REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR: JOHN W. GEARY, OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

FOR JUDGE SUPREME COURT: HENRY W. WILLIAMS, OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.

Republican County Convention.

A Convention of the Union Republicans of Huntingdon county, will be held at the Court House, on Thursday, August 10th, 1889, at 10 o'clock, p. m.

This Convention will be composed of two delegates from each township, borough, ward and district. The Republican voters of the county are requested to meet at their respective places of holding elections (except in the West Ward of the Borough of Huntingdon, who will hold their election at the store room of N. C. Decker, on Saturday, the 7th day of August, between the hours of 8 and 7 o'clock, p. m., and in the Boroughs between the hours of 9 and 9 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to this Convention.

You are also requested to vote by ballot at the same time for or against the adoption of the Crawford County System, and instruct your delegates accordingly.

H. C. WEAVER, Chairman County Committee.

PERSUASIBLE PROPERTY—Packer and Pershing.

The income-tax expires with next year's payment, unless Congress re-enacts it, at the next session.

The most significant alteration of the "P" is Pily Poor Packer, Picked, Plucked and Plundered.

Packer made his money by buying coal lands cheap and then waiting for advancement. He can lose it by buying nominations dear and waiting for election.

Do we object to Packer because he is rich? Not by any means. We object to him because he would never have been nominated had he not been rich.

The last report upon the lay-delegation question in the Methodist Church, gives an aggregate vote of 187,005, of which 78,390 are affirmative and 108,615 negative, a majority of nearly 50,000 for lay participation.

The difference between Andy Johnson and Asa Packer is, Andy began with Alderman and went up. Packer began with President and is coming down. Who knows but that he will next turn up as a candidate for Alderman in March Chunk.

The Democratic party, while it pretends to honor the soldier, takes up his back upon his country, in its darkest hours, and sought escape from the obligations of patriotism in a luxurious tour of Europe.

The reunion of the officers of the Union and Confederate armies who fought at Gettysburg is to be held on the battle field on the fourth of August. This meeting is called by the Gettysburg Memorial Association for the purpose of permanently locating the various stages of that battle.

McClellan once remarked to a friend that he would not again put up with the indignities which he had to endure from politicians during the campaign of 1864, to be President a hundred times.

And before Asa Packer goes through this campaign, he will be heard to cry out in all the agony of his soul: "Spare my money-bags from my friends!"

If a man must be worth twenty millions of dollars before he is eligible to a Democratic nomination for Governor, and it costs him one hundred thousand dollars to secure that nomination, how much will it cost him to be elected? An answer desired on the second Tuesday of October next.

We suggest to those Democratic editors who attended Billy McCallum's Convention, and had their pockets picked that they make out their bills and send them to Asa Packer for payment, and see that they are paid, before they agree to give him their hearty support. What say you, Traugh?

On Dr.—That the editor of the Altoona Vindicator, who was a delegate to the State Convention, and was instructed to support Gen. Cass for Governor violated his instructions by voting for Packer. Had Packer's money anything to do with anything? The Blair folks are cross about it, and make some pretty broad assertions.

During the war the Hon. C. L. Vallandigham, the noted rebel from Ohio, was the invited guest of the Hon. Asa Packer, Democratic candidate for Governor, at his residence in Mauch Chunk. Soldiers of the republic, and loyal citizens, remember the old adage, "show me your company, and I'll tell you who you are."

Asa Packer.

We have carefully waded through a long sketch of the life of Asa Packer, written by a Democratic admirer, which extols all his virtues and claims everything for him which he is entitled to, and we have just three points in the whole article. Mr. Packer has an unimpeachable private character, which all admit. So has Gov. Geary. Mr. Packer has no advantages over Geary in that respect. But let us come to what the sketch claims for Mr. Packer as a great virtue. He was born in Connecticut and came to this State when seventeen years of age, and settled in Susquehanna county. He apprenticed himself to a carpenter and joiner, and "served his time," as all other good boys do. He followed his trade for several years; then went to clearing some land which he had bought. Becoming tired of that, he went to Lehigh Valley, bought a canal-boat and freighted coal from Mauch Chunk to Philadelphia. After a while in company with a brother, and with the aid of an uncle's money he started a store. He next became associated with the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company. In the course of a few years he had made considerable money, so much so that he was able, without aid from any one, to build the Lehigh Valley Railroad, which eventually was the means of his amassing his present colossal fortune. He took advantage of the necessities of the Government during the war, and while Gen. Geary was in the field bearing his breast to the bullets of the enemy, Asa Packer was furnishing coal to the Government at enormous prices.

Such is a nut-shell of the rise and progress of Mr. Packer up to 1866, when he founded what is known as the Lehigh University, and endowed it with $600,000. A large sum, truly, out of $20,000,000. We believe it is the only sum he ever gave to any institution of learning or anything else of a public nature.

Now this is all very good, and should stand out in bold relief as an example to the young men of to-day, to exert themselves in making a name, and a fortune. But we see nothing remarkable in all this. We cannot see that because Mr. Packer has been successful in business and has become as rich as Croesus, any good reason why he should be named as the standard bearer of any party. His own friends "do not claim that he is a statesman. They do not claim that he is at all fitted for the Chief Executive office of this Commonwealth. The strongest argument in his behalf is that he is worth twenty millions, and it is the only one on which he can stand."

That startling Republican paper, the Berks and Schuylkill Journal, speaks of Packer's principal backers: "Frank W. Hughes, that avowed and notorious rebel sympathizer during the war, was the author of the resolutions of the Convention which nominated and elected Packer. Wm. A. Wallace, of coffee grounds naturalization fame, was the chief engineer inside of the Convention which nominated Packer, the ruler of Fourth Ward of Philadelphia, which can give more Democratic votes than it has inhabitants, was the Chairman of the Committee on Organization and Brick Pomeroy, of the La Crosse Democrat, the eulogist of John Wilkes Booth, was the outside speaker at the meeting held to elect his nomination. Patriots and soldiers, and honest decent men, such as the leaders who have furnished you with a candidate, and ask you to join them in securing his election."

"Bribe" Packer, the great apostle of Democracy, says he would repudiate the national debt in two seconds if he had the power." Again he says, "we dare urge repudiation, we dare head a mob and batter down the vaults where our masters keep the notes which they say we must pay." This same "Bribe" was sent from New York to Harrisburg to engineer Packer, or through the Democratic Convention, and you are asked to support men who had endorsed the same principles that the notorious Bribe has the boldness to advocate through the columns of his paper. Working men look to your interests before you surrender yourselves to the enemies of your country.

Asa Formally Accepts the Nomination

Mr. Packer writes to the committee appointed to notify him of his nomination, that he accepts. In his letter he uses the word "Democratic" but once. Leaving that one word out, his letter would answer the purpose of any candidate that was over nominated by any party. Strange how queer, that the standard bearer of a party should so studiously avoid all the terms that "red-hot" party, and round his sentences so as to avoid a word so sensitive in the ears of the "army of disinterested patriots."

There are some who growl at President Grant, and promote his failure. The New York Herald remarks: "Give President Grant a chance. What can be expected in six months, and the hot season on at that? The great republic has been struck down and was not built in a day. Why should President Grant be expected to make his mark after only a few short months of civic authority? It took him a longer time than that to get out of the Wilderness." Reduct, yo growlers, up on the result of that campaign!"

Awake! Arouse!

Under the above caption the Pittsburgh Gazette says "the Republicans of Pennsylvania are apathetic and indifferent, the Democrats are not. Never were they more vigilant and laborious than at this very moment. If hard and persistent work will give them the crown of victory in October, they mean to win and wear it. True, they are not making an active campaign; in the ordinary meaning of that term; nor do they intend to make such an one unless forced into it, by movements on the Republican side. They believe their chances to be better with a "still hunt" than with a "loud hunt." For many years past they have joined in well defined issues, have gone before the people, with all the powers of argumentation and appeal that could be mustered, and have been beaten at all points. Repeated defeats have not only taught them caution, but have dictated the employment of a different strategy.

They are aware that the Republicans are a great mass, are seted with victories, and lullaby by ever constant. These are both delusive and perilous states of mind for individuals and parties, charged in any manner with high missions, to fall into. While they remain therein, they are, with comparative ease, taken at disadvantage and overcome.

What is most needed, just now, is for the leaders of the Republican organization to take an exact view of the situation and then adopt the measures which will advance in prices and advance the signals of those they have chosen for that purpose, and are impelled to respond to any proper call upon their activity.

The Republicans of the State cannot afford at this crisis to lose the Governor and the balance of power in the Supreme Court. Important measures remain to be consummated, and vital principles to be established by judicial decisions.

A year from next winter the State will have to be divided into Congressional and Legislative districts. The surrender which appears in the hands of the Democrats, will be to remit the State into their possession to be wrenched away again only by prodigious outlays of time and effort.

In view of all the facts we appeal to Republicans, here and throughout the Commonwealth, to shake off their apathy, to cease bickering and contentions, to promptly close up their ranks, and enter vigorously upon the work before them. A simultaneous assault, such as we need this year, and on several occasions, has been made, and it is quickly decided the fate of the field in our favor. Up, men! and at them!"

As a packer, Asa Packer cast over $100,000 pack. The people will now cast Packer and Packer's pack overboard. As a packer, Asa Packer will be overcast.

Democratic ticket, revised and corrected at the polls October 12, 1889.—Erratum, For Packer read Packed; for Pershing, pershing.

The Pennsylvania Democracy have nominated twenty millions dollars for Governor. It is not intended to make them all Governors, only what is left of them after the campaign is over.—Stop up, gentlemen, and vote for your golden one!

A Democratic exchange, speaking of Asa Packer's nomination, says: "It was a sensible thing in the State Convention to select a man possessing both a candidate and a candidate's wife."

How the Packer, Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, is immensely rich. He is said to be worth twenty millions of dollars. It is his great wealth that has secured him the nomination—as in other respects he is a very ordinary man—not remarkable for talent or distinguished for public services of any sort.

Twenty millions of dollars is a large sum for any one man to accumulate in a life time. It could never have been accumulated by honest labor. In Judge Packer's case his colossal fortune was built up by the sweat of other men's brows, rather than his own. He became rich by grinding the faces of the poor. It is not intended to make them all Governors, only what is left of them after the campaign is over.—Stop up, gentlemen, and vote for your golden one!

Political Powder-Flask.

Passing-rich is Asa Packer, and Mutchler is his prophet.

The Democratic P. P. P.'s—Packer's Pursu, Pershing and Plunder.

Asa Packer is accused of being a "Blotted Bondholder." How about repudiation?

A clear case of obtaining money under false pretences—the Democratic nomination.

The new Democratic war cry—militons for party votes; not one cent to pay off the national debt.

The Democrats have little to say this year about the "Yank Williams" strike. Packer is from the same Yankee State.

One Democratic paper, the Bedford Post, says that the boatman is hard up about hard times. Can it tell its readers that Packer is hard up?

Carpet-baggers are just now in favor among the Democracy. Packer is from Connecticut, and Bosworth, is from Massachusetts, and they are conducting themselves quietly and orderly. They say the price is too low to enable them to support themselves and families, and that they are compelled to ask an advance. They have heretofore received 50 cents per ton in good money for transporting to Philadelphia, and they now demand 77 cents and a proportionate advance for all intermediate places.

"THE COAL TRADE."

The difficulty between the boatmen engaged in the transportation of coal and the companies has not yet been removed. The companies do not, it appears, consider themselves able to meet the advance in prices asked. Nearly all the boats engaged in the coal trade, about 400 in number, are moored opposite this place. The empty boats in the dam, and presented the appearance of a floating village; the loaded ones are in the canal and cover an extent of about two miles—

The Saturday forenoon the boatman visited our borough in procession, with music and banners. About 200 were mounted on horses, and as many more were on foot. The procession was headed by the top-path or driver boys, and the rear was brought up by a large number mounted on mules. The whole presented an unusual and very striking appearance, and caused quite an excitement. The horses, with two exceptions, were ridden without saddles and guided with halloos, and many of the men were bareheaded and appeared to be in want of new shirts, all of which had a tendency to excite a sympathetic feeling in their favor.

All the coal boats continue idle at South Easton and its vicinity. A majority of the boatmen have gone home and are engaged in other employments.

THE LEHIGH BOATMEN.

The excitement created by the large number of boatmen who continue at South Easton and its vicinity, is threatening aspect on Monday and yesterday, and from all appearances a strike is not far from being consummated.

Yesterday the Mauch Chunk Company had a conference with a committee of the boatmen, but no arrangement could be effected to remove the unfortunate state of things. The boatmen, the Companies and the State are maintaining great loss by the suspension of the coal trade, which has already existed for two or three weeks. The peace as well as the interests of the community require that the evil should be removed and the laws enforced and respected.

After a delay of more than two months the usual activity and bustle of business is again seen along the line of the Mauch Chunk canal. The boatmen have agreed to pay the companies 10 cents per ton in addition to their former rates of freight, together with their allowance of other minor advantages.

Wm. A. Galbraith, of Erie, having refused to act as Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, a Col. Mutchler, of Easton, has been appointed to perform the duty.
