And now, my good fellow citizens, you will indulge me in a brief person-ification of this cruel enemy. O Intemperance! thou cruelest of monsters, pause for a moment and number the countless millions of your slaughtered subjects. No class of men has escaped your ravages; you have dragged your victims from our legislative halls and from our senate chambers; you have entered our temples of justice and sent our judges reeling in the streets; you have with Saturnic impudence entered the sanctuary of God, and ruthlessly dragged your subjects from the sacred desk. Thou hast turned earth into such a charnel house that if visited by an unfallen inhabitant of another world,

The barberess placed a mat upon it; then removing the robe from her shoulders began the work upon her hair, flist, until it was 'long tail" was waxed and oiled until it was stiff. It was next flattened out with the hands near the hair and the end gathered around this flat piece in curious curls and fantastic braids, the end fastened with a pin, the face and neck wiped dry with a towel. Then began a process for which I was wholly unprepared. I had not supposed the Japanese to be so near civilized. The barboress took up a little box with a fine bamboo sieve in the end, and after telling the customer to shut her eyes, began to throw (or sin) the fine rice flour (or dust) upon the young lady's face and shoulders. Very soon was brushed off with a feather brush after which a piece of bark of some kind was rubbed on her cheeks until first time a polished piedwof iron or steel, serving for a mirror, was held up before the young lady, who smiled her approval, rose to ber feet, gathered up her dress, and marched proudly off

A letter from Brazil says you will see no potatoes, no corn, no fields of grain nor grass about Rio. The butter used nearly all comes from England, as well as the cheese; the flour mostly from the United States; the potatoes mostly from England. Moats rather than vegetables, are the table staples. Rice and mandioca are used in place of potatoes.

A little boy five years of age, while writhing under the tortures of the ague, was told by his mother to rise up and take a powder she had prepared for him. "Powder! powder!" said he; rising upon his elbow, and putting on a roguish smile, "mother, I ain't a gun!
