WM. LEWIS, } EDITORS.
HUGH LINDSAY, }

"The Globe" has the largest number of readers of any other paper published in the county. Advertisers should remember this.

No PAPER NEXT WEEK.—On account of the holidays and in accordance with the usual custom of toll-week publishers, no paper will be issued from this office next week.

Editorial Brivities.

The Mormon incubus is to receive attention from Congress. The sooner the better.

The temperance party in New Hampshire has issued a call for a State Convention.

Revenue matters on the Pacific coast are said to be in a deplorable state of demoralization.

Ex-Secretary Stanton, it is rumored, is to be tendered a place upon the U. S. Supreme Bench vacant by Judge Grier.

The Senate Postal Committee favor the apportionment of postage stamps among members of Congress as a substitute for the franking privilege.

Governor Geary has recalled the death warrant, which fixed the 22d instant as the day for the execution of Dr. Paul Schuppert at Carlisle. The Governor did right.

A detachment of the Fifth Cavalry has been very successful in destroying a number of illicit distilleries near Jonesville and Cumberland Gap, in Virginia, although they met with resistance.

The amount of new fractional currency in the vaults of the United States Treasury at this date is $1,812,000; amount outstanding, $18,949,913; amount of United States notes, series 1869, of all denominations outstanding at this date, $7,960,000.

Illinois is still the State for divorcees. No man or woman applies for a divorce who is not forthwith published, and everything relative to the marriage relation existing between the couple becomes a matter of public comment.

There was another excitement on the 17th, at the gold room in Wall street, New York. The room was crowded with an excited and surging crowd, and the figures on the gold indicator's dial moved rapidly up and down. At one time the price touched 120 1/2, the lowest point reached since September 26, 1862, lost gold sold at 120 1/2. The "bulls" lost heavily, when Secretary Boutwell accepted the bids, and they were disgusted.

Great speculation is indulged in with regard to our coming Representatives in the Legislature. Will they be pure; will they be honest; will they be brave; are the questions asked. Why is it that there ever was occasion for such questions? It seems no legislator is elected by the people without his character is afterwards open to general remark, and rumor is busy with her slanders, lies and insidious suspicions. How truly can it be said, there is no honor in being elected to the Legislature when your every action is watched by your constituents to see whether you are an honest man. Our Legislature, it appears, has become the crucible to try men's souls, and how many, alas, come out of it corrupted and unrefined. We would that it were otherwise and it will be otherwise, when less bribery is allowed to sneak its way into the halls, and when constituents cease to suspect before the guilt is committed. The people, it is expected, will vote for honest men; but how often is it the case that the "honest" member is accused of corruption before he opens his mouth, or even casts a vote—and yet he may be honest. While such a state of things exists honest men will refuse to go to the Legislature to have their motives impugned, and political tricksters will have the way.

IN DEATH UNDERVIND.—The Richmond Wag says Mr. and Mrs. James Hayes were two of the oldest, most estimable and best known people in Mecklenburg, Va. Thousands who traveled Co's road partook of their genuine "old Virginia" hospitality. Before the war they were prosperous. Thursday, the 28th ult., they were sold out under the bankrupt act. The old gentleman made an unavailing attempt to retain the dear old homestead. None could tell from how cheerful look they both were how keenly the pang of giving it up was felt. But in less than a week, namely Wednesday, November 3d, these two people, born the same year, and that eighty-six years ago, were gathered, on the same day, to an eternal mansion above.

The latest intelligence received from Dr. David Livingstone, the eminent African explorer, states that he has discovered a tribe of negroes living altogether in underground dwellings. Some of these subterranean excavations are said to be thirty miles long, and have little brooks of pure water running through them, in the banks of which the natives live. The people are very dark and well formed. Their expressed history or legends are painted upon wings of birds in hydroglyphics.

At a meeting of the soldiers of the war of 1812 held in Newport, R. I., recently, 23 veterans were present whose united ages amounted to 1675 years, an average of about 77 years each.

THE NATIONAL POSTAGE STAMPS.—The National Bank Note Company are engraving from photographs, for the Post Office Department, a complete set of designs for a new series of postage stamps. The photographs are taken by Brady, from the original statues and busts of distinguished Americans, Franklin, Jackson, Washington, Jefferson, Clay, Webster, Gen. Scott, Commodore Perry and others. On the one cent stamp is the head of Franklin, on the two cent stamp the head of Jackson, on the three cent stamp the head of Washington, on the six cent stamp the head of Lincoln, on the twelve cent stamp the head of Clay, and so on up to the dollar stamp. The stamps are engraved and have been approved by the P. O. Department and by the President and Cabinet. They are larger than the present stamps, are more appropriate and elegant in all respects than any that have been heretofore used. They will be issued in January, and take the place of the present stamps.

The Brookville Jeffersonian, which has been edited for about six months by our genial friend, G. Nelson Smith, Esq., is again under the editorial charge of J. P. George, Esq. The retiring editor concludes a valdictory address to his readers in the following complimentary style:

Of late years I have been studying how to make a fortune in an honest way, but could never hit upon a method of doing so until now. Now I know how. I recollect that some years ago the scientific man of France were speculating and experimenting on an instance of a young man being brought to life after being frozen up for several years on the Alps. The blood of a living man was infused into the frozen youth, and he moved and spoke. The experiment was afterwards tried upon a hare frozen for that purpose, and with perfect success.

Here then is my only remaining card to make a fortune. If I can get away from Brookville in peace and safety, and have one dollar left I will put it out at interest, have my self packed in ice, and remain frozen up until the time when the interest amounts to a fortune. I will then return to administer to the poor descendants of the present rich men of Brookville.

The "distinction of the sexes." Persons of both sexes and of no sex. The age of maturity. Love. Love is eternal. Of divorce. Of courtship. How to choose a husband. Small cousins marry. The wedding night. The dignity and propriety of sexual instinct. Advice to wives who desire to have children. The limitation of offspring. The signs of fruitful conjunctions. How to have beautiful children. Transmission of talent of disease. How to have boys and girls at will. Birth marks, and how to prevent them. Signs of pregnancy. Condemning. Nursing. The change of life. The signs of old age. These, and many kindred subjects of equal delicacy and importance, are handled with such scientific precision, and yet in such an elevated moral tone, that the book has received the highest praise from such distinguished authorities as Surgeon General Hammond, of New York, the Rev. Horace Bushnell, of New England, the Rev. George A. Crooke, D. D., Philadelphia, and many others. The author is a high authority in his profession, and occupies a position in the Jefferson Medical College, of Philadelphia, and his style is throughout chaste and agreeable.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher says of it: "Every mother should have this book, nor should she neglect a child to be married without the knowledge which it contains."

The work is published by subscription only, but any one can have a neatly-bound copy mailed, post-paid, by forwarding the price, $1.50, to the publisher, to whom all who wish to be agents, should write.

"A BLAZE OF BEAUTY."—The Pictorial Phrenological Journal for January, 1870, appears in bright array. A new form, new types, numerous rich illustrations, with sound and sensible reading matter renders this the best ever issued. It contains Hon. S. F. Fisher, of the U. S. Patent Office; Da Lesseppe, of the Suez Canal; President Céspedes, of Cuba; George Peabody, Dr. Theobald, the eminent Biblical Scholar; Portraits of the Kaffir, and Andrian Raccoon, the Progress of Science—Steam, Electricity, Scientific Discovery, Anatomy, Physiology, Medicine, Phrenology; Brain Waves—How thought and sentiment are transmitted; What can I do Best?—The Faces We Meet—What they Tell—An Affair at 7359—The War in Italy—Its—Physiology, Application—Its Culture; Our Agricultural Resources—Productions during the past fifty years; Natural History—Will a horse hair become a snake? The Hedgehog—Illustrated; The Spurge in Origin, growth and uses of Joan of Arc. This favorite Journal has now reached its 60th vol., and appears in a handsome magazine form. We think it will prove even more popular than ever before. Terms, only $3 a year, or 30 cents a number. Now is the time to subscribe for 1870. Address, S. R. WELLS, 289 Broadway, N. Y.

Craik, author of Mildred, Lost and Won, &c., New York, Charles Scribner & Co., publishers, 654 Broadway, $3.00 per annum, or two copies for $5.

Persons in need of School Books for their children, or Primers, Bibles, cards, &c., or miscellaneous Books and notions of all kinds, should call at Wells' Book Store, where they will find a good assortment. Any book of recent publication ordered when desired.

A TYHOON.—An officer of Captain Rowan's flag ship Ullrich, describing a typhoon: "Every few minutes a drizzling rain would strike, and then pass rapidly away. When every-thing was quiet, a low, drizzling, drizzling sound, like the fall of distant thunder, and a low, drizzling sound, at the same time, the barometer falling steadily. At eight o'clock, the next morning it was blowing half a gale from the southeast, and the sky was thick. By noon it was blowing a fresh gale and in a few moments after we were struck by a squall, the like of which I had never seen before. From 12.30 to 2 p. m. the wind increased until a man could not stand on his feet. The typhoon was one of the grand sights. At times the water rose twenty or thirty feet, when the wind would cut it clean-off at the base and take the whole body of water off to the leeward. Our ship rode it out safely, but some of our neighbors came to grief. This typhoon was one of unusual severity, and extended over a space of five hundred miles. Considerable damage was done to the shipping at sea, and one American ship, the Nautilus, was driven ashore and wrecked in the harbor of Yokohama."

A JAPANESE CREUITION.—A Japanese creuition at Yokohama, is thus described: "A man named 'The Godfather' who was to be crucified had been placed on his back on a stout wooden cross prepared for the occasion; he was securely lashed thereto, but not nailed. Then the sentence was read, and two stout men advanced on either side of the condemned man, and he was lifted up by the right side of the doomed man, stuck the point of his spear in a way deliberately, about two inches, and just under the ribs, felt about awhile with it to ascertain that it was all clear and correct. A man of powerful thrust upwards, the head of the spear was sent through until it appeared on the top of the right shoulder. The man on the left side then did likewise. The victim, who was a mere boy, yelled fearfully. He had murdered his wife and three children. A man of the name of 'The Godfather' was thrust through him a third man came forward with a spear and thrust it through the criminal just where he had stabbed his mother. Thirteen times the spear was thrust through his body, and the terrible performance ended.

Another Disaster in Luzerne County.

SEANONTS, Dec. 17.—The engine house of the Jersey coal mine, operated by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, took fire about half past four o'clock on Thursday afternoon. The house was located in the mine, at the end of a tunnel about two hundred and fifty feet long, and at the end of a slope leading down into chambers. Three men were shut in the mine, and it was supposed that they had perished, but they succeeded in getting out safely about two o'clock on Friday morning. A man named John Ward and his wife went into an air shaft to search for the men, was overcome with the foul air and perished. His remains were recovered at four o'clock this morning, after the fire was nearly quenched. He leaves a wife and three children. The engines were mostly destroyed and the damage done will cause a detention of from four to six weeks. The mine was producing two hundred tons of coal per day.

Bravery of a Young Lady.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 17.—Mr. Wilkinson, an acquaintance of mine, was called to Dayton, by the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad, below Mill creek, was carrying a large plank across the track yesterday afternoon, and as the switch engine coming at full speed, he dropped the plank, and in haste to get out of the way, tripped and fell, and would certainly have lost his life had it not been for the heroic conduct of Miss Brown, a young lady, who seeing the perilous position in which Mr. Wilkinson was placed, ran to his aid and, at the risk of her own life, succeeded in dragging him out of the track, and thus saved him from the terrible fate which seemed almost inevitable.

Don't Drink.—Boys, don't drink. It may be fashionable. It may seem to gratify the palate, but it is a mistake, it looks nasty. You may say that Mr. A. and Mr. B. who hold prominent positions in the world, have guzzled for forty years. This may be true. Many moderate drinkers arise to justification, but they reach eminence not on account of this failing, but in spite of it. They would be more esteemed without it. Just look around this city, and see if you can find one man or woman who has been made better or happier by this. You will not find one. On the other hand, you will see wrecks all along the shore. You will see men whose lives are failures solely by drink. It may have commenced in the social circle, where wit and beauty added their charm to the sparkle of the wine. It may have commenced at the "respectable" saloon, in which men are sometimes driven by the mistakes at home. But it too often ends in the lowest and last stage to which fallen men go.

Packard's Monthly loses none of its life and spiritiveness as it grows older. With each number its friends and circulation increase. It owes its great success to the talent employed in writing for it, and to the low rate of a year, but will be in the future $2, and very cheap at that. No one who continued tales are ever found within its covers, but with leaves always opened, it brings to the young men of America the most interesting and instructive food. The third year of this magazine will commence in January, when every young man should subscribe. S. S. Packard, publisher, 937 Broadway, New York.
