C. BARNARD, Manufacturer of Corrugated Metal Pen, John troot, Clerkenwell, London. June 18, 1862. School Books,

conveyancer. New Lattion, published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia,

This work contains 204 pages, and upwards of 500 Rules and Examiples, entirely and theroughly practical rich as arise every day in the common pursuits of linsiness. It has already passed through a number of editions in rapid succession, and is pronounced by all cleases of business men to be the handlest book of reference, pertaining to calculations, that has ever been published.

Nerey example in the book is worked out in full and stated in a piain manner, so that when a parallel case arises, those referring to the work will find no difficulty in solving it: in a word, the general arrangement of the CALCULATOR is simple, that any one who knows how to add, subtract, multiply and divide, can easily solve any ordinary example that arises in business, or arrive at it et true result of any estimate required.

The chief alm of the author has been to exchou theory and philosophy in flagures, aiming only at facts and simplicity, believing that business men care little about spending time in discussing the philosophy of rules, of the science of figures, deeming it sufficient for their purpose to be able at a moment. By reference, to arrive at the true result. The CALCULATOR differs in this respect from all other Arithmetics of the day and kindred works—il is a key to practical business calculations—it is, in the hands of the business man, what the key to mathematical works in the hands of the teacher in the school room—it facilitates time and insures correctness.
