Milking-Time.

- When shadows lengthen on the plain,
 And leaves are scarlet in the sun;
 When cows are lowing in the lane,
 And coming homeward one by one;
 When mists are tangled in the trees
 That overhang the river's bank:
 And farmers chat and take their ease,
 And shining pails go "clink and clank."
 That's milking-time.
- When puss and Fido linger round,
 And run beside the dairy-maids;
 When circling swallows skim the groun
 And on the eves make sudden raids;
 When rosy girls a ditty sing,
 And squirrels hide in leafy home;
 And crosswise jets go "ping and ping."
 And pails are heaped with creamy fo
 That's milking-time.
- When little ones are tired with play,
 And in the corners blink and nod;
 When katydids are loud and gay,
 And wetted grows the chiliy sod;
 When stars are few and faintly glow,
 And waking fire-flies gather fast,
 Like drifting flakes of golden snow—
 It's hey for home; the hour is past
 For milking time!

Varnish for Shoes.

It is a bad plan to grease the upper leather of shoes, for the purpose of keeping soft. It rots the leather, and admits dampness more readily. It is better to make a varnish, thus: Put half pound of gum shallack broken up in small pieces in a quart bottle or jug, cover it with alcohol, cork it tight and put it on the shelf, in a warm place; shake it well several times a day, then add a piece of camphor as large as a hen's egg, shake it well, then in a few hours shake it again, and add one ounce of lampblack. If the alcohol is good, it will all be dissolved in three days; then shake and use. If it gets too thick, add alcohol. Pour out two or three tea-spoonfuls in a saucer, and apply it with a small paint brush. If the materials are all good it will dry in about five minutes, and will be removed only by wearing it off, giving it a gloss equal to patent leather. The advantage of this preparation over others is, it does not strike into the leather and make it hard, but remains on the surface, and yet excludes the water almost perfectly.

The same preparation is admirable for harness, and does not soil when touched, as lampblack preparations do.

Weight of Hay.

In the mow or stack the weight of, say five cubic yards of hay, is very variable. It depends upon, coarseness, fineness, dampness, dryness, and numerous other conditions, as well as upon the height of the mow, and the consequent increase of pressure. Col. Waring, whose Handy Book of Husbandry we have had occasion to commend, says that in a mow ten feet deep, put up in good order, the hay, not too ripe when cut, ought to average one ton to each 525 cubic feet. The compression, of course increases rapidly with the height of the mow, and if the depth is fifteen feet in-increases rapidly with the height of the mow, and if the depth is fifteen feet instead of ten, it is likely that 475, or even 425, cubic feet would weigh a ton. All such guessing is, however, very hazardous and the only really safe way is to buy and sell by actual weight. Col. Warving adds 'perhaps it would be a safe formula to say, sell at 400 cubic feet, and buy at 600 cubic feet," but we are not inclined to agree with him.

Curing Pork.

It has been ascertained by chemists that scurvy will never arise from the use of salt provisions, unless saltpetre be used in curing; that salt alone answers the purpose, provided the animal heat be entirely parted with before salting. The pork should be rolled thoroughly with dry salt after it has entirely parted with before salting. The pork should be rolled thoroughly with dry salt after it has entirely parted with its animal heat, and before decomposition or taint commences around .he bone. The fluid running from the meat should be poured off before paching the provision of the port of the provisions of this section: Provided the next relation or taint commences around .he bone. strong brine, not water, should be added. Great care should be taken to fill the barrel entirely full, so that no portion of the meat can at any time project above the surface of the fluid, for it will become tainted and spoil the whole.

Dried Peach Sauce.

The richest and best dried peaches, are those that are dried with the skins on. The skins (however thick,) entirely dissolve in cooking, and become imperceptible when the fruit is well stewed. It is great error to pare peaches for drying. Apples must be pared, for the skin is tougher than that of peaches, and does not dissolve in cooking.

To prepare dried peaches for stewing, pick them over carefully, throwing away all the imperfect pieces. Wash them in WHOLESALE MANUFACTORY two cold waters, and then put them into a stew-pan, (adding no water), and stew then till they are quite soft and shapeless, and BOOTS AND SHOES, mash easily and smoothly in the pan. Sweeten them with plenty of brown sugar as soon as they come off the fire.

Pumpkin Indian Cakes.

Take equal portions of Indian meal, and stewed pumpkin that has been well mashed and drained very dry in a sieve or cullender. Put the stewed pumpkin in a pan, and stir the meal gradually into it, aspoor fui at a time, adding a little butter as you proceed. Mix the whole thoroughly, stir ring it very hard. If not thick enough to form a stiff dough, add a little more Indian meal. Make it into round, flat cakes, about the size of a muffin, and bake over the fire on a hot griddle greased with butter. Or lay them in a square iron pan, and bake them in an oven.

Send them to table hot, and eat them with butter.

SCRAMBLED Eggs .- Put into a spider enough butter just to oil the bottom; set it on the stove. Break the eggs into a dish, taking care not to break the yolks. As soon as the spider is heated, slip in the eggs, add a piece of butter as large as a walnut for twelve eggs; season with a very little salt and peoper. When the rery little salt and pepper. When the eggs harden a little, stir the eggs from the bottom of the spider until cooked to suit the family. The yolk and whites should be separate, though stirred together—not mixed, like beaten eggs.

A RIVER BOTTOM FARM AT PRIVATE SALE.

The subscriber, on account of ill health in his family, will sell his farm, situated in Porter township, adjoining Barree Station, on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, at private sale.

The farm consists of about one hundred acres of farming land in the highest state of cultivation, about fifty-five hundred bushels of lime having been used upon it within the last four years. The buildings comprise a good two-story frame dwelling house, a bank barn, wash-house and other necessary outbuildings. There is a very fine young orchard of choice fruit upon it, also a well of never-failing water near the door. The property is a very desirable one ewing to its proximity to the railroad, churches and schools.

Terms: One third in hand on the first of April next and the balance in two equal annual payments to be secured by judgments.

Having gone into business at this place I propose to sell my private residence at Bedford, Pennsylvania, say for me to give a description of it to those who have not seen it, and who desire to purchase a neat and complete residence I would say go and examine it. The house was entirely overhauled and renovated but a year or two ago. It is located upon a full lot of ground, 60 feet by 240, on East Pitt street, and the corner of an alley leading to the Steam Mill, which makes it one of the most public places in the town in a business point of view. The lot is under drained by numerous drains, and is second to none in the place. It has produced all the garden vegetables used by my family for years. In addition there is a flower garden and a considerable quantity of excellent fruit. There is a propertual insurance upon the house.

but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing, Sure. In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented), are here enumerated.

It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours' practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting I it is always ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old plan of the rub most claborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old plan of the rub board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the ablution of any fabrie, from a quilt to a Lace Curtain or Cambrie Handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of this little Gem? It can be fastened to any tub and taken off at will.

No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleansing efficacy and utility are banished, and the doubter and detractor at once become the fast friends of the machine.

We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from human the companion of the machine. We have testimonials who wignally failed the complish the object promised in prominent and loud-sounding advertisements.

It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price is another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper, and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.
