Long years ago a winter sun Shone over it at setting; Lit up its western window panes, 'And low eaves' icy fretting.

It touched the tangled golden curls And brown eyes full of grieving,

When all the school were leaving.

For near hor stood the little boy, Her childish fayor singled; His cap pulled down upon a face Where pride and shame were mingled

Pushing with restless feet the snow To right and left, he lingered;—

As restlessly her tiny hands
The blue checked apron fingered

He saw her lift her eyes : he felt

The soft hand's light caressing, And heard the tremble of her voice, As if a fault confessing.

'I'm sorry that I spelt the word ;

Still memory to a gray-haired man That sweet child-face is showing; Dear girl! the grasses on her grave

GIRLS.

NOT AFTER OLIVE LOGAN.

He lives to learn, in life's hard school,

I hate to go above you, Because?—the brown eyes lower fell— "Because, you see, I love you!"

Of one who still her steps delayed

The feet that, creeping slow to school, Went storming out to playing.

Any wonder "Pa" leaves insipid sweets or "Bob" looks so, wrong training, too, much nonsense—idle dreaming. Your fast woman is another abomination with her "Tell me Muggins did I not look swell? nyment that augurs ill for some Benedict of the future peace. Our city life is too rapid; accidents will and must happen.
Oh! sighed Muggins, what a wet blanket is your literal girl facetiousness is wasted upon her; thermometer 98° in shade, you venture "delightful weather, rather cool, quite bracing; your chair places you in the draft shan't I close the window." "How can you talk so Mr. Muggins, I am so can you talk so Mr. Muggins, I am so very warm, but some people are not affected by the heat;" wonder if she imagined me salamander? Irony, fa-cetia, exaggeration, all lost, accepted literally—what a Tom Pepper reputatation I must have with my literal girl and her confidentials. From the practical Miss Fact deliver me, romance flies affrighted from her presence, she is so practical, so real so tangable, so matter-of fact; the last novel is read, 'no practical benefit from the perusal." Sewing societies, drinking fountains, spiritual light for foreign lands; woman's sphere and future, are some few of her entertaining topics; prime in speech, in look, in action, an animated straight line; a living moving example of Davy Crockett's, "when you know your right then go ahead." I should have to (were she mine,) live in a practical house, in a practical way; make practical speeches, raise practical children, die and be buried in a practical manner. Ugh! I shudder when, our raths cross, I would placard my practical girl, "dangerous" that men might fice and live—alone: Miss Blurt, the frank and outspoken, who abominates people with her hair; you are aware of your auburn locks, and blush for possession. A titter.—
"Oh! my Muggins, present company, you know." Nice girl, pleasant—again, "do you know who that awkward cawky cirl was, who sat next ward, gawky girl was who sat next to you at the Opera, she was redicu-lously absurd, don't you think so?— Ma and I laughed immoderatly at her Girl-definition-A female child or young woman—any young unmarried rapture and sympathy; poor thing: woman.—Any young unmarried woman.
