

WAR FOR THE UNION VICTORY!

THE REBELS ROUTED IN MISSOURI. PRICE DEFEATED IN SEVERAL BATTLES.

His Army Completely Dispersed. GENERAL MARMADUKE AND CABELL CAPTURED.

1,500 Prisoners Captured and Twelve Pieces of Artillery Taken.

St. Louis, Oct. 27.—The following is received from reliable sources:

Our forces have been driving Price rapidly since Sunday. At the last accounts he was twenty-five or thirty miles southeast of Fort Scott, his army routed and dispersed. On Tuesday we had several fights with him between Mound City and Fort Scott, in all of which he was badly whipped, losing fifteen hundred prisoners and ten or twelve pieces of artillery. Major General Marmaduke and Brigadier General Cabell are among the prisoners, with several colonels and other officers. He was again attacked yesterday morning, a short distance north of Ft. Scott, and drives pell-mell in a southeasterly direction. He burned two hundred wagons yesterday, to prevent their being captured. Nothing is stated about the loss on either side, but there seems to be no doubt that Price's army is completely demoralized and scattered. The telegraph is working to Fort Scott, but nothing has been received of to-day's operations, except that our forces are still in vigorous pursuit.

General Steele with a heavy reinforcement, is at Fort Smith, with the probable view of contesting Price's entrance into Arkansas. The rebels were chased all Sunday night, and constant fighting kept up.

Forward Movement by Grant.

Advance of Hancock's and Warren's Corps—A Rebel Attack on Hancock Repulsed—Capture of over 900 Prisoners—The Rebel General Deering Reported Killed—Official Dispatch From General Grant—Our Troops Inviting an Attack.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28, 9 p. m.—Dispatches from General Grant, received this evening, inform the Department that an advance in force, for the purpose of a reconnaissance, was made yesterday by Warren and Hancock.

In the evening the enemy attacked Hancock vigorously, but were repulsed.

The purpose being accomplished, the troops were withdrawn from the advanced position to which they had been pushed, nearer to their line of former occupation. The telegrams of General Grant give all the details received:

CITY POINT, Oct. 27, 1864, 8 p. m.—Hon. E. Stanton, Sec. of War: I have just returned from the crossing of the Boydton plank road with Hatcher's Corps. Our line now extends from its former left to Armstrong's mill, thence by the south bank of Hatcher's Creek to the point above named.

At every point the enemy was found to be entrenched and his works manned. No attack was made during the day further than to drive the pickets and cavalry inside of the main work. Our casualties have been light, probably less than two hundred killed, wounded and missing. The same is probably true with the enemy. We captured, however, seven loaded teams from their rear on Stony Creek to the enemy, about a dozen head cattle, a traveling forge, and 75 to 100 prisoners.

On our right Butler extended around well toward Yorktown road, without finding a point unguarded.

I shall keep our troops out where they are until towards noon to-morrow, in hopes of inviting an attack.

U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant General.

CITY POINT, Oct. 28.—Hon. E. Stanton, Secretary of War:—The attack on General Hancock proves to be a decided failure. He repulsed the enemy, and remained in his position, holding possession of the field until midnight. Orders had been given for the withdrawal of the 2d Corps before the attack was made. We lost no prisoners except the usual stragglers who are always picked up. Our captures for the day on the south side foot up 910.

The rebel Gen. Deering is reported killed.

General Meade, in his report says: "I am induced to believe the success of the operation, which was most decided, was mainly due to the personal exertions of Major General Hancock and the conspicuous gallantry of Brig. Gen. Egan."

U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant General.

Reports from Gen. Sherman's department to six o'clock this evening, indicate that the rebel army is again threatening demonstrations towards Tennessee—but there is no reason to doubt that Sherman and Thomas will be found prepared for whatever movements may take place.

The reports from Missouri and Arkansas concern in stating the defeat of Price with heavy loss.

E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

An Advance of Three Miles.

The Enemy's Position Discovered—The Rebels Attack Our Forces but are Repulsed—Some Five Hundred Prisoners Captured—Many Officers Among the Number—The Rebels Again Repulsed on Thursday—Rebel Fort Captured—A Rebel Colonel, Major, Captain and Twenty Men Captured—The Guns Brought off—Another Advance of Our Pickets.

Hon. As Army POTOMAC, Oct. 28.

The late movements of this army have resulted in extending our line as far as Hatcher's run, on the Duncan road, a distance of about three miles beyond our former position on the left, and in the discovery of the exact position of the enemy's lines and works erected for their defence, as well as the more complete knowledge of the country between us and the Southside railroad.

It was not believed the enemy had any very strong works in this direction, and that taking them by surprise could be easily driven into the inner lines of Petersburg; but, to the surprise of all, not only were the enemy found entrenched on both sides of the Boydton plank road, but that they had strong works on both sides of the run, extending several miles. Their second corps, in their charge on the plank road, drove the rebels from their works on the south of the run, and across the bridge, of which they held possession until ordered to withdraw. In the advance of the fifth corps they moved on the South of the run, and the road being very crooked, they took advantage of this, and massing in the woods under cover made a most determined assault on the right of the 2d division of the 2d corps, evidently with intention of capturing the entire force on the right; their charge for a very short time was successful, but our men rallied, charged in turn, and driving the rebels back, cut off the greater part of Anderson's brigade of Hill's corps.

The number of prisoners thus taken here was about 400 including many officers. In the meantime the 5th corps had reached the enemy's works on their front and became hotly engaged; the loss here was not so heavy. Darkness approaching, and it being deemed unsafe to occupy so extensive a line with strong works in front, and exposed to flank attacks from cavalry, orders were issued to withdraw about two miles, which was done without loss.

During the engagement the enemy drove our men from two guns, but before they could be removed our men charged and took them. The loss of the enemy cannot be stated but it is thought to be about as heavy as our own in killed and wounded, while their loss in prisoners is much larger than ours.

We took about 500 altogether during the day.

General Grant and staff were present during the entire day, and in company with Gen. Meade witnessed the various movements.

During Thursday night the rebels made an assault on our works south of where the mine was sprang, but were driven back with considerable loss.

Near the same place a party from the 1st division of the 2d corps made a dash on a rebel fort and captured it, taking a Colonel, a Major, a Captain, a Lieutenant with 20 men prisoners, and bringing off 2 guns. Our picket line was advanced here for some distance, and our men still hold their new ground.

(Signed) W. D. McCREGOR.

Address of the Union State Central Committee.

TO THE LOYAL MEN OF PENN'A.

HOONS OF THE UNION STATE CENTRAL COM. PHILADELPHIA, October 21, 1864.

To the Loyal Men of Pennsylvania:—The smoke of the first engagement has cleared away; and upon the vote of her citizens at home Pennsylvania stands by the government of our fathers, while her brave sons in the field will not give less than twelve thousand majority for the good cause. The last hope, therefore, of the supporters of General McClellan has disappeared, and the only result of continuing to sustain him is to give aid and comfort to the rebellion by increasing the appearance of disunion among ourselves.

General Sheridan dealt a terrible blow to treason on Wednesday, and every patriot's heart thrilled with joy upon hearing it; but a great majority for Abraham Lincoln in Pennsylvania would be far more fatal to the rebel conspiracy against the Union and the Constitution. Every vote for our tried and faithful President will paralyze some arm raised to shoot down the flag, while every vote for the base surrender at Chicago, and the men who carry its white flag, will encourage some rebel to shoot another Northern soldier. The ticket nominated by Vallandigham, Wood and Seymour is now black with treason, and after it is voted will be red with blood of our brothers fighting for us. The war has existed for the last year only by the reason of our division, and its continuance to-day is solely owing to the activity of the disunion party of the North and the platform of its convention. While any hope remained of the election of its candidates, plausible excuses might be found by misguided men for giving them their suffrages; but after the verdicts of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Ohio, Indiana, and Pennsylvania, all sensible persons know that the election is already decided by the people, and that it only remains to ascertain the majorities. It follows, therefore, that every vote for McClellan and Pendleton is an earnest invitation to Jefferson Davis to continue this fearful war to waste more of our treasure and to murder others of our sons.

The sublime spectacle of a united north will end the war. We invoke all patriots to lend their efforts unceasingly to produce this result. By perfecting the ward and township organizations; by the circulation of documents; by public addresses, especially by local speakers; by assuming personal efforts with honest but mistaken men; by making arrangements to bring every loyal voter to the polls; by sending tax receipts to every soldier and sailor; by the immediate formation of campaign clubs in every borough and community; by great meetings of the people by daylight and by torchlight, and by all the honest agencies of an active and thorough canvass, appealing to the patriotic zeal, and kindling the patriotic enthusiasm of a great and loyal commonwealth, we can attest the fealty of our State to the flag of the Union by a majority worthy of the historic character of the contest and of the great issue dependent upon it.

Forward, then, every lover of his country to this good work! Looking not to the past but to the future, forgetting all personal considerations, and appreciating the privilege of some sacrifice for Liberty and the Union, let us relax no effort until the polls are closed. This Committee will continue to do its whole duty, and relies upon your instant, earnest and constant assistance.

Grant's march of valor and of glory from the Rapidan to the James sealed the fate of the rebellion. Since then, Sherman has turned his left wing, Farragut is closing his advance, and Sheridan has sent his vanguard again whirling down the valley. It only remains for us to sound the charge along the whole line, and wrapping our ballots around our brothers' bullets, march to the peaceful final triumph which awaits us in November.

Proclaiming the war to be a failure, George B. McClellan is himself the great failure of the war—a general without a victory—a statesman without a record, and if we are faithful, history will add to his epitaph, that he was a candidate for the Presidency without an electoral vote. Let us all, therefore, labor without ceasing, in memory of our buried martyrs, in regard to the wounds of our living heroes, to guard liberty from its deadly peril, and the Union from its reasonable foes, in the interest of religion, and in the hope of the republic of the future, loyal men of Pennsylvania, forward to victory!

In faith of the Committee, SHAMON CAMERON, Chairman. A. W. BENDER, Secretaries. WIEN PENNY, Secretaries.

The Conspiracy.

The Boston Traveler calls attention to the significant fact that the great Copperhead conspiracy for aiding the rebellion, and looking to the establishment of a North-western Confederacy, was a far more formidable organization than that which planned and brought about the Southern secession. The official exposure of this great treason cannot fail to produce a marked impression upon the loyal people. It proves, what was sufficiently indicated by too many circumstances to allow of much doubt, that the Copperhead leaders are in full correspondence and accord with the chiefs of the rebellion, and that the success of the Southern Confederacy would be followed by a separation of the Government in the North-west. It explains many operations that have seemed doubtful, and defines the position of many men whose conduct was inconsistent with even the "slack allegiance" that the worst enemies of the Government find it convenient to profess, while they remain in the North, for the benefit of the South.

The exposure of this great conspiracy, in its present form, what now organization the elements of treason may assume, is a matter of conjecture, with the certainty only that they will not be idle, that they will do all in their power, and have plotted for its overthrow, will not intermit, however they may change their operations. Had the same vigilance and fidelity on the part of the government, which has exposed and suppressed the conspiracy, been exerted by the administration of Mr. Buchanan against the Southern treason, which was more open and more formidable, a few men would have been sentenced to imprisonment, a considerable number hooted out of public life, amidst the contempt and ridicule of the public, and Mr. Davis' rebellion would have been ranked with Shay's war and the whiskey insurrection. This is the difference between the administration of Mr. Lincoln, who look to the stability of the government, and weak, vacillating men, who have neither the disposition nor the nerve to grapple with rebellion. The lesson for this great exposure is that the administration which has proved itself equal to the emergency should be continued, and that the party which proved itself unequal to the suppression of treason, when it first broke out and would have been easily controlled, should not again be entrusted with the government in which they so lamentably failed. The times require honest men and firm; men who have the capacity to detect treason and the pluck to fight it.
