FOR GOVERNOR,

Maj. Gen. John W. Geary, OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

"Our readers know that, from the hour of the Rebellion's collapse and ut-ter overthrow, our platform of Reconstruction has been short and simpleuniversal amnesty—impartial suffrage. Restore to every man all the rights he forfeited by treason, on the single condition that all persons born under the jurisdiction of our Government or naturalized into American citizenship shall enjoy equal civil and political rights."—New York Tribune.

Deny it as they may, the sentiments of Horace Greely are the sentiments of the radicals who now control Congress. And because Andy Johnson and his friends will not agree to "swap horses" -to grant universal pardon to all rebels for universal negro suffrage, he must be denounced as a traitor to the party that elected him and to the country. If Andy Johnson is pardoning too many rebels, and we are free to say we believe he is, what can be gress and be offered to the Legislatures for approval.

Mr. Forney, speaking for his class, is vociferating over the victory the throwing overboard of the ultraism of the modified plan of the Senate.

"We have went analysis and the adoption made upon you. Little need be said in addition to the instructions given at "We have won a splendid victory," Norfolk. Your last session has made said a straggler from the first Bull Run. "Victory do you call it?" responded an astonished listener. "Yes date you and to impede the course of justice will not make you the less faithful and carnest in the discharge of ington and Jeff Davis might have been in the White House, had they only known how weak we were. As it was they only destroyed our army." This is the sort of victory he and his radic. burg Commercial.

The report of the majority of before Congress on Friday, declares that the lately rebellious States can President had no power to organize civil courts, and that no constitution big been leading that the cities along the coasts of Senegambia, Upper and Lower Guinea, Congo, has been legally adopted in any of the Lounge, Angela and Benguela com-States except Tennessee The report bined. the only one of the States at all qualiator Revery Jonuson and Representatives Henry Grider and Andrew J. New York city, independent of the emigrants. The first case was Mr. Frazer, lawyer, and the others grew out of it. The thing is easily explained, and the explanation should be a warning. It appears that Mr. Frazer had his business office in the basement of his house; that under the floor was a cemetery for defunct rats, the remains of which caused the atmosphere above to be poisonous, and unnoticed because borne long enough to be suffered as an irremediable nuisance.

"Lewis, of the Huntingdon Globe, wants a commission as P. M."—Harrisburg Telegraph.

You don't say. It's news to us cortainly. You didn't want to hold on to your commission, did you? Your support of the President was understood -you couldn't gum those who knew you. George, if you never get another office until we want a commission as P. M. at this place, you will be an outsider for many years.

CONGRESS IS A GREAT PEOPLE.-The re-construction question has been before Congress for six months. The House sent to the Senate a "policy," and the Senate by a unanimous vote threw it overboard, and substituted another. Perhaps the House will accept the substitute. It is about time Doctors should cease to differ.

-The law of Congress recently passed, imposing a tax of ten per cent. on the amount of State bank notes paid out by the National and State Banks, Jefferson Davis.

Opening of Judge Underwood's Court.-Impanneling of the Grand Jury.—The Charge of the Judge.—Severe Comments on Richmond.

RICHMOND, VA., June 5.-Judge Underwood arrived from Alexandria this morning and spent the forencon at General Terry's headquarters, in the mansion formerly occupied by Jeffrson Davis.

Most of the non-resident members of the Grand Jury arrived this morning, and made their appearance during the forenoon at the United States Court Room in the Court House. Soon after 11 o'clock, the hour at which it was expected the adjourned session of the Circuit Court would be opened, Messrs. Reed, Brady and Brown, counsel for Davis, entered the court room and engaged in conversation with prominent members of the Richmond Bar and others. Messrs. Van Sickle and Thos. H. Edsall, of New York, and Charles Gross, of Philadelphia, junior counsel of Davis, were also present.

Not more than fifteen or twenty spectators, including two ladies from New York, were in the Court at any time during the day, it having been ascertained by actual count that the legal number of Grand Jurors was not Judge Underwood did not appear and occupy his seat until one o'clock. At that hour he entered the room, and the Court was formally opened by the crier. By direction of Judge Under-wood, the Clerk, W. H. Barry called the names of the Grand Jury, and fourteen only responded.

The panel being thus complete the Judge, at two o'clock, delivered Messrs. Reed, Brady and Brown, the coupsol for Mr. Davis, entered the room at about 10 o'clock, and awaited the opening of the court.

At about a quarter to 11 o'clock

Judge Underwood took his sent, and the court was opened by the crier.

After the lapse of several minutes Judge Underwood addressing the assistant district attorney said :

Mr. Hennessy, we are ready to hear from you whenever it suits your con-

Mr. Hennessy arose and the counsel. lawyers and spectators all arose and pressed forward to hear his response. He said:

May it please your honor, as the auower of the Government to the questions propounded by Mr. Reed on yesterday are considered of some importance, I have written them out and propose to read them to the court.

May it please your honor, yesterday, Mr. W. B. Reed, one of the counsel for Jefferson Davis, propounded certain questions to the court and to me, which, in the absence of Mr. Chandler, I at that time declined to answer. Mr. Chandler is still absent, being, I regret to say, entirely prostrated by a recent severe domestic calamity, and, as I promised, I to-day proceed to reply to the questions of the learned gentleman.

That gentleman correctly says that an indictment has been found in this court against his client, Mr. Davis, and asks, Is it to be tried, is it to be dropped, or is it to be suspended? So far as I am instructed, I believe it is to be tried, but it will not be possible to do so at present, for a variety of reasons, some of which I proceed to give: In the first place, Mr. Davis, though indicted in the court for high treason, is not now and never has been in the custody of this court, but is held by the United States Government as a prisoner at Fort Monroe, under an order of the President, signed by the Secretary

In the second place, even if Mr. Davis were in the custody of this court, it would not be possible for the Attorney General, in view of his numerous and pressing engagements, at the close of the session, to come here now and try this case, which is a case of great national importance, as he would be exnected to do.

In the third place, if Mr. Davis is in the delicate state of health suggested by Mr. Roed, it would be nothing less than cruel at this hot and unhealthy season to expose him to the unavoida ble fatigues of a protracted trial, which appears to be an inevitable result of the array of counsel, present and pro-spective, engaged for his defense. Noither this court nor any of its officers has any present control over the person of Mr. Davis, and until they have it becomes impossible for the District Attorney to say when he will be tried.

But this I assure the gentlemen who represent him here, that the hour Mr. Davis comes into the custody of this court they shall have full and prompt notice when it is intended to try him, and so far as the District Attorney and his associates are concerned, they may rest assured that their case will have a just and speedy trial without further barrier, let or bindrance. This I say for the special department of

and his client will be enjoying the cool breeze of the sea at Fort Monroe, instead of inhaling the heated and fetid atmosphere of a court room.

The Court ordered an adjournment until October next.

The grand jury then retired to their by yielding advantages fairly won: and we propose the following platform as the basis of organization: 5. That such treatment should be accorded to the defeated for as the ing an aily.

6. That such and so many guarantees shall be demanded from the South and incorporated in the National Constitution as are necessary to prevent recurring rebellion, secure justice and freedom to men of all classes, condi-tions and colors, and guard the na-tional faith against violation.

7. That rebels ought not to be precipitated into power before such guarantees have been obtained, and that, accordingly, Congress, to which rightfully pertains all questions of reconstruction, should be cordially sustained in their demands for such guarantes. 8. That with the beginning of the war, the nation took a new departure, and henceforth her Constitution will be held in the interest of liberty, justice and security, according to the rights of its preamble and the immor-tal Declaration of Independence, under the teachings of its authors and compatriots. Too long already has it been interpreted in the interests of slavery and caste.

9. That Major General John W. Geary, having given the best evidence of his devotion to the Union during the late rebellion by volunteering in its defence and serving faithfully during the war, when many like Heister Clymer, who now claim to be equally patriotic, were rendering aid and comfort to the rebels, and he now being before the people of Pennsylvania as a candidate for the office of Governor, we, his follow soldiers in that time of trial, pledge to him our support and ask the same from all those who acknowledge the debt of gratitude due from the country to its saviors.

10. That the soldiers of Pennsylvania recognize no warmer or truer friend than Andrew G. Curtin. His name is our watchword, his fame is our hope, and his record is our glory. The unswerving love of the "Soldiers' Friend" will be reciprocated by unfaltering devotion.

11. That we appeal hopefully to Congress for speedy justice in the equalization of bounties to the soldiers. 12. That believing that " treason is a crime and that traitors should be punished," we demand that leading traitors should be convicted and executed, as an example to traitors for all time to come. 13. That this Convention is able to express its sentiments upon the whole matter of issues and candidates in four words, which may answer for our banners in the pending political cam-

14. That the legislation whereby Congress attempted to defend and protect our allies—the loyal men of he South-against the deadly hatred of the common enemy, and to make good to a race of freedom proffered as the price of aid, and awarded as the due of loyalty, deserves our unqualified approval.

15. That we request Congress so to legislate as to protect American industry by a high protective tariff.

No one can but remember how, in the dark days of the rebellion, we Republicans deprecated any attempt to interfere with the power of the administration; and even when there were found some few who did not see clearly the absolute necessity of stretching the Constitution, they were branded as copperheads of the deepest dye. Should it be, then, that we, who deprecated such transactions in our opponents, should now take it upon our-selves to do as much and in many cases more too.

President Johnson was only a few short weeks ago considered one of the faithful, and the press generally lauded him for his executive ability. Now abuse upon abuse is heaped upon him till a less brave heart would stagger under it. But he does not swerve from his duty. He keeps by him the same advisers whose knowledge and influence supported and advised our late President.
