Temperance Topics.

Congressional Tippling.

The sale of intoxicating drinks in the Capitol at Washington has been long a cause of mortification to thousands of citizens throughout the country. And the shame is not less, when they hear of the drinking—sometimes hard drinking—that is done in committee rooms. A liberal grog shop in the Capitol, for the express use of members of Congress, is felt to be a national disgrace. Members whose wits require such frequent jogging, or wits require such frequent jogging, of whose physical machinery needs to be so often wound up, had better be removed to some hospital for feeble minds or infirm bodies, for they cannot be proper persons to deliberate, judge and decide on great and important national interests. Besides, if the effect of stimulus on the brain does not injure legislation it is the only business that we hear of, which is done as well by persons half intoxicated as by those under the full government of their reason. In this view of the case, the substitution of the "individual" bottle in the pocket, for the common one at the "hole-in-the-wall," would be no improvement—perhaps some would drink more, buying it cheaper by the pint. Some of our business corporations, such as Railroad and Express companies, proscribe drinking altogether in their business, allowing none of their employees to drink any intoxicating liquor. In business where life and property are at stake, this regulation commends itself in every upprejudiced mind. No traveller by cars will object to a sober engineer. But the business of Congress is more important, as involving vast interests of every kind, and surely a clear head is necessary to transact it properly. No District or State has a right to send a sot to Congress, to make laws for the United States. And no sober and intelligent citizen wishes laws to be made under the impulse of rum, whiskey or brandy, or under their influence in any way. Congressmen are not understood to be so much abler and wiser than other men, that they can afford to lose part of their wits or to have them muddled with liquor, and yet have enough left to do the law making for the Union in the most approved manner. A Treasury clerk has just been apprehended for stealing \$38,000, and says, in his confession, that he did not take the monoy deliberately but under the influence of intoxicating drink. How many of our financial and political defalcations may be the consequences of the same cause? If we need sober, reliable men anywhere, it is in Congress and the public offices of the Capitol.— $P\iota tt$  sbur $\dot{g}$  Commercial.

A Word to Parents.

If you would have your children become useful members of society, teach | Horse Nails, and all kinds of Iron & Steel them the theory and practice of temperance, now in the days of youth, while the mental susceptibilities are active and ready for the formation of habits of sobricty and virtue. Place before their minds, in such manner that they may not soon forget, the advantages of abstinence from intoxicating stimulants, and the disadvantages and dangers that almost invariably attend the use of alcoholic beverages .-Dissuade them from keeping company with young men of dissolute character, for "evil communications" not only "corrupt good manners," but act as leaven which "leaven the whole lump." If your boys adhere to a fixed determination never to allow a single drop of the poisonous liquid to pass between their lips, not even at the solicitation of friends, who may perhaps thoughtlessly proffer a glass of wine or ale, you will find that in a few years the destroyer, with his wily arts of temptation, will seldom assay to break down the barriers which divide the good from the evil. But, on the other hand, if you permit your children to go forth in the world unarmed, as it were, and careless in the choice of associates, as well as reckless and loose in their moral deportment, you will one day learn to your sorrow that as you have not sown the seeds of temperance in the minds entrusted to your care, you have sown the seeds of tares, whose aftergrowth no mortal husbandman may ever be able to cradicate. Therefore, if you would inculcate correct principles for the guid-ance of youthful intellects, be careful to furnish, for the improvement of leisure hours, such books and papers as teach and set forth, with vividness, the doctrines of virtue and temperance .-In illustration of this, the writer remembers when, many years ago, thro' the kindness of a venerable friend, he became the reader of a paper for juveniles whose editor denounced the selling of intoxicating liquors, and exposed in their true light the horrors of drunkenness and vice. The good counsels therein offered, and the warnings to shun the ways of evil and sin, produced a most salutary effect, that will doubtless endure to the end of life; and often, in thoughtful moments, has the memory of that editor and of that friend been blessed for what they were certainly the means, through God's assistance, of accomplishing, at least, as far as one mind was concerned. - Echo,

WHAT ONE GLASS OF WINE DID.-The influence which an apparently insignificant circumstance often exerts on the affairs in life was well illustrated in the history of Louis Phillippe, who was the heir apparent to his father's throne, and regarded as one of the most promising young men in France. Not given to dissipation, of a lofty and noble character, and an officer of distirction in the army, the hopes of his family, his friends, and his country, were centered on him. One morning, being about to take his departure from Paris to join his regiment, he invited a few companions to breakfast with him, and in the conviviality of the hour drank one glass of wine too much. Bidding adieu to his companions he stepped into his carriage. Had it not been for the "glass too much" he would have remained seated; as it was be sprang out. But for the "glass too much" he would have alighted on his feet; as it was, his head struck the pavement, Senseless and bleeding, he was carried into a beer shop and soon

That extra glass of wine overthrew the Orleans dynasty, caused the confiscation of their property worth $100,000,000, and drove the family into po-

SPECIAL NOTICE.

THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Daxis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebelacts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscri-bers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urgo your fath, 'ers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Duplex Elliptic or Double Spring, SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can ube folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as sikk or nusslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any singlo-spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their prefect and gracful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with couble and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great lavorife with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the f llowing inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz. superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic level Springs upon the walst band—none others are genuine article. CAUTION—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex Elliptic level Springs" upon the walst band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other spring.
