What Constitutes a Good Road.

From the Practical Farmer. The following recent decision in the Delaware judicial district, where a supervisor was indicted for neglect to keep the roads in good traveling or-der, will commend itself to the common sonse of the community every where. Judge Butler's charge of wha is to be considered a legal road, and what are the duties of Supervisors has not been so well delivered before or understood. A mutual understand ing of what the law is has long been wanting; and if roads are not hereafter kept 'in good repair and free from obstructions," the fault will be with the citizens. "The defendant, a supervisor in Darby township, is indicted for neglect to perform the duties of his office. It is the business of the supervisors of th public highways to keep the reads in their respective townships in good or-der for use—to have all new roads properly constructed and old ones carefully repaired. They are not vest-ed with authority to judge how much space the travel in a particular place requires, nor how poor or indifferent a road will answer its purpose. To the full extent that the ground has been appropriated to the public use, by the law, it must be opened, the entire space constructed into a good and convenient highway, and be thereafter continually kept in such condition.-To remove the fences and throw the ground open-or, in addition, to plow a ditch on either side, is not to construct a road within the meaning of the law. The ground must be made reasonably smooth, freed from obstructions, and put in such shape that the water will drain off to the side, leaving the road-way dry and solid. Where the width is fixed at thirty three feet, (as is usual,) or at any other limit, it is because the Court, aided by the report of the jury, has determined that this space is necessary. And whether this deter-mination be wise or not, the supervisors cannot consider. Their duty simply to obey the order of the Court and the Act of Assembly, to open the road to the entire extent, and keep i thereafter free from obstructions and in good repair. If it is not needed to accommodate the travel, care should be taken that the Court is properly in formed and the road not established or if it has already been established that it be vacated. But so long as it remains upon the records as a public highway it must be kept in good order for use. If any part of it be obstructed by fences, stumps, rocks (that can be removed,) boles, or the like, such obstruction constitutes a nuisance and renders the supervisors liable to indict ment. And in case of injury to any one, in person or property, from this cause, the supervisors are further liable in damages to the full extent of the loss thus sustained. And it may be well that the people of the townships should understand that they, too, are responsible in their corporate capacity, for such loss. The supervisors are their agents, and their safety in this requires that they should elect suitable men to the office, and see that they perform their duty. The subject is one of deep interest to the public No delay, vexation and danger of traveling on bad ones. In the case before us it appears that a road was laid out in Darby township, some years ago, forty feet in width that the fences were removed, and in some places ditches made at the sides, that the timber growing upon it (a part of the distance being through woodland,) was out down—that no roadbed was formed, the uneven face of the ground being left as it was found, and on which the rain-water lay as it fell—that the stumps of the trees cut amounted to several hundreds, and being one to two and a half feet high, were allowed to remain —that two large logs lay in the road, —that a considerable part of the space between the fences has, at some

TYRONE PLANING MILLS points, until very recently, been grown up with bushes five to eight feet high, and that the travel has been mainly confined for a considerable distance to a single track. The defendant has been in office upward of one year.— You will say whether he has performed his duty in respect to this road. If he has not, he should be convicted. I has been asserted on the trial that this road is in no worse condition than other roads, elsewhere in the country. If this be true, it furnishes no excuse for the defendant, though it may furnish a reason why other supervisors should also be brought to trial and punished. You will new take the case and say whether the defendant is guil-The jury rendered a verdict of guilened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophicd and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted Setofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and unfeit tenant of the organism undermines the constitution, and invites the attack of enfeching or fatal diseases, without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly develop into one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or among the vitals. In the latter, tubercless may be suddenly deposited in the langs or heart, or tumors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by cruptions on the skin, or foul ulcerations on some part of the body. Hence the occasional use of a bottle of this Sursapartila is advisable, even when no active symptoms of disease appear. Persons afflicted with the following complaints generally find immediate relief, and, at length, cure, by the use of this Sursapartila, is advisable, oven when no active symptoms of disease appear.
