HUNTING DON, PA. Thoughts for the Farmer.

The Earth Worm. The earth worm belongs to the class called annelids, from the Latin anellus, a small ring, because the body of the worm appears to be composed of a series of small rings joined together like beads on a string. The worm has also another name, Lumbricus Terretris, which is simply the Latin for earth worm, so this apparently insignificant creature bears a sounding name. And he is worthy of it. He is a remarkable individual, belonging to the only class of invertebrate animals which have red blood. This is quite a distinction, one which many animals

We have said this is a useful animal. We do not refer to its value as bait for fish, but its usefulness as a cultivator of the soil. It does, beneath the surface, just what the farmer does on the surface, opens the soil to the action of air and moisture by running galleries in every direction. It does even more. It is a superior worker of fertilizers, turning crude and rank manure to a valuable compost, fit for the support of vegetable life. If not allowed to do this in the heap, it will carry on the work after the manure has been removed to the field or garden. But this does not exhaust the list of its useful qualifications. It actually turns poor and grudging soil in some cases to val- Household, Horticultural and Farm uable and generous mould. In dry times the worm is driven by the necessities of his nature deeper into the earth, as he cannot live in dry soils. When he returns to the surface he brings with him the earth he has swallowed-for he is an earth-eater-and voids it upon the surface. And this which he leaves upon the surface is of the very finest quality. Every one has seen these worm castings heaped about the mouth of their holes. Thus the manures added to the soil by man and the constituents of the soil, themselves, are thoroughly mingled by this indefatigable cultivator, and these castings in time accumulate on the surface, so that instances have been known where several inches of vegetable mold have been added by this means to the surface of a field. In this manner the earth worm proves himself to be one of the farmer's best friends and assistants.

Now let us see whether he, like some of the feathered tribe, has some bad qualities which offset his usefulness. He certainly does not destroy living vegetation, either roots, stems, or leaves; for even those who deny that he is a dirt eater do not charg him with eating living plants. They merely assert that he cats dead and decaying vegetation. The worst that can be said of him is that he defaces our nicely kept walks by his noctural deposits of exuviæ. - Scientific Amer-

Sore Backs.-When the disease has proceeded to or approaches ulceration and brought about one of those sluggish, ill-conditioned ulcers, with flabby granulations, and an ichorous discharge, my remedy is lint steeped in warm "gum elemi eintment," the ointment to be heated in a spoon over a candle, and the lint, fine and well soaked in this, to be inserted into the sore. I have known more progress effected by this dressing in one week than by three months of other treatment. -Blackwood.

Worth Knowing .- A poison of any Rakes, conceivable description and degree of potency, which has been swalle wed intentionally or by accident, may be rendered almost instantaneoutly harmless by swallowing two gills of sweet oil. An individual with a very strong constitution should take twice that quantity. This oil will neutralize every form of vegetable or mineral poison with which physicians and chemists are acquainted.

Sage Tea in Profuse Sweating .- An old remedy for excessive sweating is again brought to public notice in the shape of cold sage tea. It is made by taking a large teaspoonful of chopped sage leaves, and boiling them in six oz. of water for two or three minutes The decoction is then left to stand and cool, and is strained and sweetened to the taste. This remedy has been used with benefit in the calliguative sweating, as it is called, of pulmonary comsumption.

Slobbering in Horses .- A correspondent of the Boston Cultivator says that this is a disease in horses. Saltpetre, a tablespoonful for a dose, he has found to cure the worst case he ever had, and has not found it necessary ever to give the fourth dose. He gives a tablespoonful in the morning, and in three days, if he is not free from it, he repeats the dose: Cure for Self Sucking Cows .- A Stouben county correspondent of the Genesco Farmer says that he cured a three year old heifer of sucking herself by smearing her teats night and morning with soft grease, and then dusting them thoroughly with pulverized cayenne pepper. The applications were continued about a week, and a perfect cure effected.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicino—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—
There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.
