

Farm and Household.

The following beautiful lines from Mrs. Seymour give a lively and truthful picture of life upon a farm:

Saw ye the farmer at his plow, As ye were riding by? Or wearied 'neath the noon day heat, When the summer suns were high;

Destruction of Rats.

Several years ago, we took possession of an ancient mansion, in which the rats reigned supreme. The nights were made hideous to us by their nocturnal rambles and gymnastics.

It is now six years since the coppers whitewash, or rather yellow wash, was applied. Every Spring, crystals of coppers are thrown broadcast about the cellar, and no rats dare show his whiskered head.

Last Autumn our neighbors were sadly troubled with rats; apples, parsnips squashes and potatoes disappeared mysteriously, or were devoured on the spot.

Before this remedy was applied the rats were very bold—had learned not to fear us at all. They were everywhere; and a food coper even dared to make a soft nest in a Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine.

The coppers are an excellent disinfectant; no better can be found for purifying old cellars, drains, vaults, &c. It is used every spring to sweeten the milk cellar, and a saucer of it always sits in the wash-stands and sinks.

For Flies on Horses.

The Journal of Chemistry gives the following as a preventative of horses being teased by flies: Take two or three small handfuls of walnut leaves, upon which pour three quarts of cold water.

The influence of light upon plants.—The influence of light upon plants has always been well known, and recently some experiments made in France give us some further knowledge of its influence in its less obvious phases.

For the Little Folks.

The Right Kind of a Boy.

Tom dropped a large, fine red apple out of the front window, which rolled pretty near the iron railing between our grass plot and the streets.

"Oh! my," cried one, "see that bounce of an apple! let's hook it!" The other boy urged him with a whisper, "Shut up! the folks are looking," and on they went.

A little girl next passed. She spied the apple, and stopped, looking very hard at it, then put her hand through the rails and tried to reach it; her fingers just touched it, she looked around, a man was coming down the street; the girl withdrew her hand and passed on.

A ragged little fellow passed by soon after. "That boy will grab the apple," I said to myself, peeping through the blinds.

His bright eyes at once caught sight of it, and he stopped; after looking at it a moment he ran across the street, and picked up a stick, he poked the stick through the rails and rolled the apple near enough to pick it up.

"Who is Mr. Curtis?" he asked. "Oh!" said he, "it isn't mine."

"It was almost in the street," I said, "where it would have been hard to find the owner."

"Almost is not altogether," replied the boy, "which Mr. Curtis says makes all the difference in the world."

"Who is Mr. Curtis?" "My Sunday school teacher. He explains the eighth commandment, and I know it; what is better, I mean to stick to it. What's the use of knowing unless you act up to it?"

"Will you please take the apple?" I said. "I am glad you brought it in, for I like to know honest boys. What is your name?"

He told me; I need not tell you, only I think you will agree with me that he is the right kind of a Sunday school scholar. He squares his conduct by the faithful Christian instruction that he gets here.— Youth's Cabinet.

A Beautiful Allegory.

Once on a time a little leaf was heard to sigh and cry as leaves often do when a gentle wind is about. And the twig said: "What is the matter, little leaf?"

"The wind," said the leaf, "just told me that one day it would pull me off, and throw me to the ground to die."

The twig told it to the branch and the branch told it to the tree. And when the tree heard it, it rustled all over, and sent word back to the leaf: "Do not be afraid, hold on tightly and you shall not go off till you want to."

And so the leaf stopped sighing, and went on singing and rustling. And so it grew all summer long till October. And when the bright days of autumn came, the leaf saw all the leaves around becoming very beautiful. Some were yellow and some were scarlet, and some were striped with colors. Then it asked the tree what it meant. And the tree said: "All these leaves are getting ready to fly away, and they have put on these colors because of their joy."

Then the little leaf began to want to go, and grew very beautiful in thinking of it. And when it was very gay in color, it saw that the branches of the tree had no colors in them and so the leaf said: "O, branch, why are you so lead-colored and we golden?"

"We must keep on our work clothes," said the tree, "for our work is not yet done, but your clothes are for a holiday, because your task is over."

Just then a little puff of wind came, and the leaf let go without thinking of it, and the wind took it up and turned it over, and then let it fall gently down under the edge of a fence among hundreds of leaves, and it never waked to tell what it dreamed about.

Robin Red-Breast.

A little robin red-breast built her nest in one of the shady trees just in front of the house of Mr. S. Soon four little robins filled the nest. Day after day the mother fed them, and seemed to love them very much. She used to sing them such nice little songs, and sometimes they could believe she was telling them pretty stories about the beautiful green fields, where she was going to take them as soon as they could fly.

One day Mr. S.'s house caught fire; the tree was so near the house that all said the nest, and the little birdies in it, would be burned up if they did not fly out. Yes, the old bird saw it; but her little children were not quite old enough to fly. The mother worked fly to the nest, and then start off, and seemed to say, "Come, come; try to fly, or you will perish." But her little ones could not fly.

At length she saw it, and what do you think she did? You will hardly believe me when I tell you; but it is quite true; she seemed to think that if she could go and put her wings over her little chicks it might keep off the fire, and save them. But whatever she thought, I will tell you what she did. She took her place upon the nest, and covered them all up, and in a few moments the flames grew so hot that her and her little ones were all burned alive. But do you think that robin loved her little ones as much as Jesus has loved you? Did she do as much for them as He has done for you? Oh, no, no, no. Jesus has loved you more than all the world together.

NEVER attempt to form an opinion of a woman by her sighs. Be good boys and girls.
