There is not a par- ticle of doubt in our minds, that the majority of the voters in any ward, borough or town- ship should say whether there should be li- censed hotels or not. It is a question for the tax-payers because they have to foot the bills in the end either in the Courts, Jails or Alms- Houses. Intemperance costs every county in the State of Pennsylvania at least one-third, and we believe one-half, its annual expenses. This looks like exaggeration but it is never- theless true. And under such circumstances, it being a fundamental principle of our gov- ernment that the majority shall rule, why should not the majority of the voters say whether they will have license or not? If they desire to pay for trying men, who get into difficulty through the excessive use of ardent spirits, board them in our jails and alms-houses, let them do so. We are disposed to pay our own way, and do not feel like "ipaying the piper" for anybody else if we can avoid it, and, therefore, will vote against license. We have often thought that some system should be devised, to levy a tax upon men who deal in ardent spirits, to pay all public expenses which en he traced directly to the excessive use of intoxicating drinks. It would materially interfere with the business we have no doubt.	Personal, Jenny Lind will be fifty next October. Hon. A. H. Stephens weighs seventy- four. The parties who live in the imme- diate neighborhood, and, yet, if those very men were asked this hour to subscribe for the newspaper that has made them thou- sands of dollars, they would do, in all pro- bability, what you do, refuse to subscribe. People very frequently complain and say: "Well, these editors don't do any thing for the community. They ought to agitate the matter. We could have furna- ces, rolling-mills, and all kinds of manufac- tories if they would only tell men of capital our resources and our advantages. If I were an editor I would do," thus and so. Yes, you would, indeed ! Editors are only men, and sometimes not the best specimens. Being only human they feel like other por- tions of the "earth earthy," and allow them- selves to be influenced by some very little things. They are generally "poor devils," without any money invested in lands, or any to invest in manufactories, and they feel that they have nothing to make by such a course as you suggest; they feel that you who grumble at them, own all the lands and have the capital, and that you would realize everything, and yet when you offer to pay half-price or say that you can get somebody else to do it for so much less. Ain't this your fit, exactly ? In- stead of not only subscribing and adverti, sing every thing you have, and paying lib- erally therefor, you should encourage every-	the existing evils so universally felt under the present miserable system. There is not a par- ticle of doubt in our minds, that the majority of the voters in any ward, borough or town- ship should say whether there should be li- censed hotels or not. It is a question for the tax-payers because they have to foot the bills in the end either in the Courts, Jails or Alms- Houses. Intemperance costs every county in the State of Pennsylvania at least one-third, and we believe one-half, its annual expenses. This looks like exaggeration but it is never- theless true. And under such circumstances, it being a fundamental principle of our gov- ernment that the majority shall rule, why should not the majority of the voters say whether they will have license or not? If they desire to pay for trying men, who get into difficulty through the excessive use of ardent spirits, board them in our jails and alms-houses, let them do so. We are disposed to pay our own way, and do not feel like "paying the piper" for anybody else if we can avoid it, and, therefore, will vote against license. We have often thought that some system should be devised, to levy a tax upon men who deal in ardent spirits, to pay all public expenses which ean be traced directly to the excessive use of intoxicating withs. It would materially interfere with the business we have no doubt. We wake no war upon the creatures of a vicious and abomniable system, but upon the system iself. Men who engage in a legal business are entitled to the respect which courtesy ex- tends to any man endeavoring to make an honest living. So we respect the man while we doplore his business, and we intend, to the best of our ability, to make his business, now legal, disceputable, and if possible, vote it out of existence. The parties who live in the imme- diate neighborhood, and, yet, if those very men were asked this hour to subscribe for the newspaper that has made them thou- sands of dollars, they would do, in all pro- bability, what you do, refuse to subscribe. People very frequently complain and say: "Well, these editors don't do any thing for the community. They ought to agitate the matter. We could have furna- ces, rolling-mills, and all kinds of manufac- tories if they would only tell men of capital our resources and our advantages. If I were an editor I would do," thus and so. Yes, you would, indeed ! Editors are only men, and sometimes not the best specimens. Being only human they feel like other por- tions of the "earth earthy," and allow them- selves to be influenced by some very little things. They are generally "poor devils," without any money invested in lands, or any to invest in manufactories, and they feel that they have nothing to make by such a course as you suggest; they feel that you who grumble at them, own all the lands and have the capital, and that you would realize everything, and yet when you offer to pay half-price or say that you can get somebody else to do it for so much less. Ain't this your fit, exactly ? In- stead of not only subscribing and adverti, sing every thing you have, and paying lib- erally therefor, you should encourage every- body to do so, and then you could expect to have some claim upon the editor and have him to act in conjunction with you. It is the duty of every good citizen to sup-	the existing evils so universally felt under the present miserable system. There is not a par- ticle of doubt in our mids, that the majority of the voters in any ward, borough or town- ship should say whether there should be li- censed hotels or not. It is a question for the tax-payers because they have to foot the bills in the end either in the Courts, Jails or Alms- Houses. Intemperance costs every county in the State of Pennsylvania at least one-third, and we believe one-half, its annual expenses. This looks like exaggeration but it is never- theless true. And under such circumstances, it being a fundamental principle of our gov- ernment that the majority of the voters say whether they will have license or not? If they desire to pay for trying men, who get into difficulty through the excessive use of ardent spirits, board them in our jails and alms-houses, let them do so. We are disposed to pay our own way, and do not fiel like "ipaying the piper" for anybody else if we can avoid it, and, therefore, will vote against license. We have often thought that some system should be devised, to levy a tax upon men who deal in ardent spirits, to pay all public expenses which ean be traced directly to the excessive use of intoxicating drinks. It would materially interfere with the business we have no doubt. We want it distinctly understood that we make no war upon the creatures of a vicious and abomiable system, but upon the system iself. Men who engage in a legal business are entitled to the respect which courtesy ex- tands to any man endeavoring to make an homest living. So we respect the man while we deplore his business, and we intend, to the best of our ability, to make his business, now legal, disreputable, and if possible, vote it out of existence. This it is our duty to do as a good eitizen and as a well-wisher of the com- munity in which we live. And under such circumstances, it being a fundamental principle of our gov- ernment that the majority shall rule, why should not the majority of the voters say whether they will have license or not? If they desire to pay for trying men, who get into difficulty through the excessive use of ardent spirits, board them in our jails and alms-houses, let them do so. We are disposed to pay our own way, and do not feellike "paying the piper" for anybody else if we can avoid it, and, therefore, will vote against license. We have often thought that some system should be devised, to levy a tax upon men who deal in ardent spirits, to pay all public expenses which can be traced directly to the excessive use of intoxicating which. The parties who live in the imme- diate neighborhood, and, yet, if those very men were asked this hour to subscribe for the newspaper that has made them thou- sands of dollars, they would do, in all pro- bability, what you do, refuse to subscribe. People very frequently complain and say: "Well, these editors don't do any thing for the community. They ought to agitate the matter. We could have furna- ces, rolling-mills, and all kinds of manufac- tories if they would only tell men of capital our resources and our advantages. If I were an editor I would do," thus and so. Yes, you would, indeed! Editors are only men, and sometimes not the best specimens. Being only human they feel like other por- tions of the "earth earthy," and allow them- selves to be influenced by some very little things. They are generally "poor devils," without any money invested in lands, or any to invest'in manufactories, and they feel that they have nothing to make by such a course as you suggest; they feel that you who grumble at them, own all the lands and have the capital, and that you would realize everything, and yet when you are asked to subscribe for a paper, or to insert and pay for a little advertisement, you offer to pay half-price or say that you ean get somebody else to do it for so much less. Ain't this your fit, exactly ? In- stead of not only subscribing and adverti- sing every thing you have, and paying lib- erally therefor, you should encourage every- body to do so, and then you could expect to have some claim upon the editor and have him to act in conjunction with you. advantage of the enhanced value of the land? The parties who live in the imme- diate neighborhood, and, yet, if those very men were asked this hour to subscribe for the newspaper that has made them thou- sands of dollars, they would do, in all pro- bability, what you do, refuse to subscribe. People very frequently complain and say: "Well, these editors don't do any thing for the community. They ought to agitate the matter. We could have furna- ces, rolling-mills, and all kinds of manufac- tories if they would only tell men of capital our resources and our advantages. If I were an editor I would do," thus and so. Yes, you would, indeed ! Editors are only men, and sometimes not the best specimens. Being only human they feel like other por- tions of the "earth earthy," and allow them- selves to be influenced by some very little things. They are generally "poor devils," without any money invested in lands, or any to invest in manufactories, and they feel that they have nothing to make by such a course as you suggest; they feel that you who grumble at them, own all the lands and have the capital, and that you would realize everything, and yet when you are asked to subscribe for a paper, or to insert and pay for a little advertisement, you offer to pay half-price or say that you can get somebody else to do it for so much less. Ain't this your fit, exactly ? In- stead of not only subscribing and adverti. sing every thing you have, and paying lib- erally therefor, you should encourage every- body to do so, and then you could expect to have some claim upon the editor and have him to act in conjunction with you. It is the duty of every good eitizen to sup- port his local paper in return for the ad- vantages he is sure to receive. Good papers are only to be maintained by proper support; and one good paper, gotten up respectably, making a creditable	the existing evils o universally felt under the present miserable system. There is not a par- ticle of doubt in our mids, that the majority of the voters in any ward, borough or town- ship should say whether there should be li- censed hotels or not. It is a question for the tax-payers because they have to foot the bills in the end either in the Courts, Jails or Alms- Houses. Intemperance costs every county in the State of Pennsylvania at least one-third, and we believe one-half, its annual expenses. This looks like exaggeration but it is never- theless true. And under such circumstances, it being a fundamental principle of our gov- ernment that the majority shall rele, why should not the majority of the voters say whether they will have license or not? If they desire to pay for trying men, who get into difficulty through the excessive use of ardent spirits, board them in our jails and alms-houses, let them do so. We are disposed to pay our own way, and do not feel like "paying the piper" for anybody else if we can avoid it, and, therefore, will vote against license. We have often thought that some system should be devised, to levy a tax upon men who deal in ardent spirits, to pay all public expenses which can be traced directly to the excessive use of intoxicating drinks. It would materially interfere with the business whave no doubt. We want it distinctly understood that we make no war upon the creatures of a vicious and abominable system, but upon the system itself. Men who engage in a legal business are entilled to the respect which courtesy ex- tends to any man endeavoring to make an honest living. So we respect the man while we dolore his business, and we intend, to the best of our reader. But any due shiches, now legal, disreputable, and if possible, vote it out of existence. This it is our duty to do as a good citizen and as a well-wisher of the com- perance, there is another feature of the tem- perance question that we desire to look at for moment or two, and then to refer the subject to our readers.
