

Our Flag Forever.

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag, the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and under every administration regardless of party politics, against all assailants, at home and abroad."—STEPHEN L. DOUGLAS.

Last Issue of Volume Twenty.

This number will conclude the twentieth volume of the Globe. Like the young man who has attained the coveted year of twenty-one, when he feels free, and looks back over the past years of his existence and wonders whether the time he had to devote to his welfare was profitably employed, so we, just bordering on the twenty-first year of our existence recur to the years that have past. They were years of toil, anxiety, excitement, and pleasure withal; and now, having reached maturity we are led to wonder whether the years were not employed profitably. We let the success and popularity of the Globe to prove the same. Like the young man, too, we look to the future. We have lived long enough to prove that we have lived for the people; but we believe that the withdrawal of the life-giving principle—a cordial support—can sink us as low as does the cessation of the supply and flow of blood—the vital principle in man. We know it is unnecessary to advert to this subject, nor is it entirely becoming for us to write thus, who have no cause to complain; but we have been led to make the remarks from the fact that we have attained the year of maturity in the general sense of the term.

For the support of the past we cordially thank our patrons, and we can trust that our course and career in the past will be sufficient guarantee for continued support and patronage.

Mutiny Among Negro Troops.

The accounts which reach us from Fortress Monroe, represent that the insubordination among the negro soldiers bound for Texas, reported by telegraph, amounted to a formidable mutiny, and called for wise management to prevent bloodshed. In one aspect of the case this is an alarming occurrence. It has not only prevented the sailing of a portion of the Texas expedition, but may seriously impair the confidence reposed in the negro as a soldier, and affect his status in some other important respects. The accounts state:

Arriving in Hampton Roads, the Wildin was ordered alongside of the Meteor, to transfer her complement of men on board the larger vessel, the Meteor being a draught too deep to go up the James River, hence the Wildin acted in the capacity of lighter. On making fast to the Meteor, some of the soldiers told their officers "they would not go on board of her." "They would not go on board of any ocean steamer, as the Government had no right to send them to Texas." The officers insisted that they should go on board the Meteor, and succeeded in transferring three companies to the larger ship. The fourth company refused to obey orders, and loaded their carbines. Neither threat nor entreaty prevailed with them. They unslung their carbines, capped them, and those that had no ammunition in their cartridge boxes drew their sabres. Those on the Meteor now became riotous.

The account continues: The Government's care in transmitting this colored corps to Texas has been remarkable. Only first class vessels have been employed as transports. They have been more commodiously fitted up than troop transports have been during the war. Less men were placed on board of the ships. In no instance has a ship been crowded. Orders have been issued from the flag on the day of the first sailing to the present expedition, to furnish the best and freshest rations for the use of the troops and it is believed the celebration at Gettysburg will be the most extensive as well as interesting held upon the coming Fourth of July, in our glorious Union.

The Poisoning of Andrew Johnson on the Fourth of March.

Our theory of the poisoning of Andrew Johnson on the day of inauguration, when it was the original intention of the assassins to have slain the President, has received a singular confirmation in the testimony of one of the late witnesses on the assassination trial before the military court at Washington. Marcus P. Norton, of Troy, in this State, testified on Saturday week that he had seen Atzerodt, to whom had been confided the murder of the Vice President elect, and O'Laughlin, who was to have killed Gen. Grant, in company with Booth at the National Hotel in Washington, on the 2d or 3d of March, and overheard a conversation among these parties in which it was stated that "if the matter succeeded as well with Johnson as with Old Buchanan, they would be pretty well sold." It will be borne in mind that Buchanan was poisoned at the National Hotel at the time of his inauguration in 1856; and this allusion by the assassins to that circumstance, taken together with Mr. Johnson's singular illness at the time of his inauguration, and the proofs that Booth had stood posted at the Capitol to shoot Mr. Lincoln on that very morning, seem to be conclusive that the singular condition of the Vice President on that occasion was to be attributed to the influence of poison. His powerful physical nature triumphed over the insidious drug, and hence the allusion in the subsequent circular which gave directions to the assassins that each of them must bear in mind that "the cup would be pretty well sold."—Wilkes Spirit of the Times.

INTERVIEW OF COLORED PEOPLE WITH THE PRESIDENT.—The President yesterday received the committee appointed at a public meeting of the colored people of Richmond, Va., to make known to him, as their best friend, the wrongs, as they conceived them to be, by which they are sorely oppressed. In the address which they presented they complain of insults, imprisonment, and the most cruel punishments, the like of which were never heard of, even in the slave-pens of Southern traitors. The address concludes as follows: "When we saw the glorious old flag again streaming over the Capitol, we thought the power of these wicked men was at an end, and however sad our hearts may be over the present state of our affairs, we have lost none of our faith and love for the Union, or for yourself as its Chief Magistrate, and therefore, as oppressed, obedient and loving children, we ask your protection; and upon the loyalty of our hearts, and the power of our arms, you may ever rely with unbounded confidence; and, in conclusion, let us respectfully remind your Excellency of that sublime motto, once mounted over the portals of an Egyptian temple—'Know all ye who exercise power that God hates injustice.'" The President made the following endorsement on the paper presented: "EXECUTIVE MANSION, June 16, '65.—Respectfully referred to Major-General Howard, Chief Bureau of Freedmen, &c, for his consideration and report as to the action necessary and proper to be had in view of the within statements."

ANDREW JOHNSON, President of the United States.

BOUNTY.—A dispatch from Washington to the Pittsburg Commercial says: Enlisted men of volunteers mustered out of service under recent orders from the War Department are to be considered as so mustered out on account of Government no longer requiring their services, and are entitled to the balance of whatever bounty they may be at the time be legally receiving. From this bounty balance are excepted those discharged who were enlisted under the Act of July 4, 1864 and the call of the President of July 18, 1864, and such as are clearly shown to be discharged for confirmed disability or as pensioners. Veterans who go out of service under General Orders, No. 77, Current Series, do not go out, because their services are no longer required, as they are expressly excepted for operation, under orders for the reduction of the army, unless prisoners of war. Non-commissioned officers of infantry and cavalry volunteers, mustered out of service by reason of being supernumeraries, in consolidation consequent upon recent orders for the reduction of the army, are to be considered as mustered out on account of their services being no longer required by the Government, and are entitled to the balance of the bounty remaining unpaid.

THE FOURTH AT GETTYSBURG.—The preparations for laying the cornerstone of the monument at Gettysburg, are almost complete. President Johnson will lay the corner-stone; Maj. Gen. Howard will deliver the address; Col. G. Halpine ("Miles O'Kelly") will read an original poem; Maj. Gen. Geary will act as Chief Marshal; and Rev. Dr. Tyng, of New York, as Chaplain on the occasion. Arrangements have been made to have excursion tickets issued from all prominent points; and it is believed the celebration at Gettysburg will be the most extensive as well as interesting held upon the coming Fourth of July, in our glorious Union.

From North Carolina.

NEWBURN, N. C., June 12.—Governor Holden has invited the leading Union men of the State to meet in conference at Raleigh prior to the appearance of his proclamation, which is daily expected.

The North Carolina papers are full of the proceedings of Union meetings in every town in the State. The richest estates in the country are offered for sale in all parts of North Carolina for from one to ten dollars per acre, with improvements, their owners having decided to go North. President Johnson is fast gaining the confidence of the people of the State. Governor Holden is also disarming his enemies by his services in endeavoring to restore civil law to the State.

President Johnson took possession of the entire Presidential Mansion last week.

Destructive Fire in Harrisburg.

Harrisburg, June 15.—A very destructive fire occurred in this city this morning. The flames were first discovered about 8 o'clock, in R. T. Fleming's coach-factory, on the corner of Third street and Strawberry alley. In a very few minutes the conflagration extended to the buildings adjoining, and before the flames could be arrested, the following properties were destroyed: R. T. Fleming's coach factory and blacksmith shop, with their contents; loss $15,000—no insurance. Joseph Poulton's billiard saloon loss $5,000. Harv's news depot; loss $1000. Wm. Parkhill's dwelling and plumbing establishment; loss $4,000. The Daily Telegraph printing office was partially destroyed; loss $6,000; insured for $3,000. The State Capitol Hotel, Exchange, County Prison and Court House, Franklin House and State Arsenal were for a time in great jeopardy, and had the flames not been arrested at the Telegraph printing office, the probabilities are, that the most valuable portion of Harrisburg would have been in ashes to day. The fire was the work of an incendiary.

Gen. Grant and the Whisky-Shops.

The order for closing the drinking places along the line of the soldiers' homeward travel, suggests some thoughts to Gen. Grant's credit; as well as some which are not so much to the credit of the towns and counties through which these brave veterans have to pass. Gen. Grant does not want his soldiers, while he has any responsibility for them, to be exposed to the temptations and dangers, which so coolly allow to beset our home population, our sons and ourselves every day of the year. This measure was taken, not because the soldiers are worse than any other men, or more addicted to intoxication, but to keep them, as they have been while in the service, in a better moral condition, with regard to intoxication, than the men at home. We are glad that the Lieutenant General extended his care over his brave and trusty troops in their homeward march; which, but for that wise and kind forethought, might have been to them the most perilous of all their campaigns.

Civil government might learn a good lesson, or, at least, might take a good hint, from the military on this point. The dotting of the country over, and the lining of routes of travel, with whisky-selling houses, is not a part of our high civilization. It does not belong to the American idea of society. It is true, the law allows it, with cautious restrictions, seldom fully applied or observed, but the true and worthy American mind, views it as an exotic, an intrusion, a disgrace, a danger. No better or further evidence of the correctness of this statement is needed than is furnished by the interminable lists of applicants for the privilege of selling whisky.

General Grant's care for the safety and the credit of his boys should suggest wholesome reflections in the minds of parents with reference to their boys, and to patriotic men with regard to the youth of the country. By the wise and united efforts of good and patriotic men and women thirty years ago, one generation of our people was saved from the horrors of drunkenness. This was the fruit of well directed moral effort. A new generation has come up to the early period of manhood, for whom no such effort has been made. While temptations and dangers have multiplied around them, they have not been instructed, they have not been warned. Is it any wonder that our youth, the hope of the country, should be debased and ruined, in great numbers, under such a regimen?

Negro Soldiers Refuse to go to Texas.

Philadelphia, June 15th.—A Fortress Monroe correspondence of the Philadelphia Inquirer, under date of June 12th, says that for some time a mutinous spirit has exhibited itself in the colored cavalry brigade belonging to the 25th Corps, the men declaring the Government has no right to send them to Texas. On the 12th, when on board a steamer, this spirit of discontent took the form of open mutiny, when a vessel was run up to one end of the wharf of the Fortress for assistance.

Two companies of the 3d Pennsylvania Artillery were sent aboard and command of Major Von Schilling. Upon approaching the vessel containing the mutineers, they threatened to fire. The Major resorted to strategy, and returning to the wharf had the mutineers brought ashore under the guns of his men in parties of two and three. Thus they were all disarmed and returned again to the vessel. The effect will be only to delay a second part of the expedition from sailing as soon as expected.

A REMINISCENCE OF MR. LINCOLN.—On the day of the receipt of the capitulation of Lee, the Cabinet meeting was held an hour earlier than usual. Neither the President nor any member was able, for the time, to give utterance to his feelings. At the suggestion of Mr. Lincoln, all dropped on their knees and offered, in silence and in tears, their humble and heartfelt acknowledgments to the Almighty for the triumph he had granted to the national cause. "The same day, in the afternoon," the President was in a frame of mind peculiarly happy. To his wife he said: "The war is now about over; we have had a long and wearisome four years' struggle, and we must travel a little this summer and recruit. It must be without fuss or display. You must write to Bob that he must come home and resign his captaincy and go to his books. Let him prepare to earn his living as I did, depending on his own hands and brains." On the morning of the day of his death kindred conversations were held as to the manner of spending the summer, and what disposition should be made of "Bob" and "Tad," as he called his two sons, Robert and Thaddeus.—Western Christian Advocate.

A large number of soldiers believing the war over, and their moral obligations to serve for the war are fulfilled, have taken French leave for their homes. Several hundred have passed into Maryland, Delaware, and Pennsylvania. A small squad, attired in summer linen, were marched through the city to their adjacent camps, having been picked up in Maryland.

NEWS SUMMARY.

It is reported that the trial of Jeff Davis will probably be postponed till September.

The London Times of June 3d, says:—We have the happiness to announce the birth of a second Prince, the grandson of Her Majesty, the son of the Prince and Princess of Wales.

Marshall Stewart, the guerrilla, and Lewis, the colored murderer of McGrath, at Shelbyville, were executed at Louisville, June 13th, at the military prison.

John Mitchell, editor of the N. Y. Daily News, and lately editor of the Richmond Examiner, was arrested the afternoon of the 14th, and taken to Fort Lafayette.

Two notorious guerrillas, Theodore and Wish Goulden, were killed in Kentucky last week by their own men whilst fighting over some plunder.

General Geary has gone to Gettysburg to make arrangements for the inauguration of the monument there on the 4th proximo.

It is stated that the Ford's Theatre property has been disposed of to an association of Congregationalists, and that it will be speedily converted into a place of worship.

The suspension bridge at Nashville, destroyed at the time the Union army was preparing to occupy the city, is to be rebuilt. Sixty thousand dollars of the capital stock has already been subscribed.

Some conscience stricken patron of the Troy Press, a few days since, sent a letter to the proprietors enclosing ten dollars, with the single line, "The enclosed belongs to you."

Since the war closed an immense tide of emigration has opened to the West. Men unsettled by the fortunes of war, and soldiers with bounty money are going.

In response to an inquiry made by Gov. Curtin, the Adjutant General of the United States has stated that the Veteran Reserve Corps will not be discharged until the expiration of their term of service.

The rebel troops in Florida, with all the public property, were surrendered to McCook, at Tallahassee, on the 10th day of May. The number of troops paroled and already reported is 7,200, and will, doubtless, reach 8,000 when the returns are complete.

The Government has received official reports of the late fires in the South. They are supposed to be the work of rebel incendiaries, as the fires at Nashville, Chattanooga, and Gallatin, occurred at the same time.

The condition of Frederick W. Seward continues to be most encouraging. There has been no hemorrhage of his wound for the past twenty-one days.

Secretary Seward's health continues to improve. He now regularly attends business, and converses cheerfully with his friends, though his jaw is still supported by an iron framework.

Large numbers of refugees, white and black, are constantly turning to the South, and every day there are fresh arrivals here of former citizens who left Washington on the breaking out of the rebellion.

Numerous applications for pardon have been filed in the Attorney General's office; the attending to them is necessarily slow, as papers in each case have to be carefully examined before presentation to the President for his determination.

The Government has received documentary proofs incontrovertible, of the guilt of Jeff. Davis in the matter of inhuman and most brutal treatment of Union prisoners. When disclosed to the public, as the facts will be in a few days, they will astonish the civilized world.

Senator Sherman says, that our debt of $33,000,000, upon the basis of our present taxes and population, can be paid, off in twenty-five years, and when we consider that our wealth doubles in ten years, and our population in thirty years, the debt ceases to frighten us.

Mr. Frederick G. Britton of Cleveland, a fine amateur player in billiards, last week made a run of billiards to the number of seven thousand seven hundred and fifteen points. He got the two red balls in the corner of a full carom table, and occupied four hours and twenty-five minutes in making the points.

The Surgeon General states that no report has yet been made up of the losses in the Union armies during the war. There is no truth in the statement, now current, that 328,000 have been killed. Full statistics of killed and wounded will be fully made up in a short time. There are returns for 100,000 hospital cases yet to be made.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer states that the army to be continued in the service will be composed as follows:—14,000 regular infantry, 12,000 colored troops, 50,000 Gen. Hancock's corps, 20,000; Veteran Reserve corps, 25,000; total, 177,000 men.

The Military Commission for the trial of the conspirators, was engaged on the 14th in hearing the testimony in relation to the alleged insanity of Payne. Doctors Hall, Norris, and Porter, and Surgeon General Barnes, testified that they could not find any evidence of insanity in the prisoner. The court then adjourned until Friday, to allow the defence to prepare their argument.

An interesting incident of Gen. McCook's sojourn in Florida was the restoration, for the first time in that State since the rebellion, of that dear old flag, which was raised on the 12th of May over the old Spanish fort at St. Marks, 21 miles south of Tallahassee, on the coast, saluted as it rose with artillery and general rejoicing. At Tallahassee over the capitol, it was raised on the 20th, on which occasion were present witnesses of the signal event, several officers of the navy from the Sangamore and Sperine, at anchor off St. Marks. At Tallahassee the flag was saluted, as it rose, with a gun for every State of the indivisible Union, and at sunset, when drawn down, with 100 guns. The soldiers and negroes were in ecstasy; the citizens were not so enthusiastic, but some of them removed their hats in token.

Official details of the surrender of the rebel fleet in the Red river, was received at Washington.

Commander Fitzhugh had charge of the squadron which received the surrender of the rebels. The latter had two vessels, the Missouri and Champion, the former of which had been previously captured. The Missouri was an iron-clad of three guns, eleven inch, nine inch, and a heavy thirty-two pounder. She was a very formidable vessel. Twenty-four officers and eighteen men were paroled.

The New York Times Washington special says the prisoners who arrived here to-day by the train from Halifax Court House, reports that the rebels have destroyed the monument erected last week upon Bull Run battlefield; this seems to be impossible, and yet there is strong reason to believe it. The temper of the people in that part of Virginia is not more loyal than it was six months ago. General Gamble's men who built the monument, threaten, if report proves true, that they will destroy every vestige of civilization within twenty square miles.

A soldier's wife in Hazleton, Ind. lately received $150 from her husband. A man appeared in her bed room the night following and demanded it. She had taken the precaution to provide herself with a weapon in the shape of a roll pin. She threw the money on the floor, and as the man stooped to pick it up, she dealt him a heavy blow on the neck with the pin, which stunned him. She ran to the nearest neighbor for assistance. The man was not at home, but the woman went out to be the husband of the woman. The blow he received proved fatal.

The public will be surprised to learn that more than 15,000 letters per week are forwarded to the Dead Letter Office at Washington on account of not being prepaid by stamps.
