abuses of the Sabbath school was that it was made a singing school. He finds in many schools the great thing is the singing. He did not think that was right.

Mr. Dunn, of Huntingdon, said he thought one of the great abuses was in the literature of our schools. Many books in the libraries are not all appropriate; they are injurious, filling the mind of children with worthless stuff. He also thought much of the music was inappropriate; the sentiment of the songs should be devotional.

Mr. J. A. Brown, of Huntingdon, thought that the majority of the hymns in our popular Sanday school books were just as appropriate as those in the Church hymn books. He thought books should be selected with care, and then used judiciously. He thought lesson papers were a help to the school, and should be used as an aid to the Bible, and there is no necessity in having the papers dive the Bible out.

Rev. Mr. Palmer said he could not agree with Rev. Wilson, in saying the lesson papers were an abuse. He believed them to be a bleesing. It is a great help in his own school ground most of the time, and they are glad to have the help of the lesson papers. He thought another man's sense was better than his nonserse. He liked the lesson papers, he chopyed them; and let us have the Bible along with them.

Mr. Zahniser said the great abuse of the Sabbath schools is the transferring of the responsibility from the parent. He believed the Bible in toused at all.

Mr. 2-2-2-Decement thought that it was an abuse on the part of the parents that smould be attended to. He thought one great abuses in our schools was in the length of the exercises of long payarys, long passages of scripture, long hymns, are all abuses.

Rev. Foster, of Huntingdon.

The business committee reported the exercises of the evening.

How shall we best secure order in the Sunday school? was answered by Rev. John Palmer, and was followed by Mr. Grafflus, of Petersburg, and others in short remarks.

The next question—Is it right to expel children from the school because they do not obey the rules—was opened by Mr. Hare, who thought that all rules in the Sunday school should be simple. The Bible contains the great rules—many children are no. so trained by their parents to obey—and should not be expel ed. The superintendent and teacher should exercise a kind spirit.

The question, Should children be taught self-esteem in the Sabbath school, was answered briefly in the negative by Rev. J. D. Brown.

The question, Should children be rowarded in Sabbath school being the nursery of the church, what is the relation of the Pastor to it? was answered by Rev. J. Plannet, of Huntingdon. The relation is the same as that of the Pastor to the church That Pastor is criminalwho will permit any one sot as teacher who would object to him in presenting truths to his congregation.

He was followed by Mr. B. F. Brown, who read from last year's proceedings the resolve of ministers, &, to be more carnet and active. There are many Pastors in the county who, notwithstanding this resolution, lave not visited their schools four of ve times during the year.

Rev. Wilson said that there was something before the resolution referred to, and that is the teachings of the Savior.

The question, What is the best arrangement for a Sabbath school room? was answered by David Blair, Esq., who said there ought to be a platform for Superintendent and officers, and he would have chairs instead of benches; some adopted sofas, prompt attention. 27mar.

Mr. B. F. Brown thought in squeezes non-pro-fessors should be used as teachers. There are some such who love children, and are adapted to teach, and there are classes often in want of teach-ers. Should not such persons be used? Mr. Hare said he had employed persons not christians with success; he thought the most suc-cessful teacher is the one who best prepares him-self, who is studious and attentive, one who is al-ways at his post. Rev. Kistler said teachers should not be discour-ared; it takes vears and vears to become fully sun-gred; it takes vears and vears to become fully sun-

Rev. Kistler said teachers should not be discouraged; it takes years and years to become fully successful. He must not be satisfied until his children are converted to Jesus.

Mr. Hopkins thought our conduct must be consistent with our teaching; they are the most successful who are very careful in their conduct.

Mr. Owens said the first essential is piety. He must have love for God and man. He must also have intelligence.

Rev. Palmer said that all the qualifications to success lie in a love for the work, and it was a question for consideration whether an unconverted man could love the work.

success lie in a love for the work, and it was a question for consideration whether an unconverted man could love the work.

Mr. Glasgow said it should be agreed that to be a successful teacher one must be a true christian; they should use their influnce both at home and abroad. We must show our pupils we are sincere. Rev. Wilson said personal piety was something we know little about. He would judge a man by his works; he would judge of a teacher from his ability to held his class. Neither would he make great learning an essential. Some knew too much to teach chil ren. One should sympathize with his children, binding heart to heart.

Rev. M. K. Foster said he did not know that the only object of the Sabbath School was the conversion of the children. There is something after that. Teachers should be adapted to different classes.

Rev. Brown said the great difficulty in India was o get teachers to teach religion, and that to teach eligion anywhere one must have religion.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The children's session was held at 2 o'clock on the Court House lawn. It was attended by the Sabbath Schools of Huntingdon. The bright day, one of Nature's best, and the glad faces of the children presented a joyous seene. The attendance was good. The children were addressed by Rev. Kistler and Rev. J.D. Brown. The little ones were evidently pleased with the exercises, and the addresses were listened to with interest.

After children's meeting, opened by singing and prayer.

The question for discussion, It is a deplorable fact that scholars at the age of sixteen or seventeen deem themselves too old to attend Sabbath school. Can some means not be suggested to prevent this? was opened by Rev. S. M. Moore, of Tyrone, who thought there should be Bible classes formed of different persons and degrees of advancement. He longed to see the day when he would see the schools lilled not only with the young but the old and middle aged.

Rev. Brown thought it was all a matter of education: in other lands, the old and young both at cation; in other lands, the old and young both attend, and if our Sabbath schools have been wrongly educated it should be corrected. Sometimes, then, the schools are made too childish to some.—
Let us make our schools interesting for old persons.
Mr. Owens said he agreed with Mr. Brown. He thought we needed older teachers to hold those of the ages named. The children followed the examples of the parents, hence the parents should attend the school.

thought we heece other teachers to hook mose of the ages named. The children followed the examples of the parents, hence the parents should attend the school.

Rev. Plannett said that our Sabbath Schools have been too much adapted to the capacity of the two looks, candry, &c., and when boys grow to the national state of the children of the children of the children of the children of the schools, candry, &c., and when boys grow to the national state of the children of the children as the Bible (patting a way the children that the children of the children have the sist to regard the children as the Bible School. He believed this to be the original idea of a church. The church should meet to study the Bible, and when this is done there will be no difficulty in keeping the advanced children in the schools.

Mr B F Brown said the remedy was that adopted by a model teacher. One whose class is composed of youth sixteen to seventeen years of age. She has scholars who have been regular for four or five years, since its organization. The school is continued during the year. If the scholars are absent she sees them and finds the cause; the consequence is they are regular. He thought too much was adapted to the children, even the prayers, the exercises should be adapted to others.

Mr Zahnizer thought one reason is that some scholars outgrow their teacher; the Superintendent should transfer such to other classes. There ought to be graduated classes in the schools.

Mr Orbison said it would be difficult to put into practice the changing of classes; what we need is a better education in this matter. He thought it was the place of the preacher so to teach that the older members of the congregation should take part in the school. He cited the example of Bellefonte school as one to be intimated. There, classes are composed of the old, as well as the young.

Mr Fulford, of Clearfield, thought the work was not a human one, but God's work; the important matter is to train the child right early, have the heart right, and when that

THURBDAY EVENISG.

The convention assembled at 7½ o'clock, and after singing and prayer, the following gentlemen delivered addresses: Wm. Porbison, Esq., subject,
"What are the political benefits of the Sabbath school?" Rev. Wm. Barr, The Joy of the Teachor, and Rev. S T Wilson, What is our Work. After a few remarks from the chairman, the convention adjourned.

The weather was delightful both days of the convention; the attendance was very large and great interest and carnestness in the work was manifested by all who participated.

The Committee on Music deserves credit for the manner in which they discharged their part in adding to the enjoyment; and the Committee on entertainment were prompt to provide accommodations for all who desired.
