

The Globe.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, Dec. 8, 1869.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, Editors.

The Globe has the largest number of readers of any other paper published in the county.

A Maine newspaper writer asserts that the citizens of that State have lost at least $1,000,000 by petroleum speculations in Canada and Pennsylvania.

Secretary Boutwell last week refused to sell gold for less than $1.22. The reason assigned is, that the gold gamblers had the precious metal down purposely until Boutwell had sold his weekly installment, then they would have "rushed" it up again; but the Secretary was too sharp for them.

The Government works, at Harper's Ferry, Va., were sold at auction on the 30th of November. For the market value $176,000 was received, and for the rifle factory $80,000. The sale included the buildings, grounds, and the magnificent water power attached to them.

Nearly five years have elapsed since the last rebel ground his arms, and yet there are to-day lying around loose in the various departments at Washington and elsewhere upward of one hundred thousand applications for pensions, the most of which were filed either during or immediately after the close of the war.

"The Ring in this county, known as the People's League, has already given this Legislative district to the Democrats for one year."—Guerrilla Organ.

That's an honest admission, Mr. Cremer—if you keep on improving in the ways of truth, you will soon be able to publish the whole truth,—that Orady is Chief of the League and that your paper is its organ. The medicine "Robert the Sorber" is giving you in small doses is having some effect.

"We have been only a voter for a series of years last past."—Cremer. And because you could not get one of the best offices in the county for giving you a party? And to day, while you are individually enjoying the profits of a fat party office which should only have been given to a true party man, you are continuing your guerrilla efforts to injure the political influence of men who have always labored more earnestly at a greater expense than any of your guerrilla clan for the success of the party.

"The talk between McDivitt of the Journal and Cremer of the guerrilla organ, the Republican, is getting to be very interesting to outsiders, Republicans outside of the guerrilla circle. Their exposures are throwing open to broad day-light what we have always strongly suspected,—the existence of a secret political organization with Orady at its head.

"Parson Brownlow, of Tennessee, one of the 'red-hottest' radical Republicans in the country, and who, some years ago declared that 'he would freeze over before he joined the Democratic party,' has given the lie to all his past life, and committed political suicide, by striking hands with the Democratic party." Such, at least is our intelligence from Tennessee at this writing.

"We can hardly believe, however, that an old man, tottering on the verge of the grave, would so stultify himself in almost his last hours, as to commit an act that would forever brand his name down in history, as an ingrate and an apostate to his party and his country in the very last moments of his life, after that party had given him all that he has and made him all that he is. Go in peace, and may the spirits of the murdered defenders of our country let your soul rest in peace.

Good Looking Figures.

Under the above caption, the New York Tribune so faithfully portrays the financial condition of the country under the Republican administration, as well as the dark forebodings and dismal prophecies of the pro-rebel Democracy, that we make no excuse for transferring it to our columns, for we, too, conclude with the opposition.

Nine months ago the Democratic journals were jubilant with prophecies of the coming bankruptcy of the nation. Ruin of the credit they thought would be equivalent to Democratic success, and they were glad, and made merry in their hearts.

As the Opposition is profound on figures, we offer a few specimens for their consideration. The actual reduction of the public debt since Grant was placed at the helm, is $71,908,525 00. The length of his Administration is nine months; the reduction per month is $7,989,261 00, and for each week, $1,843,080 00; and for each day, $262,421 63; and for each hour, $10,934 23; and for each second 63 04.

Within each interval of the issues of the ever-headed Democratic dailies, with their chronic grovel about Radical waste, the Treasury pays off $202,421 63 of our debt, and in that proportion reduces the interest thereon. While an atrocious editor is dining at the Manhattan Club, four or five thousand dollars of the public debt are canceled; and while he is concocting a leader, showing the hopeless failure of Grant, an equal sum is redeemed.

The debt, less the amount of money in the Treasury, is in round numbers $2,468,600,000. At the rate of reduction since Grant's inauguration, including the abatement of interest, it would be fully paid in less than thirty years. We have, since Grant came in, paid nearly $8,000,000 per month; and there is every prospect that the good work will go on.

"The talk between McDivitt of the Journal and Cremer of the guerrilla organ, the Republican, is getting to be very interesting to outsiders, Republicans outside of the guerrilla circle. Their exposures are throwing open to broad day-light what we have always strongly suspected,—the existence of a secret political organization with Orady at its head.

President Grant hopes to have the Darien ship canal well under way before the close of his administration, and to further this work he has ordered the Secretary of the Navy to detail a sufficient force to make the necessary surveys of the isthmus. No doubt is entertained that the treaty already negotiated will be ratified by the Colombian government, and in view of this fact that government has accorded permission to the United States to cause the requisite surveys to be made.

The Red Wig Standing on Ends.

McDivitt of the Journal & American is after Cremer of the Guerrilla Organ with red hot shot. It appears from the evidence offered by McDivitt and Cremer that both met other Republicans in secret caucus at Cremer's residence after the August nominating Convention for the purpose of making arrangements to defeat a portion of the ticket nominated. But McDivitt could not swallow the "program" and withdrew from any further association with the guerrilla band.

"The National debt was reduced $7,971,454 13, during the month of November. Decrease of the debt since the 1st of March, 1869, $71,908,524 78. No comment is necessary. Figures won't lie."

Albert D. Richardson Assassinated. New York, Nov. 26th.—Albert D. Richardson, the well known correspondent of the Tribune during the rebellion, and the author of "The Field, the Dungeon and the Escape," and also of "Beyond the Mississippi," was shot this afternoon at half past five o'clock, in the publication office of the Tribune, by Daniel McFarland, a member of the bar, the same man who attempted to assassinate his late wife on Amity street.

McFarland came to the Tribune office about an hour before Richardson appeared, and remained in consultation with a clerk behind a desk until his victim had reached the middle of the room, when he rapidly drew a pistol and fired, the ball taking effect in Richardson's abdomen. McFarland then made his escape.

New York, Dec. 2.—Mr. Richardson last month was interrupted by an extraordinary incident. The stings of a swarm of insects infuriated the oxen so that they broke loose to the number of six hundred, rushing in all directions, and knocking down and trampling more than a hundred and thirty people.

A French cattle-fair at Roche-Posay last month was interrupted by an extraordinary incident. The stings of a swarm of insects infuriated the oxen so that they broke loose to the number of six hundred, rushing in all directions, and knocking down and trampling more than a hundred and thirty people.

A rich man who lives near Rio Janeiro is said to keep a large anecdote on his premises, to frighten off ladies and missionaries, who are constantly solicited to pass for charitable and religious purposes.

The managers of the Pacific Railroad are preparing fuel and provision cars to run with every train during the winter, so that in case a train gets frozen in the passengers will not freeze or starve to death.

"Interviewed."

The guerrilla sheet published last week what it says was an "interview" with us—that is, with "Dad." We were "interviewed" a few days before that paper was issued and thought possibly the interview was genuine, but before we had read many lines we discovered it was all "made up"—false from beginning to end.

The Emperor of China is only fifteen years old. The British Columbians have made an appeal for annexation. Madison, Ind., has a lady preacher. She is young and pretty.

Important discoveries of gold have been made near Los Angeles, Cal. A cart load of bats was taken from a garret in New Orleans recently. The Avondale Relief Fund, on November first, amounted to $65,200 01. Win. H. Seward is having a jolly time among the Mexicans.

The revenue from Virginia tobacco will be $3,000,000 greater than last year. General Wool is reported to have left $50,000 for the erection of a monument to his wife and himself.

There are 7000 distilleries in Prussia and in 1868 they consumed 6,700,000 bushels of grain, and 89,000,000 bushels of potatoes. On the Mississippi River, the steamer which makes the fastest trip is entitled to wear the colors of a door upon its pilot-house as a token of supremacy.

The Mormons have begun a very active course of propaganda in New York, and they have even taken the trouble to send an elder all the way from Utah to preach up a "revival."
