CAUSE AND EFFECT.

Colds are the effect of obstructed porspiration. The symptoms are so generally understood, that nothing need to be add on that point. But colds are easily taken and unless great care is exercised a second cold will often be contracted or in other words, one cold will run into another and a continued cough ensu, bringing on straining and racking of the lungs, and the production of tuberies. Alth mysh may thousands of persons are drifting through these symptoms towards pulmonary diseases of a dangerous character, yet the mylority think that they are troubled with nothing but an ordinary cold, which will remely itself and puss away. Futal delusion full remely itself and puss away. Futal delusion full remely itself and puss away. Futal delusion full the total cold is attended to.
