HUNTING DON, PA

[For the Globe.] Connubial Felicity. Mankind intuitively longs for connu bial happiness, and why, because God has created us for each other's happiness. God when he made man said it one door east of the washington hotel is not good for man to be alone, I will give him a holpmate. Man's life would be a solitary life and a blank without female society; therefore God took from Adam a part of his own body, so that he could say she is now bone of my bone, and flesh of my flesh. Pure fe-male society refines and elevates mankind; man must have something to cling to in the hour of adversity and trouble. Multitudes rush into the married relations without eyer considering the solemn duties and obligations it is poses, looking only at the bright side of the picture, and not considering the trials and misfortunes that may be in store for them. They think happiness is to be obtained without any preparation or qualification for its attainment How much then depends on this solemn stop, and what feelings press upon the mind of one who looks upon it in proper light. The humble writer can tell something of the trials and afflictions of an experience deep and keen, having lost one of the bestand loveliest of companions, and six dear little babes lying beside their dear mother in the cold grave, but their bright spirits are in the beautiful land of glory where we shall all meet to be separated no more forever. Insincerity at the bridal is a crime of the blackest character, and he who would tear a daughter from home and friends, and prove false to his marriage vows, would be guilty of the grescrime; and she who would be untrue on such a solemn occasion would be unworthy the name of a virtuous lady. But where all is sincerity, confidence and love, happiness is present indeed, and will continue through life. Changes, adversity and losses cannot alter their affection for each other. Afflictions only bind them closer; for a good and true woman will bear more of life's trials and disappointments than man. The relations of busband and wife were established six thousand years ago, and has survived not only the flood, but every other change. It LUSTRES, GINGHAMS, MERINOS, PLAIDS, DE WAS then declared by the Ruler of the Universe, that man should leave father and mother and cleave unto his wife, and they should be one flesh as one body. The relations were not formed for mere selfish or animal passions; it was not established for mere sensual gratification, but for the attainment of high, holy and noble purposes. The vow made is to be observed at all times, amid all changes; and he is bound to love, cherish and protect and provide the comforts of life; for he who negdown woul less and void of enjoyment. The husband ought at all times to be tender and affectionate, and show that he loves her above all others; for naught else can compensate his wife for the sacrifices she has made, nor cheer her amid her many cares and arduous family duties. Harsh words, unkind looks, fault finding, anger and suspicion should be carefully avoided on both sides, and especially that worst of all ovils joalousy, which has separa-ted many a happy family; whereas, if they would be above suspicion, all would be charity and peace. Man is the head of the family. The husband's example will be followed and his words remembered; the destiny of immortal souls is placed in his care, for which he is responsible to his Maker to train them up in the duties of life, and his conduct in his family circle exerts an influence for good or evil. How important then that he be a sincere Christian; how necessary that he take them to the house of God, as his conduct be such as becometh an upright and henest man, and that he set up a family altar and gather them together to invoke the blessing and protection of Heaven upon his family, that when they are done meeting around the fa nily altar, they may meet in Heaven.

BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS .- A number of associations under this title have been formed in various prats of our State.

The Harrisburg Patriot and Union of a recent date, contains an account of their method of doing business which may prove interesting to our readers: In the first place stock is is-sued at $5 or $10 a share, and as fast as it is purchased the funds are invested in land, and houses are crected thereon, the mechanics belonging to the association having the preference in the employment of builders. Every stockholder can then lease one of the houses, paying a reasonable rent for it, and said stockholder can become the purchaser of the dwelling, his stock, when the amount is sufficient, being taken at par exchange for the

An endeavor should be made we think by the men of modorate means in our midst to establish an association of this kind. No man could desire more reasonable terms in the purchase of a good, comfortable home for his family, and all mechanics would avail themselves of the opportunity present ed by such associations to acquire a home in which to shelter themselves and families from the chill blasts of winter, and which they will not be yearly warned to vacate, as is the case of those who rent from year to year, never making any provision for old ago, sickness or death.

There is an amusing anecdote current about Lord Derby. It is said that a certain wine merchant persecuted the premier into testing a sample of wine, which was to keep off the gout, and that his lordship replied:—
"I have tested your wine, but I prefer the gout."
