Constitution contemplates that the circulating medium of the country shall be uniform in quality and value. At the time of the formation of that instrument the country had just emerged from the war of the Revolution, and was suffering from the existence of a redundant and worthless currency.

The sages of that period were anxious to protect their posterity from the evils which they themselves had experienced. Hence, in providing a circulating medium, they conferred upon Converse the rowards the redundant and worthless currency which in all their business transactions will be uniform in value at home and abroad.

A Sound Circulating Medium.

The redundant in the country had just emerged from the eastern base of the Rocky Mountains, whilst the terminus of the Ro

By the operation of our present system of finances, however, the metallic currency, when collected, is reserved only for one class of government enciditors, who, holding its bonds, semi-annually receive their interest in coin from the national Trensury.

They are thus made to occupy an invidious position which may be used to strengthen the arguments of those who would bring into disrepute the obligations of the nation. In the payment of all its debts, the plighted laith of the government should be inviolably maintained. But while it acts with justice towards the bondholder who louned his money that the integrity of the Union might be preserved, it should, at the same time observe good faith with the great masses of the people who, having rescued the Union from the porils of rebellion, now bear the burdens of taxation that the government and properly of American citizens, maintaining the dignity and power of the contrivances for cheating the law the contrivanc The report of the Secretary of the Navy
