WHAT SEEDS TO PLANT EARLY.

Although potatoes contain much starch, the sets, if properly managed, may be forwarded in their growth, sev eral days, by putting them in a pail, or basket made dark with paper and bang-ing it in the kitchen. By this means sets may have sprouts two or more inches in length, when the ground is sufficiently warm to put them out.

As peas germinate at a lower tem. perature than Indian corn, a row may be planted, and a wide board or two set on the edge to shield them from the cold north wind. In chilly weath ter the rows should be covered with a wide board.

Tomatoes, cucumbers, squashes, mel ons, may be planted two weeks before the ground in the garden is sufficiently warm to promote their rapid growth, by planting the seeds on pieces of rich sods turned grass-side down, on a shelf in a stove room, and furnished with fine garden mould, and watered twice a day. The roots will spread through the sods; and each piece may be remo-ved to the garden with the hill of grow. ing plants, without checking their growth in the least. Hills of choice squashes may be started in this manplants and sods are put in the open ground. Tomato plants may be kept growing on a piece of rich sod until the stems are one foot high. Then if planted in rich soil, they will continue to grow rapidly and fructify early in the season!

After hills of plants have been pu ways be turned over them during cold to storng to be applied in contact with the seed. If the quantity applied is to small and a thin layer of earth is interpose between them, it will succeed well. Billing's con corn planter will drop the manure if it is well pulvori-zed, from one compartment of the hop-per, while the seed drops from the other, and leaving a half inch or more of earth between them. A good way is to scatter a spoonful of the powdered manure in a hill, partly cover it and mix it, with a stroke of the hoc, and then plant the seed.)—Country Gentleman
