mr. Isaac Long will please accept our thanks for an armful of mammoth rhubarb.

Letter From the West.

MONMOUTH, ILLINOIS, May 23d, 1864. Friend Lewis—Not having anything else on hand for a few moments, I have concluded to write once more for the Globe, a few lines, and if nothing of more importance crowds on you, give this place in your columns, if otherwise, in your store. It is now 14 years since myself and family, bid good bye to old Huntingdon and old and tried friends; to begin life in the west. Since that time, scarcely a number of the Globe has missed us, and yet no other paper takes its place; the Globe must be first read, let it come with what other paper it may. And, oh, how many sad items its columns have contained, under the head of Deaths—the names of neighbors, friends, cousins, father and mother, have been recorded, and of late, what harvests death has been reaping on the gay fields of our distracted country. And yet, we cannot forget that many brave boys must fall, before this cruel war is over; but it is useless to anticipate; God grant that it may soon be over, and armed rebellion driven from our once happy land. Since I wrote you some time ago describing the different kind of "copperheads" in our section of country, I met with a specimen, I think, different from any

I had ever met with, and with your leave, I will describe it. First, he wants the rebellion conquered, and don't care anything about Slavery—would just as soon that it would be killed by the war as not. But he is opposed to the President and his plans, and wants the rebels whipped, in a constitutional way, and is particularly opposed to changing the object of the war, as he says, the President has, "from preserving the Government, to destroying Slavery." He believes the result of the war to be, to save the Government, and nothing else, and let the result be to kill Slavery. And because the President has "perverted the war into a crusade against Slavery," (those are his words), he considers it his duty to oppose the Government all he can.

He reminds me very much of an old fellow, named Foggy, who lived in the village of Bigotry; his house joined hard on to one Progress, a good ahead young fellow. Well, one night, old Foggy heard an alarm of fire, and rushed out to find his house on fire, his neighbors rushed to the rescue, and soon all hands were busy, and Progress was working for dear life, and urging the others to put out the fire, for as he said, if old Foggy's house was burnt, his would go too; at this, old Foggy hauled off, quit work, and pitched into Progress, swearing that if the object of putting out the fire, was changing from saving his house to saving the others, they might both burn, and be —d— for all he cared.

The weather has been very fine here for some time. There has been at least rain now for two weeks—before that, the weather was rather wet. The prospect for the coming crop is good now, and fruit promises well again. The farmers are busy planting corn, and are in great hopes of a good crop, as last year was the worst crop raised in this county since I first saw it, and the oldest inhabitant is of the same opinion. Our town is improving rapidly this season, and business is very brisk; there is rather a poor show for lawyers and constables, as everybody who is worth anything, or can, or who will work, has plenty of money. Day laborers of the poorest quality, can get $1.50 per day; mechanical men proportionately.

The 100 days are all filling up in this State, rapidly. The move is a hard stroke on the "coops," poor fellows, they don't know just what to do, but they will try to study up some mischief. Our State I believe, can boast the strongest secession newspaper in the United States; the Chicago Times; it hounds the Richmond Enquirer, all hollow. Yours, &c., JOHN PORTER.

The following is a copy of the Muster Roll of Co. L 19th Pa. V. Cavalry, which we are requested to publish. The company was at Camp White Station, Tennessee, on the 19th.
