term" party. The almost universal rule has been to give a man two terms, if he be at all deserving. If any one is deserving Gen. Lane is. Persons who visited Harrisburg during the session of the Legislature tell me that he was always to be found at his post; that while attending well to all local legislation deserving attention, he took part in the making of needed general laws, and worked for the right in opposing or favoring the passage of bills affecting other parts of the State, often defeating the deeply laid schemes of unrighteous corporations or scheming lobbyists. He soon came to be acknowledged as one of the leading members. When he rose to speak he was listened to with marked attention; and he seldom failed to bring a majority of the House to agree with him. It was not long until he was flooded with letters from all parts of the State desiring his indusence in favor of or against the passage of different bills; and, from a careful reading of the proceedings of the Assembly, I believe he did not advocate or oppose the passage of any act without first examining into its merits and feeling that he was in the right in doing so; and further I do not believe, nor hare I heard any one ever surmise, that for his services there he ever received or would have taken a dollar outside of his salary as a member. I say again that I would like to see him re-nominated; and the majority of the voters of Huntingdon county will ratify his nomination if made. Let us firmly establish and continue the two-term rule, and at the same time give our support to an honest, capable and deserving man.
