The "Globe" has the largest number of readers of any other paper published in the county. Advertisers should remember this.

Editorial Brevities.

THE English bar has a colored lawyer who is a native of Pennsylvania.

A FEW colored citizens of Indianapolis intend erecting a hotel to which white people will not be admitted.

THE Senate has passed a bill to increase the compensation of Assistant Marshals to take the census, fifty per cent.

NEWS is received that a fillibustering expedition is being fitted out against Mexico, of which General Rosecrans is to take command.

WHITTEMORE has again been elected from South Carolina to a seat in the House. There are some doubts whether he will be admitted.

THIS appears to be the age of lightning. Almost every day we pick up a daily and see an account of one or more deaths that have resulted from lightning.

BRICK POMEROY has received the nomination for Congress in the Fifth Congressional District of New York.—He pledges himself to support the Democracy in a red-hot manner.

ONE of the best speeches, and perhaps the shortest on record, was made by U. S. Senator Ramsey, of Minnesota, last week. He said: "Let us quit talking and commence voting." This, and only this, was the speech.

WE advise our readers to read the address of Governor Geary, which we publish in this issue, coming from the chief Executive of the State the notes of warning are well timed and appropriate, and we hope the people will take heed.

THE VICEROY of Egypt, known as the Khedive, is disposed to cut loose from the Turkish Government and set up for himself. He has, it is said, enlisted the co-operation of Russia, and will no doubt be able to accomplish his purpose.

PATERSON, New Jersey, silk manufacturers have sent a delegation to California to examine and report on the silk culture of that State. They believe raw silk can be obtained from that State in sufficient quantities to supply the demand.

A TREATY with England was submitted to the Senate a day or two ago for approval. By its terms the English Government renounces its old doctrine, "Once a subject always a subject," and recognizes the American citizenship of all naturalized natives of Great Britain. Hail Columbia!

We hope our readers will not fail to read the article on the first page entitled "Our Duty and Destiny as a Nation." It is from the pen of a ready writer and clear reasoner, and contains many wholesome truths that should be pondered carefully by the people, especially at this time.

RED CLOUD and Spotted Tail, the Indian chiefs who are being feted in the east by the Government authorities, appeared to be disgusted with the extreme notice they awaken. When savages become disgusted with American composity is it not time to cease?

THE Pope and the Presbyterian Assembly coincide in their condemnation of secret societies. A "Christian Convention" is also to be held in Cincinnati, by those opposed to Masons, Odd Fellows, and the like. We think the church will learn soon enough that opposition to these orders will be of no avail, as now some of the best men in every community have allied themselves with them.

THE saddest event since the death of Lincoln is the death of Charles Dickens, the universally admired author, which occurred at Gad's Hill, near London, on the 9th inst. He was born in 1812, at Landport, England, and was therefore but fifty-eight years of age, which seamed too young for one to die who was so useful in doing good among his fellow men; but the All-wise Ruler of events has deemed it best that his labors on earth should cease, though his works and his teachings will be borne down the tide of time and future generations will revere his memory.

LADIES will be interested in knowing that there are those of their sex who will not be outdone by man in a business transaction. Everybody has heard of the firm of Chaffin & Woodhull, the lady lawyers in New York, but what will they think when we tell them that Madame Demorest (who is the biggest advocate for fashion in America) has invested $500,000 in starting a wholesale tea traffic with China. The teas will be shipped from Canton under her superintendence, assisted by her lady officials. We dont know of any business more suitable for women, and we hope the day will come when they will monopolize the whole tea market.

Brigham Young has challenged Dr. Newman, a distinguished Washington Methodist clergyman, to come to Salt Lake City and discuss Mormonism.—The challenged party is going early in August.

ADDRESS OF GOV. GEARY.

To the Freemen of Pennsylvania.

FELLOW CITIZENS:—In receiving the various testimonials of confidence which have been conferred upon me by the people of my native State, I am deeply sensible of the circumstances under which they have been bestowed, and of the corresponding duties and responsibilities imposed upon me during the fulfillment of my term of the Chief Executive office in your State government. Notwithstanding a heart animated with pure and upright intentions toward the welfare of the commonwealth, and with all the faculties allotted to me unceasingly devoted to its service, I feel deeply conscious that I stand in need of your indulgence, while I thus exercise one of the prerogatives of the position of Governor—to address the people when in his opinion he is justified by circumstances affecting their welfare and interests; and to expect from them an honest, candid and liberal support in return.

With such circumstances now before the people of Pennsylvania, I feel that I would be recreant to my duty, ungrateful to a generous people, and untrue to myself, if I should fail to express to you my opinions upon a subject of public concern which demands from you immediate attention, and prompt, intelligent and independent action.

The inviolability of the Sinking Fund, by which your public debt is to be reduced and finally extinguished, must be maintained against all attacks upon it, whether open or secret! A public debt is not a blessing but an evil!—an evil not to be measured by the amount of the direct pecuniary burden it imposes upon the people, but by its whole effect,—the entire amount of all its consequences. These consequences have been pointed out so fully by the fathers of the republic, and by the most reliable writers upon political economy; and a conviction of them is so deeply impressed on the minds of all reflecting men, that I need not recapitulate them, nor insist even upon their existence.

The State debt must be paid: paid honestly and to the utmost farthing, and as soon as it can reasonably be done—to this doctrine I am irrevocably pledged in every possible manner; and the credit of the State must be kept up to its highest point, in order that this important object may be most readily accomplished. No belief or suspicion of bad faith or of profligacy, on our part, should be permitted to get abroad or to derive the slightest support or countenance from the conduct of our government in any of its branches. It should be understood everywhere that we have an incorruptible and faithful judiciary; a Legislature and an Executive disposed to work together, and to co-operate heartily in maintaining the honor of the commonwealth.

The operation of the Sinking Fund was temporarily interrupted, or rather weakened, by the recent war, but by the blessing of heaven upon the patriotic efforts of the nation the days of peace have returned. There can now be no excuse for diverting from that fund any of the moneys pledged to it by the constitution and the laws, nor for tampering in any manner with its regular administration.

But it is known to you that a bold and daring attempt was made in the legislature during its last session, to invade the Treasury and seize the proceeds of the sale of the public works of the State, deposited there, in the sinking fund, for the use of certain affiliated corporations of this Commonwealth, and that that attempt was defeated only by the interposition of the Executive veto. This was to me an ungracious and unpleasant task, to resist the majority in the legislature composed of Senators and Representatives chosen by you, under the regular forms of the Constitution, presumably for their intelligence and integrity; and it was inexpedient, perhaps, as a question of personal interest and ease, that I should incur the hostility of powerful enemies by the course adopted. But I saw before me the open path of duty, pointed out by the clear words of the Constitution and by my oath of office; and I did not hesitate to treat the subject with the firmness and action which the urgency of the case required.

The bill to distribute the securities in the sinking fund among several newly incorporated railroad companies, and to substitute for them very inferior, if not utterly worthless obligations, was sent to me only on the day next preceding the final adjournment of the legislature, although it had passed both houses about two weeks before. Borrowing time from the usual hours of rest, I was enabled, the next morning, to return the bill with my objections to the House, in which it had originated. There its further consideration was postponed, and no final judgment upon it was pronounced. It stands now among the open questions which may be revived at a future session. It may again be introduced and passed next winter or at any subsequent time, without embarrassment from any prior decision of either House against it. And if the membership of both houses shall be so made up at any time that a two-third vote for the measure can be obtained in each, its enactment into a law will become certain, and the burden of your taxes will be inevitably increased and prolonged.

An executive veto is in the nature of an appeal to the people, to enable them to pass upon controverted question of public policy or safety. Upon a question of this kind, in which every man, woman and child in the commonwealth is interested, this great prerogative of the Executive, conferred by the Constitution, should be fearlessly exercised. Is not this such an occasion? Is not the subject to be considered vitally important? Is it not urgent that you should determine it for yourselves, in the selection of men to represent you in the legislature of 1871?

Be this as it may, this question is in fact submitted for your judgment.—The issue upon it was distinctly and openly made at the last session between the legislature and the Executive, and that issue is now before you for your arbitrament, and you should instruct your representatives, in each and every county in accordance with your wishes and determination upon this important subject.

Should you, by your indifference to the question, or by a careless and uncalculating choice of the persons to represent you in the legislature, encourage and strengthen the combination of men who desire and threaten to invade your treasury, rest assured that the vast fund now sacredly devoted to the payment of the public debt will be seized and carried off.

The nine and a half millions of dollars of securities in that fund, with all the interest to accrue thereon, will be voted away from the people's treasury; the State credit will be prostrated; your taxes will be increased, and your Executive will be impotent to help you. If, on the contrary, alive to your interests and honor, you sustain the appeals sent to you from the Executive Chamber, and you are now about to select your candidates for representatives, you should determine to re-affirm, with emphasis, the command of the Constitution; that "no part of the said sinking fund shall be used or applied otherwise than in the extinguishment of the public debt," you will strike a just, severe and timely blow at corrupt legislation and protect yourselves against grievous pecuniary loss.

The lesson will not be lost. Its salutary effect will be great and lasting. Both for the present and the future it will improve the tone of public morals; repress the unblushing effrontery and corruption of the lobby; curtail the influence of arrogant corporations; and secure the sincere commendation of all good and patriotic men.

The assault upon the treasury, in the passage of the nine and a half million bill, though the most conspicuous example of the evil influences of corporations upon the legislature is not the only one. It possesses pre-eminent importance, but it does not stand alone. Then, fellow citizens, has not the time come for determining the question of title to sovereign power in this Commonwealth? Is that power a rightful and indefeasable estate of the people, or does it reside in incorporated companies created by our laws? Will you, with your eyes open consciously surrender the control over your own representatives, and give your consent that corporations shall decide your laws? Shall your government be pure, patriotic and just, true to yourselves, and true to sound principles of administration; or shall it be the instrument of corporate ambition and avarice, and an object of public jest, ridicule and reproach? Or, in other words, shall corporations supersede the government and become the masters of the people?

And now my fellow-citizens, with this warning, I leave this important subject in your hands; trusting that you will be inspired with the will and the resolution to defend the integrity of your government and to preserve unsullied the credit and the honor of the Commonwealth.

JOHN W. GEARY.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, Harrisburg, Pa., June 6, 1870.

Terrible Fire in Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, TURKEY, June 6—10 p. m.—A fire originated in a suburb of Pera on the Golden Horn, and, unchecked, it sped quickly on its devouring march through the most populous and wealthiest commercial quarter of the district. Mosques, bazaars, dwellings, theatres and other buildings were consumed with terrible rapidity. The scene was of fearful grandeur, presenting the aspect of a huge furnace.

Many of the escaping inhabitants, and numbers of those engaged in tearing down houses to prevent the spread of the flames, were buried under the falling masses of stones and timbers.

There has been no interruption of the terrible destruction, and the conflagration is still raging with unabated fury.

LATER.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 9.—The conflagration in the Pera quarter has been finally quenched. The scene of the disaster is desolate in the extreme, presenting a deplorable spectacle of ruin and ashes and smoking embers.

The number of buildings that have been destroyed by the fire and pulled down to prevent the spread is immense. The loss is enormous. The aggregate amount may be set down at five millions pounds sterling. The work of removing the rubbish and ruins will soon commence. Several bodies of persons killed by falling houses have been removed.

Death of Charles Dickens.

LONDON, June 10.—Last evening at 6:20, while Charles Dickens was attending a dinner party, he was struck with paralysis, and shortly afterwards expired. His death is a terrible shock to the community, being so sudden and unexpected. It has produced a universal gloom throughout this city and the country.

Mr. Dickens was entertaining a dinner party at his house at Gad's Hill. Miss Hogarth, who was seated near him, observed evident signs of distress upon his countenance. She then made the remark to him that he must be ill. To this Mr. Dickens replied, "Oh, no; I have only got a headache; I shall be better presently." He then asked that the open window be shut. Almost immediately he became unconscious, and fell back into his chair insensible. He was immediately conveyed to his room.

His son and daughters remained steadfastly at his decease. The ladies manifested many demonstrations of grief at the sad event, and the scene is described as mournful in the extreme.

DR. H. E. Shafer, editor of the Fulton Republican, was troubled by a loquacious lady, who hailed from this place. He writes:

"At Huntingdon a lady got on the train for East Liberty, ten miles this side of Pittsburgh, and kept up such an incessant chatter about nothing, that one was impressed with the idea that her jaws were gotten up on the perpetual motion plan. So tired did everybody become of her continual talk, that all were heartily glad when the conductor consented to stop at Liberty to let her off. Nothing is more annoying than to have a person sitting behind you who keeps up a continual chattering, when you are so situated that you are compelled to listen to it."

COUGHS, SORE THROAT, ETC.

No medicine or treatment can excel the powerful curative power of

DR. SIMMS'

WHITE PULMONIC BALSAM.

It cures with a rapidity unequalled by any other remedy offered for throat and lung diseases. It is recommended by over 2,000 persons in Wilmington, and hundreds in Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities and communities throughout the country. Mr. Pennington, of Wilmington, Illinois, writes that there is not (with a few exceptions) a family in that city who will be without it if possible to procure it. Such is its popularity wherever it is known—and this popularity arises from the fact that it universally cures all who use it. There is no case of

DRUG STORE.

On the corner, opposite the Exchange Hotel,

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Will have a good selection of drugs, medicines, &c. from reliable druggists, also a great variety of notions, fancy articles, perfumeries, patent medicines, toilet, soap brushes stuffs, groceries, &c., &c.

THE DRUG DEPARTMENT

Will be conducted by Dr. Thos. Johnston, who has been in the practice of medicine for over forty years, which will be a great advantage to those buying medicine for family use, where it is not convenient to employ a physician. Advice given when medicines are wanted. Prescriptions carefully compounded.

Dr. Johnston is a native of this town, and studied medicine under the celebrated Dr. Henderson, whose reputation is well remembered by all old citizens.

Cold sparkling soda water can be had during the summer, drawn from Tufts' celebrated Arctic Fountains, which is now considered the best in use
