Wednesday morning, Nov. 1, 1865. LOCAL & PERSONAL.

To Subscribers.

Those subscribers receiving a paper marked with a † before the name will understand that the time for which they subscribed is up. If they wish the paper continued they will mail or otherwise. tf.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Station house is fitted up in a beautiful style.

Mr. Smith, proprietor of the Jackson House, has made a fine improvement by fitting up a large bar room in the basement of his building.

It will be a source of some grievance to most of the "gude house-wives" of this county to know that the apple crop was considerably a failure, and consequently what fruit there is of this description sells at an enormous price. Apple-butter, pies, jelly, &c., we bid you a long season-able adieu.

John B. Givin and family have deft our midst to reside in Renova, on the Philadelphia & Eric Railroad. Mr. Givin has branched out in the mercantile business in that place. From the number of citizens that have left this rection for that place we think he will get plenty of "ald customers."

A.French editor gives the fol lowing amusing description of the effect of an advertisement: The first time a man sees an advertisement he takes no notice of it; the second time he looks at the name: the third time he reads it; the fourth time he speaks of it to his wife; the fifth time he buys.

Sauer-kraut season has again been ushered; and the stamp, stamp, stamp, of the stamper, is or will be heard in many of our residences. With cabbage (in price) on the "rize," and on the dwindle in size, we think the property from the ravages of thought. Simpson evinces signs of recovery. prospects for plenty of this palatable less vandals. We think any person, dish are extremely slim, at least in this locality.

nsa The weather for some time past, though changeable, is indicative of winter, and the blustry reign of King Boreas is now upon us. We have not heard of any weather cocks prophesying whether we will have a mild or severe winter, but as it is about our saying that we will have more severely subscriptions to the monument fund. tion.

As this is the last day of October, generally known as Hallow-e'en we may expect the usual nocturnal visit from the brave youths who throw corn at the windows, pull bells, pound doors, hoot and halloo, pull cat's tails, tie tin pans to dog'stails, and conclude with transplacing signs, upturning boxes in the streets, hauling wagons, .carts, and everything wheelable, into the Diamond, and making rumpus gonerally in their attempts to turn the town upside down. We say look out for these youths, and, if you can eateh them, make an example of them.

na Amongst the many fairs this year, Huntingdon county was the only place in which a premium was given for the best looking baby. Old Huntingdon, therefore, is not always behind the times, as we may expect to see other counties following her example next year. Sniffles thinks that as we have a host of beautiful, talented and expert performers on musical instruments in this place and also in the county,next year a premium of $5 sh'ld be awarded to the best player. Or, if this reward is not deserving of the best looking young man offer himself as the prize. Lads and lasses, then, prepare yourselves for the coming show.

It is now a pleasure to take an walking over pathways in front of preme, in some places only sheltered by as muddy boards, we have the substantial pavement of brick. Rainy weather has not now so much the hideous aspect it formerly presented, and we can walk without fear of stumbling or falling over shoe-top into a puddle of muddy water; ladies' skirts will not be fringed with a well compounded preparation of yellow mud and dirty water, and their former care and necessary precaution of "holding up" their dresses is now to a great extent rendered useless. Thanks to our "borough fathers" that such is the case; but we would advise them not to diminish their efforts to do good, but labor on till the last stronghold of mud ceases to have a foot-hold or a skirt hold upon the traveling community.

The try"—our friend Felty Brown, and as and many gates, has been supplanted fat as ever. He informs us that he by a neat substantial railing; while had a rough time for several days on the Judges' bunch has lessened its portly dimensions considerably.

By these various changes, besides greatly improving the appearance of the room, there are now seats for more than twice the number than formerly could be accommodated.

When all this had been done, the painters took charge, and after being under their hands for awhile it comes forth "a thing of beauty:" the ceiling. walls, pillars, doors and benches, each having received their color-the blending of the light and shade upon each presenting a very fine appearance.

The Commissioners deserve much credit for their taste in planning, and energy in prosecuting the improvements.

And now that it is once again decent, it is hoped it will receive more care and attention than formerly, and not be given to every wandering showman, who desires to exhibit his folly to the mixed audience who usually attend such entertainments, and who, between scenes, seem to have no greater ambition, than to see how much they can deface the walls and furni-

There needs to be appointed some person to take charge of the building no matter who, that would be caught defacing the property in any way so disposed, that it cannot be done with impunity.

It Must be Stopped .- Another Accident. The fast running of trains through our town must be stopped. On Saturday last we witnessed an accident on railroad street immediately in front of the Jackson Hotel. We were standing in the door of the barber shop flattery, let the most intellectual and opposite and we noticed a young man, Theodore Murty, come out of the Jackson House, and in attempting to cross the track was caught by the locomo tive of a passenger train which was running at great speed, and dashed to evening's stroll through some of the the pavement at least twenty-five feet streets of our town. Now, instead of trom where he was struck. His left arm was broken, his head slightly cut, dwellings, on which mud reigned su and he was severely injured internally We are satisfied that the rules of the Company forbid the running of trains through town at the speed we witness almost every day. If the company cannot stop such wrecklessness on the part of engineers, our citizens must

A brakeman on one of the Stock freights, named Dougherty, had two of his fingers mashed on Friday last, while in the act of coupling the locomotive to the train.
