

Farm and Household.

Sick Rooms—Decision and Quietness.

Consult your patient's wants, but consult him as little as possible. Your decision need not be very obvious and positive; you will be most decisive if you suspect that you are so at all. It is the triumph of supremacy to become unconsciously supreme. Nowhere is this decision tested than in a sick-room. Where it exists in its genuineness, the sufferer is never contradicted, never coerced; all little victories are assumed. The decisive nurse is never peremptory, never loud. She is distinct, it is true—it is nothing more aggravating to a sick person than a whisper—but she is not loud. Though quiet, however, she never makes gestures; all is open and above-board. She knows no show-never creek. Her touch is steady and encouraging. She does not pester. She never looks at you sideways. You never catch her watching. She never slams the door, of course, but she never shuts it slowly, as if she were cracking a nut in the hinge. She never talks behind it. She never peeps. She pokes the fire skillfully, with firm, judicious penetration. She caresses one kind of patient with genuine sympathy; she talks to another as if he were well. She is never in a hurry. She is worth her weight in gold, and has a healthy prejudice against physic, which, however, she knows at the right time how to conceal.

How to Make Farm Life Attractive.

First—By less hard work. Farmers often undertake more than they can do well, and consequently work too early and too late. Second—By more system. The farmers should have a time to begin and stop labor. They should put more mind and machinery into their work. They should theorize as well as practice, and let both go together. Farming is healthy, moral, and respectable, and in the long run may be made profitable. The farmers should keep good stock, and out of debt. Third—By taking care of health. Farmers have a healthy variety of exercise but too often neglect cleanliness, eat irregularly and hurriedly, sleep in ill-ventilated apartments, and expose themselves needlessly to cold. Fourth—By adorning the home. Books, papers, pictures, music, and reading should all be brought to bear upon the in-door family entertainments, and neatness and comfort, order, shrubbery, flowers and fruit, should harmonize all without. There would be fewer desertions of old homesteads if pains were taken to make them agreeable. Ease, order, health, and beauty are compatible with farm life, and were ordained to go with it.

Burns and Scalds.

Dr. Ferguson gives the following recipe, which he has tested in the severest cases of burning and scalding from railroad and steam-boat accidents with invariable success: Glycerine, five ounces; white of egg, four ounces; tincture of arnica, three ounces. Mix the glycerine and white of egg thoroughly in a mortar, and gradually add the arnica. Apply freely on rags, night and morning, washing previously with warm castile soap. The celebrated English surgeon, Mr. Skrey, recommends the application of a solution of nitrate of silver in a proportionate strength, varying from five to twelve or more grains to the ounce, according to the extent or severity of the burn and the age of the patient. The whole surface of the burn should be brushed over with the solution, cotton-wool applied, and a moderate opiate administered in a glass of brandy and water, proportioned to the age and habits of the patient, with the object of counteracting the sense of chilliness that will otherwise necessarily follow in all these cases.

To Revive Faded Black Clothes.

Boil three ounces of logwood in a quart of vinegar, and when the color is extracted, drop in a peice of carbonate of iron, the size of a large chestnut; let it boil five minutes. Have the articles to be restored well sponged with soap and hot water, laying them on the table, and brush the nap down with a sponge. Then take the dye upon the table and sponge them all over with it, taking care to keep them smooth and brush downward. When completely wet with the dye, dissolve a teaspoonful of saleratus in a tea-cup of warm water, and sponge over again with this, which sets the color so completely that nothing rubs off. They must not be wrung and wrinkled, but carefully hung up to drain. The brownest cloth may be made a perfect black in this simple manner. So many people have faded garments that this recipe may be of service in restoring them to a lively color.

The Best Site for an Orchard.

Dodart first observed that trees pushed their branches in a direction parallel to the surface of the earth. If a tree stands on a steep hillside, it pushes both toward the hill and the declivity; but on both sides it still preserves its branches parallel to the surface. The most fruitful orchards and most fertile trees are those planted on a declivity, and the steeper it is, though not quite a precipice, the more prolific they prove. It is well known that the spreading of trees always renders them fruitful. On a plane they incline to shoot upward, and therefore art is employed by skillful gardeners, and applied in various ways, to check their lateral growth. But this point is obtained on a declivity by Nature.

LIMING and MARLING.

As soon as your corn and cat-grass is plowed, if not already sown, it should receive a dressing of either of these; if the land requires it, twice the quantity of marl to that of lime and as before remarked, ten bushels at a time for each acre is sufficient for an application of lime, to be renewed in a year or two. Spread or plow in a liberal dressing of manure between the rows of small fruits. It will pay in the increased quantity from the next crop.

Religious.

Spring and the Sad Heart.

The Spring has come again, the bright Spring, O heart, to the merry voice, To the sweet strains of the warblers sweetly ring, For everything now rejoices: Glad to see the face of the glorious Spring, In the green fields and the flowers, And welcome the joyous Spring again, With its sunshine and its flowers.

The Family Altar.

There are few memories that are so fresh and powerful in after years, as the memories of the household altar. I can travel back over the path of forty years and recall the very tones of my father's voice, as he reverently read the Bible, and devoutly prayed, in the midst of his family. I can remember how he prayed for his children; how faithfully he taught them the lessons of Christian truth and duty in those thoughtless days of youth, and I bless his memory now for what I did not appreciate then. I believe that the memories of Christian parents and the early association of a Christian home, scarcely ever die out of the heart. Rev. Dr. Adams in his beautiful book on "Thanksgiving Memories," gives us the following incident: "In the Cathedral of Limerick there hangs a chime of bells, which was cast in Italy by an enthusiast in his trade, who fixed his home near the monastery where they were first hung, that he might daily enjoy their sweet and solemn music. In some political revolution the bells were taken away to a distant land, and their maker himself became a refugee and exile. His wanderings brought him, after many years, to Ireland. On a calm and beautiful evening, as the vessel which bore him floated on the placid bosom of the Shannon, suddenly the evening chimes pealed from the cathedral towers. His practiced ear caught the sweet sound, and he knew that his lost treasures were found. His early home, his old friends, his beloved native land, all the best associations of his life were in those sounds. He laid himself back in the boat, crossed his arms upon his breast, and listened to the music. The boat reached the wharf, but still he lay there, silent and motionless. They spoke to him, but he did not answer. They went to him, but his spirit had fled. The tide of memories that came vibrating through his heart at that well-known chime, had snapped its strings! And so, sometimes, in after life, when the feet of some wayward man have strayed far away from the home of his youth and his heart has wandered far from his father's God, some memory of the past like the sweet, sad melody of the evening chime may wake long slumbering echoes and stir long scaled fountains; and a father's counsel and a mother's prayers will come up again from the sacred burial places of the past with wondrous power to melt and win the wayward heart. Yes, a family ought to be a little church of Jesus Christ. The father should be its pastor, conducting its daily worship and leading the dear circle in the way of truth and duty. Every tie which binds one living heart to another, should be made stronger and more tender by the influence of a common tie to Jesus. Such a household will have a happy home. Their circumstances may be humble, and their lot may be lowly, but if they have Christ in the family, there will always be sunshine and peace. That house cannot secure the highest domestic joy, which, like the inn at Bethlehem, has no room for Jesus.—Rev. Dr. Rogers.

The Best Mirror.

How natural it is for some persons to stand hour after hour before the mirror that hangs by the wall and ornament their bodies to such a degree that they fall in love with themselves, and begin to think in their hearts, "O how beautiful!" Now the very best mirror I heartily recommend to such people is the Bible. For if they daily stand before this looking-glass they will turn away from it wiser and better men and women. Are you a formalist? Look into this and see your deficiency.—Are you a sectarian? Look and read. "Let brotherly love continue." Are you a dunkard, seceder, or Sabbath-breaker? Look into this mirror and you are condemned. Are you a willing slave to fashion? "The fashion of the world passeth away." And no matter who you are, or how sinful this excellent gospel mirror will show you your true character.—Hence, dear readers, stand constantly before this matchless glass, and never grow tired adorning yourselves with the beautiful gems of holiness and love. Remember the more you prayerfully look into the looking-glass, the more holy you will become; and it is a great deal better to inspect yourself thoroughly on earth than to appear speechless before that God whose penetrating eye will discern the smallest sin spot upon your soul. O! we beseech you to prize this Golden Mirror highly; hang it up in your best room; take it with you where you go; and above all things look into it often, and prayerfully, that you may be a "living epistle, known and read of all men."—Methodist Recorder.

REMISSION.

REMISSION—How may we obtain remission of our sins? Paul answereth, "that the man which is called Jesus Christ, the Son of God hath given Himself for them." These excellent and comfortable words are Promises of the old law that our sins are taken away by no other means than by the Son of God delivered unto death. With such gunshot and such artillery must the Papacy be destroyed, and all the religions of the heathen, all works, all merits and superstitious ceremonies. If our sins may be taken away by our works, merits and satisfactions, what need the Son of God be given for them? But seeing He was given for them, it followeth that we cannot put them away by our own works.—Luther.

THE STATE JOURNAL.

THE WEEKLY STATE JOURNAL. Was established at Harrisburg to supply a want long felt in the State. No effort will be spared to make it an acceptable weekly visitor to the intelligent families of Pennsylvania. It will be devoted to Independent Journalism, will defend and advocate the rights and interests of the people and will assist every effort to advance the religious, educational, moral and social condition of humanity. So long as the Republican party continues to be, as it now is, more than any other political organization, the editor and publisher of the Journal will advocate its principles and defend its policy. The mining and manufacturing interests of the State, and the rights of the laboring man employed therein, shall always be prominent in its columns. National and State measures proposed and enacted for the protection of American industry will ever be argued, advocated, and defended. The latest news, political, commercial, agricultural and social from all parts of the world, will be published weekly. The proceedings of the Legislature throughout the session will be reported fully and promptly, so that the readers of the Journal may know what is transpiring at the State Capital. The Weekly Journal, like the Daily, is a first-class newspaper, thoroughly sound in politics, education, temperance and religion. It is a good agricultural paper, a good educational paper, a good temperance paper, a good religious paper, a good family newspaper. The Journal is published by the "Harrisburg Printing Association," a corporation chartered by the Legislature, and composed of gentlemen of ample means, whose purpose is to publish a first-class newspaper for Pennsylvania. The best talent and the ablest writers have been employed to conduct the affairs, and contribute to the columns of the Journal. Send for specimen copies of Daily and Weekly. THE KIDNEYS.

The Kidneys are two in number, situated at the upper part of the loins, surrounded by fat, and consisting of three parts, viz: the Anterior, the Posterior, and the Exterior. The anterior consists of the substance of the kidney, and is covered by a thin membrane, called the capsule. The posterior is a single tube, and is called the Ureter. The exterior is connected with the bladder. The bladder is composed of various coverings or tissues, divided into parts, viz: the Upper, the Lower, the Nervous and the Muscular. The Upper, expands the lower retains. Many have a desire to urinate without the ability; others urinate without the ability to retain. This frequently occurs in the bladder. To cure these affections, we must bring into action the muscles, which are engaged in their various functions. If they are neglected, Gravel or Dropsy may ensue. The reader must also be made aware, that however slight may be the attack, it is sure to effect the bodily health and mental powers, as our flesh and blood are supported from these sources. Gout, or RHEUMATISM.—Pain occurring in the joints is indicative of the above disease. They occur in persons disposed to acid stomach and chalybeate constitutions. THE GRAVEL.—The gravel comes from neglect or improper treatment of the kidneys. These organs being weak, the water is not expelled from the bladder, but allowed to remain; it becomes turbid and sediment forms. It is from this deposit that the stone is formed, and gravel ensues. Dropsy is a collection of water in some parts of the body and the lower degrees of dropsy, according to the parts affected, viz: when generally diffused over the body, it is called Anasarca; when of the abdomen, it is called Ascites; when of the chest, Pleurisy, or Dropsy of the Lungs; when of the brain, it is called Hydrocephalus. Treatment.—Helmbold's highly concentrated compound Extract Duclou is decidedly one of the best remedies for disease of the bladder, kidneys, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatism and gout affections. Under this head we have arranged Dysuria, or difficulty and pain in passing water; Scanty Secretion, or small and frequent discharge of water; Strangury, or stopping of water; Hematuria, or bloody urine; Gout and Rheumatism of the kidneys, without any change in quantity or increase in color, or dark water. It was always highly recommended by the late Dr. Physick, in these affections. This medicine increases the power of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy exercise by which the watery or calcareous deposits, and all unnatural enlargements, as well as pain and inflammation, are reduced, and it is taken by men, women and children. Directions for use and diet accompany.

The Upper, expands the lower retains. Many have a desire to urinate without the ability; others urinate without the ability to retain. This frequently occurs in the bladder. To cure these affections, we must bring into action the muscles, which are engaged in their various functions. If they are neglected, Gravel or Dropsy may ensue. The reader must also be made aware, that however slight may be the attack, it is sure to effect the bodily health and mental powers, as our flesh and blood are supported from these sources. Gout, or RHEUMATISM.—Pain occurring in the joints is indicative of the above disease. They occur in persons disposed to acid stomach and chalybeate constitutions. THE GRAVEL.—The gravel comes from neglect or improper treatment of the kidneys. These organs being weak, the water is not expelled from the bladder, but allowed to remain; it becomes turbid and sediment forms. It is from this deposit that the stone is formed, and gravel ensues. Dropsy is a collection of water in some parts of the body and the lower degrees of dropsy, according to the parts affected, viz: when generally diffused over the body, it is called Anasarca; when of the abdomen, it is called Ascites; when of the chest, Pleurisy, or Dropsy of the Lungs; when of the brain, it is called Hydrocephalus. Treatment.—Helmbold's highly concentrated compound Extract Duclou is decidedly one of the best remedies for disease of the bladder, kidneys, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatism and gout affections. Under this head we have arranged Dysuria, or difficulty and pain in passing water; Scanty Secretion, or small and frequent discharge of water; Strangury, or stopping of water; Hematuria, or bloody urine; Gout and Rheumatism of the kidneys, without any change in quantity or increase in color, or dark water. It was always highly recommended by the late Dr. Physick, in these affections. This medicine increases the power of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy exercise by which the watery or calcareous deposits, and all unnatural enlargements, as well as pain and inflammation, are reduced, and it is taken by men, women and children. Directions for use and diet accompany.

THE KIDNEYS.

The Kidneys are two in number, situated at the upper part of the loins, surrounded by fat, and consisting of three parts, viz: the Anterior, the Posterior, and the Exterior. The anterior consists of the substance of the kidney, and is covered by a thin membrane, called the capsule. The posterior is a single tube, and is called the Ureter. The exterior is connected with the bladder. The bladder is composed of various coverings or tissues, divided into parts, viz: the Upper, the Lower, the Nervous and the Muscular. The Upper, expands the lower retains. Many have a desire to urinate without the ability; others urinate without the ability to retain. This frequently occurs in the bladder.
