HUNTINGDON, PA. ASK ME NOT TO DRINK.

Fair lady, ask me not to drink A teast to thee to-night;
For broken vows and blasted hopes
Expose the demon's blight.
Put back the wine—I dare not taste— Put back the sparkling bowl;
For who hath quaffed a draught so deep,
And reached a blissful goal?

Oh! ask me not, there lies within Oh! ask me not, there hes within
A poison deep and dire!
And every drop but serves the more
To fan the latent firs.
Each draught will quench my sense of guilt,
And blast youth's building hope;
Each drop will sink me deeper still,
In more laight to graps In moral night to grope.

Oh! press me not to touch the cup, Within are glaring eyes,
And starving widows, hungry babes,
And freezing orphans' cries;
Whom the gods destroy they first make drunk
Then ask me not to drink; Oh, tempt me not, but spare my soul From death's eternal brink.

have three sisters, mildly fair, Like angels round my way; Whose love is like the stars that shine With undiminished ray; Shall they be doomed to see me fall A prey to maddening drink, And sundered be the love that binds Or snapt the golden link?

Another sleeps where sadly wave The willows in the vale; The willows in the vale;
And midnight whispers from the sky,
Come on the sighing gale;
She passed away as summer's breath,
In life's incipient bloom;
Then tempt me not; I would not mar
Her slumbers in the tomb.

The cool breezes from the valley are fresh and invigorating, and the traveler, after being shut up in a close car over night, is refreshed by poking his hend out of his window in quest of air and sights. And now we come to the gist of what we have long tried to say, that if the traveler on the road and train referred to, will keep his window, a real "woman in white," love. lier by far than Wilkie Collins. Her couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly, yet a thousand times too fast a vision of the couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly, yet a thousand times too fast a vision of the couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly, yet a thousand times too fast a vision of the couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly, yet a thousand times too fast a vision of the couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly, yet a thousand times too fast a vision of the couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly, yet a thousand times too fast a vision of the couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly, yet a thousand times too fast a vision of the couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly, yet a thousand times too fast a vision of the couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly, yet a thousand times too fast a vision of the couch is directly against the window and as the train moves slowly. eyes open at the point indicated, he

We advise all old men and boys not to look too long else they might lose their sight. We warn married men not suddenly to become coraptured with the scenery along the Pennsylvania Central and go this route and none other, though it is out of their way.

If, on the first of the year, Mr. Gwin ner has found that his travel has in creased one hundred per cent., we now speak for the credit, because the cause or such an increase could be traceable but to one thing; anxiety to see a WOMAN IN WHITE.

Editors in France.—We have some ital. A late correspondent from that sensible city says that an editor has a fine time of it there. He is furnished a carriage to ride in, and, in "addition, but little work is expected of him, for he passes the greater part of his time in smoking cigars and in talking, and if he writes an article or two a week, he thinks himself wonderfully industrious." mere scratch." "And you like this kind of fun?" "Glory in it, sir. It is the healthiest game in the world, sir."

TEACHING DRAWING.—Mr. W. is one of our most popular artists and teachers of drawing. The other morning, while busily at work, he was interrupted by a rough looking customer.

"Be you Mr. W., the painter?"

"I am sir."
"You teach creeters, I believe?" "Yes, sir," replied the artist, who ancied his visitor some wealthy old farmer; "do you wish your daughter to take a few lessons?"

"No sir, not my darter." "Your son, perhaps?" "No, not my son, neither?"

"Who, then, not yourself I hope?" "No, not myself, but somebody a very durned sight more difficult. A four year old heifer mule I bought tother day. Learn him to draw, and durn me if I don't out with the newter and give you the biggest hundred dollars you ever seed.'
