WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING.

BY HORACE GREELY.

XXII.

INSECTS—BIRDS.

If I were to estimate the average loss per annum of the farmers of this country from Insects at $100,000,000 per annum I should doubtless be far below the mark. The loss of Fruit alone by the devastation of insects, within a radius of fifty miles from this City, must amount in value to millions. In my neighborhood, the Peach once flourished, but flourishes no more, and Cherries have been all annihilated. Apples were till lately our most profitable and perhaps our most important product, but the worms take half our average crop and sadly damage what they do not utterly destroy. Plums we have ceased to grow or expect; our Pears are generally strung and often blighted; even the Currant has at last its fruit-destroying worm. We must fight our paltry adversaries more efficiently, or allow them to drive us wholly from the field.

Now, I have no doubt that our best allies in this glorious warfare are the Birds. They would save us, if we did not destroy them. The British plowman turning his sod with a myriad of crows, blackbirds, &c., chasing his steps and all, but getting under his feet in their eager quest of grubs, bugs, &c., is a spectacle to be devoutly thanked for. Whenever clouds of birds shall habitually darken our fields in May and (less notably) throughout the Summer months, we may reasonably hope to grow fair crops of our favorite Fruits from year to year, and realize that we owe them to the constant, and zealous, though not quite disinterested efforts of our friends, the Birds.

But I do not regard the ravages of Insects as entirely due to the reckless destruction and consequent scarcity of our Birds. I hold that their multiplication and their devastations are largely incited by the degeneracy of our plants caused by the badness of our culture. On this point, consider a statement made to me, some fifteen or twenty years ago, by the late Gov. William F. Packer, of Pennsylvania:

"I know (said Gov. P.) the narrow valley of a stream that runs into the west branch of the Susquehanna, which was cleared of the private forest some forty or fifty years since, and has ever since been alternately in tillage and grass. A road ran through the middle of it, dividing it into two narrow fields. A few years ago, this road was abandoned, and the whole of this little Valley, including the road-way, thrown into a single field, which was thereupon sown to wheat. At harvest time, this remarkable phenomenon was presented: A good crop of sound grain on the strip four or five rods wide formerly covered by the road; while nearly every berry on either side of it was destroyed by the weevil or midge."

Now I do not infer from this fact that insect ravages are wholly due to our abuse and exhaustion of the soil. I presume that wheat and other crops would be devastated by insects if there were no slovenly, niggard, exhausting tillage. But I do firmly hold that at least half our losses by insects would be precluded if our fields were habitually kept in better heart by deep culture, liberal fertilizing, and a judicious rotation of crops. I heard little of insect ravages in the wheat fields of Western New-York throughout the first thirty years of this century; but, when crops of Wheat had been taken from the same fields until they had been well nigh exhausted of their Wheat-forming elements, we began to hear of the desolation wrought by insects; and those ravages increased in magnitude until Wheat culture had to be abandoned for years. I believe that we should have heard little of insects had Wheat been grown on those fields but one year in three since their redemption from the primal forest.

But, whatever might once have been, the Philistines are upon us. We are doomed, for at least a generation, to wage a relentless war against insects multiplied beyond reason by the neglect and short comings of our predecessors. We are in like condition with the inhabitants of the British isles a thousand years ago, whose forefathers had so long endured and so unskillfully resisted invasion and spoliation by the Northmen that they had come to be regarded, as the sea-kings' natural prey. For generations it has been customary hereabout to slaughter without remorse the birds, and let caterpillars, worms, grasshoppers, &c., multiply and ravage unresisted. We must pay for past errors by present loss and years of extra effort. And, precisely because the task is so arduous, we ought to lose no time in addressing ourselves to its execution.

The first step to be taken is very simple. Let every farmer who realizes the importance and beneficence of Birds teach his own children and friends that, except the Hawk, they are to be spared, protected, kindly treated, and (when necessary) fed. They are to be valued and cherished as the voluntary police of our fields and gardens, constantly employed in fighting our battles against our ruthless foes. The boy who robs a bird's nest is robbing the farmer of a part of his crops. He who traverses a farm shooting and mangling its feathered sentinels diminishes its future product of Grain and nearly destroys that of Fruit. The farmer might as well consent that any strolling ruffian should shoot his Horses or Cattle as his Birds. Begin at home to make this truth felt and respected, and it will be the easier to impress it also on your neighbors.

Next, there should be neighborhood or township associations for the protection of insect-eating birds. We must not merely agree to let them live—we must cherish and protect them. I believe that very simple cups or bowls of cast iron, having each a hole in its center of suitable size, that need not cost sixpence each, and could be fastened to the side of a tree with one naillightly driven, would in time be adopted by many birds as nesting strongholds, whence they might laugh to scorn their predacious enemies. If every harmless bird could build its nest among us in a place where its eggs would be safe from hawks, crows, cats, boys, and other robbers, the number of such birds would quickly be doubled and quadrupled.

And we must summon the law to our aid. Though law can do little or nothing against stealthy, skulking nest-plunderers, it can help us materially in our warfare with the cowardly vagabonds who traverse our fields with musket or rifle, blazing away at every unsuspecting robin crow or thrush that they can discover. Make it trespass, punishable with fine and imprisonment, to shoot on another's land without his express permission, and the cowardly massacre of the farmers' humble allies would be checked at once, and, when public sentiment had been properly enlightened, might, in civilized regions, be arrested altogether.

The Happy Time.

O, the happy time is coming,
When the gospel trumpets sound,
Shall be heard by every nation,
To the earth's remotest bound;
When the vale shall be exalted,
And the verdant hills rejoice,
And the ocean join the chorus,
With a loud triumphant voice.
CHO: Lo, the morning light will break
And the day is drawing nigh,
Yes, the glorious time is coming soon,
We shall hail it by and by.

O the happy time is coming
When the cry of war shall cease,
And the standard of our Saviour,
Be the olive branch of peace;
Underneath our vine and fig tree
We will never be afraid,
There is none will dare molest us,
In their calm and quiet shade.—CHO.

O the happy time is coming
By our fathers once foretold,
It is promised in the bible,
It was sung by prophets old:
They who sit in heathen darkness,
Soon the morning light shall see,
And the world, with songs of triumph,
Hail the glorious jubilee.—CHO.

I am Waiting by the River.

I am waiting by the river,
And my heart has waited long;
Now I think I hear the chorus
Of the angels welcome song,
O, I see the dawn is breaking,
On the hill-tops of the blest,
Where the wicked cease from troubling
And the weary be at rest.

Far away beyond the shadows,
Of this weary vale of tears,
There the tide of bliss is sweeping
Through the bright and changeless years;
O, I long to be with Jesus,
In the mansions of the blest,
Where, &c.

They are launching on the river,
From the calm and quiet shore,
And they soon will bear my spirit
Where the weary sigh no more;
For the tide is swiftly flowing,
And I long to greet the blest,
Where, &c.

Jewels.

When he cometh, when he cometh,
To make up his jewels,
All his jewels, precious jewels,
His lov'd and his own.
CHO.—Like the stars of the morning,
His bright crown adorning,
They shall shine in their beauty
Bright gems for his crown.

He will gather, he will gather,
The gems for his kingdom;
All the pure ones, all the bright ones,
His lov'd and his own.—CHO.

Little children, little children,
Who love their Redeemer,
Are the jewels, precious jewels,
His lov'd and his own.—CHO.

Sweet Hour of Prayer.

||: Sweet hour of prayer :||
That calls me from a world of care,
And bids me at my Father's throne,
Make all my wants and wishes known
In seasons of distress and grief,
My soul has often found relief,
||: And oft escaped the tempter's snare
By thy return, sweet hour of pray'r. :||

||: Sweet hour of prayer! :||
Thy wings shall my petition bear,
To him whose truth and faithfulness
Engage the waiting soul to bless;
And since he bids me seek his face,
Believe his word, and trust his grace,
||: I'll cast on him my every care,
And wait for thee, sweet hour of pray'r.

TO THE LADIES!

The subscribers have recently discovered a new article—the

ESSENCE OF STARCH.

In calling the attention of the ladies to our Starch they will find that it economizes labor, produces a

BEAUTIFUL GLOSS,

Much superior to common starch, and easier to iron. In fact if you want a beautiful gloss on your shirt, or your husband's shirt or collar, procure a box of our Essence of Starch. The cost is trifling, only 15 cents a box.

Try a box and be convinced. Every Family should have a box of the Essence of Starch. For sale by all Grocers and dealers in the United States. Manufactured only by SMITH, HAMMON & CO., sole proprietors, No. 1115 Harmer street, Philadelphia.

☞ For sale at MASSEY & CO'S. Enterprise Headquarters. feb9
