We have, from the commencement urged that justice should be done, and we consider that the opinion bred by procrastination which advises his restoration to liberty is no cloak to screen the demands of justice. An opinion to the same import is just as likely to be entertained with relation Miffin. to the murderer who has been confined for several months, and appeals are Montgomery, just as apt to be circulated requesting Northampton, his pardon ; but surely justice would be a farce and our government a fail-philadelphia, ure, should pardon be granted before Pike, Potter an examination was made, and the enormity of the crime exposed. So Somerset, we think upon the case of Joff Davis, Suyder, Sullivan. and the crime of treason. If treason is a crime, let it be shown where the heinousness exists, and let it be made odious in the sight of the people. Appeals upon the Government's clemency for the pardon of Jeff Davis should Wayne, Westmoreland, have no weight whatever. We desire the people to know what treason is, and we wait for the trial of Jefferson Davis to show its enormity. We see nothing to interfere with the early trial, and to delay longer only makes the matter worse.

Assembly, to arraign all persons charvernment is pledged to the redemption It was a strange and painful family of every dollar borrowed through the reunion-eight persons, from the gray necessities of the war. ALLUDING to the silent amazement with which the "Democratic" organs receive Mr. Johnson's speech to the negro soldiers, the Evening Post says : "It is known that a sixty eight pounder, or other heavy cannon, fired over the waters of a shallow bay, will kill, by its concussion, the lobsters and other hard-shell fish. They fall into convulsions, and perish in great numbers. Tuesday, seems to have similarly affected the people who call themselves Democrats. They are struck with ing. They make altogether a very ludicrous and pitiable spectacle."
