We stated in our last issue that the 4th of March was to be considered and observed as a National Union Holiday, and hoped, and even predicted, that our citizens would so observe it. The day came and passed, but nothing did we observe being done in the way of observing the day. Upon being assured by those present at the first lecture that he would have a larger audience should be lecture on the next evening, the Doctor consented to test the assurance. The evening came, and with it came to the Court Room as large an assembly as on the previous evening, and it was not until the Doctor had commenced that there was any increase. Again he spoke of being dissatisfied with our people, and wondered "why, in the name of humanity, the people of this place, when a mandesires to give a free lecture, cannot give him one fair hearing." Hitching Horses to Shade Trees. There is no act, not absolutely criminal, that is more inexcusably blameworthy than that of tying horses to shade trees on the streets of the borough. These trees are highly ornamental, and exceedingly desirable for the shade they afford the inmates of the houses and the passers along the streets. They are only obtained, how ever after a great expenditure of care and time on the part of their owners. and therefore should not be lightly esteemed by any. They are a public benefit as well as a private convenience, and they have therefore justly been taken under the protection of the borough authorities. Persons, doubtless, often tie their horses to the trees along our streets, thoughtlessly, and without the slightest idea of the injury they are liable to inflict.

"A word to the wise is sufficient." Our Boys. Huntingdon has, for many years, had the name of having as bad a set of boys, as are found along the line. There is scarcely a public gathering, whether it be social, political or religious, held in or near the town but the boys are there; and for no other purpose, it seems, but the making of mischief. A public lecture or exhibition is sure to have its full complement of youthful disturbers. It has gone on so for years; our citizens being constantly annoyed by the reckless behavior exhibited by our rising generation. And so it will continuo until some measures are used to stop it. It can be stopped. It should be stopped, for the sake of the boys themselves, if for no other reason. It is expected of boys, and even of men, that they will go to the end of the string, that they will do anything in the shape of mischief and even wick-ishment for their transgression. The remedy would be simple and might be the means of saving many of our future hopes from ignominy and shame. The Borough authorities have the authority to use means for the preservation of the public peace, and a simple order from them instructing the Town Constable to arrest and imprison one or two of the ringleaders, would without doubt have the desired effect. The rest would instantly become more guarded in their conduct, and when they would attend public meetings, would put themselves under rostraint and perhaps be benefitted by the exercises.
