It, like Huntingdon, was not improving, and there was but little employment, except that given in a few stores and shops, while there was the usual number of non-producers, lawyers, doctors and preachers. Now, the population of Canton is doubled, and property val-ues trebled. Every industrious man who wishes employment can have it. Its workshops now produce annually more than a million dollars worth of machinery, the raw material for which is found mainly in neighboring soil. Mr. Sherman asks: "What is the cause of this change? Tribute of Respect.

At a meeting of Mount Hope Lodge, No. 209, 1. O. of G. T., at Petersburg, July 31st, 1869, the following resolutions were adopted. How oft we are called to realize the sol-How of t we are called to realize the solten from the same quality than elsewhere.

How of twe are called to realize the solten from the truth that we are mortal—that in the midst of life we are upon the verge of the grave, and that our time upon earth is but as a moment when compared with the vast eternity before us. The grim monster Death has taken from our midst one of the leading spirits of our beloved Order; he who of all others corn, do 1.09 corn, do 200 its of our beloved Order; he who of all others showed both by precept and example that he was in carnest in the Temperance work. In his Christian life he has left us an example worthy of imitation. He has left us; but we mourn not as those without hops. He died as he lived, in the enjoyment of a good hope of immortal bliss. It was our privilege to visit our brother during his lust illness, when he told us that his work was done, and that he was resigned to the will of his Heavenly Father. To-night he sleeps his last sleep.

We miss him from our councils. No more shall his stately form be seen among us; no more his wise counsel guide'us; no more his kindly greeting meet us; but our less is his kindly greeting meet us; but our less is his kindly greeting meet us; but our less is his gain, and we feel that we can say, "Thy will be done." In view of the above, your committee would offer the following:

Resolved, That in the death of our brother Jos. M. STEVENS, this Lodge has lost one of its brightest ornaments, and one of its most useful members.

Resolved, That in the death of our brother we are again admonished of the uncertainty of life, and of the importance of being pre-pared for death, so that, like him, when called away from earth we may have on the wed ding garment.

DIED, At Huntingdon, on Friday evening, 13th August, inst., Mr. SAMUEL CLEM-ENT, a highly respectable citizen of this place, in the 81st year of his age. The deceased was born in Philadelphia great without this. We must develope agriculture, mechanics and commerce. When liberty and property are secure then the great object of civil law is to develop industry. The diversity of its industry is the gauge of its prosperity. The mechanic and the farmer should each produce what the other wants, and the exchange of these prowhile yet in Philadelphia, and ever since his should each produce what the other wants, and the exchange of these products should take place near to each other. Then the surplus products of both goes off into the market in its more valuable form. You may attribute your prosperity to the fact that your county is underlaid with coal and iron. This is indeed of greater value than your surface soil. But it is of equal value to your neighbors, for the cost of transportation has been so greatly cheapened by railroads that your coal and iron is as valuable to other places as to you."

We have repeatedly commended the energy in western towns, but as it is in Canton, so it can be in Huntingdon. No town will prosper so long as it does not seek to improve its own resources, and draw from its own material in the manufacture of its own implements. As Mr. Sherman says of a town: "The diversity of its industry is the gauge of its prosperity," and that sentiment should be the motto of the people of every town. One branch of industry alone should. motto of the people of every town. One branch of industry alone should not be cultivated, as that would cause such competition that there would be hence to receive his reward. Like fruit fully line he deem into the arrh and is hid from a ruin in prices; but in diversity there ripe, he drops into the earth and is hid from would be mutuality, and each branch would assist the other in developing the greatest proportion of our resources.
